Results of War 'Pleasing,' President Johnson Insists

Criticism 'Goes With Job' – LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that criticism is "one of the things that goes with the job" although he thinks "we have perhaps more than our share sometimes."

Johnson also told a news conference that his Vietnam commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, anticipates no increase in the troop level there. But he didn't say specifically when he thought a phase-out of troops could start.

To a request for a current appraisal of the way he looks at things—the most satisfying and the worst things he has experienced, Johnson replied at first that if he went into that he would be charged with filibustering.

'Revolutionary Strides'

But he went on to say that: "We have made revolutionary strides in education and health and conservation."

Johnson turned the conference into an ad lib address to the American people on Vietnam.

Removing his glasses and stepping away from the podium which held his notes, Johnson spoke for more than five minutes on the central issue of U.S. politics—the Vietnam war.

Standing before newsmen in the White House East Room, Johnson was on the dramatic side, gesturing more than usual, clapping his hands for emphasis, and bobbing his head around.

Smilingly, Johnson said he will cross when he comes to it the bridge of decision on running again for the presidency. He had been asked about surveys indicating he might be in trouble on Vietnam.

Serious Mistake

Anyone who believes that Uncle Sam, whoever is president, is going to pull out of Vietnam, is making a serious mistake, the President said.

If Ho Chi Minh has any doubts about it, "I want to disillusion him this morning," Johnson said. "We're going to keep our commitments."

Johnson was asked about the economic situation.

"We want very badly to have a tax bill just as quickly as we can get it," he said, adding that there is no indication that the House Ways and Means Committee plans to report one this year.

One of his administration's failures, he said, has been the inability to convince Congress of the need for a new tax bill.

"I think that's one of the great mistakes the Congress will make," he said, saying that Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, "will live to rue the

Sees No Further Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today "we are pleased with the results we're getting" in the Vietnam war. He also said his military commander "anticipates no increase" in the previously authorized U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

As for calls for a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson told a news conference, Hanoi's own response has shown that stopping the air attacks alone will not bring the Reds to the negotiating table.

He said Hanoi's rejection of his latest offer of peace talks—made last weekend aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise—had been "clear and complete." That should answer the question of every person in this country who thinks a bombing halt alone will accomplish this end, he said.

'Hopeful People'

"There are some hopeful people and there are some naive people and there are some political people" who advocate a one-sided bombing suspension, but such proposals just "confuse and weaken our position," he said.

Reporting on his current talks with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. William C. Westmoreland—both back from Saigon for consultations—Johnson said:

"We are making progress. We are pleased with the results we're getting. We are inflicting greater losses than we are taking."

Johnson said the American people are impatient in war or in a football game, and want the action to build up quickly and the enemy to be defeated rapidly. He swung his arms wide, using his hands to indicate how the progress toward a quick victory might be shown on a chart.

Slower Tempo

"But it's not that kind of a war we're fighting in Vietnam," Johnson said, indicating that its tempo is much slower.

"In 1954 we said we'd stand with those people out there to meet the common danger," Johnson said. "The time came when we had to put up or shut up. We put up."

Johnson said that he had discussed the troop problem Thursday night with Westmoreland. He then recalled that he had previously considered and approved what he called "recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for the force level in Vietnam."

"Gen. Westmoreland," Johnson said, "tells me that he anticipates no increase in that level."

Wants Speedup

The buildup to 525,000 men is supposed to be accomplished by mid-1968, but Westmoreland has been reported seeking a speedup to maximum strength before that time.

As of last Saturday, the American troop strength in Vietnam reached 470,000 men, only 2,000 short of the peak U.S. strength in the Korean war 14 years ago.

Congressional sources quoted Westmoreland Thursday as being optimistic about the war's progress and as believing a troop reduction may be possible within two years. But he indicated no early end of the fighting is in sight.

Strategic Hill Seized by GIs

SAIGON (AP) — Driving through a murderous blaze of North Vietnamese machine gun and small arms fire, U.S. infantrymen late today seized the top of a strategic hill overlooking Dak To, in South Vietnam's central highlands.

AP Correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the battle scene that soldiers of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division "occupied the topmost point of the hill around 5 p.m. (4 a.m. EST) after some of the bloodiest fighting" in the two weeks of heavy combat in the area close to the Laotian and Cambodian borders.

The air war against North Vietnam also intensified as, for the second straight day, another target came off the Pentagon's off-limits list. U.S. Air Force pilots made the first attack of the war on a secondary airfield one mile south of the center of Hanoi and reported they cut the runway and damaged buildings.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported from Hanoi that several U.S. bombs exploded in the center of the North Vietnamese capital, one of them in the diplomatic quarter.

Arnett said the 4th Division troops took Hill 1338 after day-long fighting against an enemy battalion in bunkers on the crest of the hill.

Arnett reported U.S. com-

Kenosha Bank Robber Is Slain

SILVER LAKE, Wis. (AP)— One of two gunmen was shot to death in an exchange of gunfire with a Kenosha County deputy today shortly after the Silver Lake State Bank was held up.

The second gunman, believed to be carrying a .45 caliber pistol and a Luger, fled into a nearby gravel pit area. All available Kenosha County officers and an airplane were pressed into the search.

Deputy Sheriff Gerald Van Patten was grazed on the head by a .45 caliber bullet during the gunfire exchange but was not wounded seriously and remained at the scene.

$14.9 Million Approved

Knowles Gets His School Aids

MADISON (AP) — Republican assemblymen have handed Gov. Warren P. Knowles his $14.9 million emergency school appropriation after beating down Democratic attempts to increase the aid.

GOP lawmakers rejected 17 Democratic amendments to the bill Thursday before giving the measure final passage and adjourning until Dec. 5.

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, acting governor in the absence of Knowles, signed the measure into law within minutes after it cleared the lower chamber.

The bill was offered by Knowles recently in the face of a threatened teacher strike in Milwaukee and amidst reports of violence in Milwaukee's troubled Inner Core.

Included in the increase is a $10.2 million appropriation in school aids; direct school aids totaling $4.75 million for Milwaukee, and $1 million in other Inner Core programs.

Local Taxes

The bill authorizes municipalities to impose hotel and automobile registration taxes. The city of Milwaukee is authorized to increase its tax rate for school purposes by stages in the next three years, from the present $13.50 per $1,000 of property valuation to $17 in 1970.

Seven hours of heated debate, which extended back into an abbreviated night session Wednesday, preceded Assembly adoption of the bill.

Left by the lawmakers for the December session, their third of the year, were such bills as highway safety, county chargebacks and revisions of state election laws.

Lawmakers engaged in bitter debate about new and expanded programs for schools.

Republicans contended there was no money left in the current $1.1 billion state budget to finance new programs.

Minority leader Robert Huber, D-West Allis, took Knowles to task for proposing a mill rate increase for Milwaukee and for his absence from the state during the financial squeeze.

Knowles, who is in the Far East heading a Wisconsin trade mission, was described as "Wisconsin's answer to Marco Polo."

"He apparently doesn't give a hoot for the property taxpayers of the Milwaukee area," Huber said. "What he has done is leave a trail of fractured property taxpayers behind him."

Huber described Republican lawmakers as legislative "quack doctors" who are "going to make a sick city violently ill."

Majority leader J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, countered that Milwaukee should shoulder most of the burden since it would profit the most from the emergency aid.

"Of the total appropriation, $8.6 million will go for Milwaukee and $7.3 million to the rest of the state," McKay declared.

The Republican labeled Democrats who failed to vote for the proposal as "totally insensitive and inhuman."

Assistant minority leader David Obey, D-Wausau, said he hoped the "bill will die, deader than a door nail, so we can come up with a meaningful solution."

The Assembly gave final approval to an open housing bill Thursday but fought off efforts to pry a much stronger measure from committee.

Forwarded to the governor's desk was a measure to permit cities to enact their own open housing laws — which can be stronger, but not weaker, than the state's open housing law.

The state statute exempts single dwellings and owner-occupied dwellings of four units or less.

Six in Family Perish in Flames

VALATIE, N.Y. (AP) — A mother and five of her 13 children perished today when a kerosene stove exploded and fire roared through their large house.

Her eight other children and another family of eight persons fled safely.

The body of Mrs. Laura Hagadone, 41, was found in the charred rubble about five hours after the cooking stove burst aflame, state police said.

60-Ton 'Bust of Sylvette'

Picasso Work to Adorn 'Village'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Picasso sculpture as big as the head of the great sphinx of Egypt is going to stand on Bleecker Street in the heart of Greenwich Village.

The "Bust of Sylvette"—a 60-ton work soaring 36 feet—will be built of sandblasted concrete in a court at New York University's Washington Square Center apartment complex.

Allan D. Emil, a lawyer and philanthropist, and his wife are presenting the work to the university and it is expected to be complete in 11 weeks.

The original of the work, done by Picasso in 1954, is a two-foot-high piece of folded metal with the features of the woman painted on. It is in the Museum of Modern Art here on loan from the artist.

Alfred H. Barr Jr., former director of collections at the museum and an authority on Picasso, said the city should applaud its acquisition.

Barr said Picasso first dreamed of colossal sculpture 40 years ago and completed a series of figure drawings, "but no one stepped forward to make the dream come true until the 1950s.

"Now, in our city, we shall have a monument sprung from a two-foot-high painted bent sheet metal, the head of a girl with ponytail hair, as big as the head of the great sphinx of Egypt."

Carl Nesjar, a Norwegian artist who has worked with Picasso on previous large sculptures, will do the work on the outdoor version with the artist's approval. The cost was not revealed.

Poured Over Form

In forming the work, buff-colored concrete will be poured over a form of packed black basalt pebbles and then sandblasted to reveal the detail.

Emil, 69, has an extensive personal art collection. He said he was making the gift because "I think New York City should have a Picasso sculpture of this size."

Last August, Chicago unveiled a 50-foot steel sculpture by Picasso, the first he had specifically designed for a civic project in the United States.

'I Expect to Win It,' Says Nixon of State's Primary

MADISON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon said today he would like to win Wisconsin's presidential primary decisively next April—if he decides to bid for the 1968 Republican nomination.

Wisconsin is tremendously important," Nixon said. "I want to win it. I expect to win it. My goal is to be a decisive winner in the primaries."

Nixon, former vice president, said however, he won't decide until "late January" whether to make another bid for the White House.

Wisconsin's April 2 primary could turn into a scramble between, Nixon, Michigan Gov. George Romney, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois.

Under a new state law, an 11-man selection committee will place all bona fide candidates on the ballot. A person could remove his name only by swearing under oath he did not intend to become a candidate.

Nixon, who served eight years as vice president under former President Eisenhower, ruled out the idea he might accept second spot on the GOP ticket.

"We need a new face as vice president," Nixon told a news conference.

Nixon said he did not believe Reagan would campaign in the Wisconsin primary even though he probably will be on the ballot.

William Sirek Explains VTE-12

Vocational, Technical Program Topic for Altrusa

Five years from the time a person stops learning, he will be unemployable, said William M. Sirek, director of Vocational and Technical Education District 12 Thursday evening at the Appleton Altrusa Club's guest night dinner. About 175 attended the program, which included selections by an Appleton High School West woodwind quintet.

Mr Sirek noted that the need for vocational and technical education is great, and that it is important everyone understand the issues involved. In speaking on "Trends of Vocational and Technical Education for All" he noted the legislation that has been enacted in this field since the first law in 1911, and cited Wisconsin as a leader in this type of training

The surge in technical education was fed by the post-World War II veterans who wanted new and upgraded vocational skills to compete in an industry that had vastly changed during the war years. When the federal Vocational and Technical Act of 1963 was set up, it provided that 35 per cent of the funds provided in the program go to high schools for vocational and distributive education program.

State Districts

Wisconsin has now been divided into 18 districts which are charged with providing this kind of education to all people of the state, rather than the former setup which gave it only to those living in municipalities or towns with vocational schools. Appleton is in District 12, which includes all of Waupaca, Outagamie and Winnebago Counties, almost all of Calumet and parts of Manitowoc, Brown, Portage, Waushara and Shawano Counties

A District VTE-12 Board has the responsibility of providing a broadened, expanded and comprehensive program for a population almost doubled from that formerly served.

Must Know More

The rapid acceleration of knowledge and technical skills has doubled man's knowledge since 1941. It is expected to double again in 10 year, and again in another five. Education is essential if each person is to keep up and maintain his employability. Computers now operate on the high school level, and it is obvious their operators must know more than that. Mr. Sirek said that by the year 2000 he believes the 13th and 14th year of education will be a requirement.

At that time, he said, half the population will be working at jobs that do not yet exist, and that 50 per cent of today's high school graduates will change jobs because their present occupations will be phased out. This means retraining and continuing education for all who want to be part of the job market. It will include everyone from the man who needs to learn reading, writing and figuring, to the Ph. D. who needs to know technical skills.

The trend is evident today, he said, when auto mechanics must return to school to learn to repair fuel injection systems, and watchmakers to repair watches that are timed by electronically received radio signals. New materials in construction mean that every skilled laborer must continually upgrade his knowledge and his skills.

Number of Programs

The speaker outlined the areas which are included in vocational and technical education, and said that throughout the state there are 150 district vocational education programs, and that in this district alone 556 apprentices are receiving training at the vocational school.

Mr. Sirek also pointed out that the school also has 200 now taking high school credit courses preparatory to receiving diplomas, offers citizenship classes and farm management courses.

Definite Need

We need to look at the district and see what we need to offer, the speaker said. We have nothing in fluid power, and that will need to be provided, as will courses in paper technology and the foundry industry. Health occupations need trained people, and such areas will also be part of the course material.

Plans for a new facility call for a systematic look at the economy of the district, a consideration of how many will use the school and where it should be located to serve the area and population best.

It is hoped, Mr. Sirek said, that all problems will have been worked out and the faculty ready to serve all in the district by the fall of 1971.

Education, he said, is a birth to death commitment. It does, he admitted, cost money, but it should be considered an investment rather than a cost, essential to participation in the economic life of the nation. There is presently demand for skilled men in every occupation, he said, and people must be trained to perform the services that have become an essential part of our lives.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Annabelle Wolfe, who noted the speaker's subject was geared to Altrusa's theme, "Fit the Deed to the Need."

Among guests at the program were Altrusans from Neenah and Green Bay and Mayor and Mrs. George Buckley.

She'll be crowned Dec. 5 in preparation for the New Year's Day festivities.

Lift Hour Rules On Women Who Work Shifts

The restrictions on night time work for women in Wisconsin will be eliminated under an amended rule adopted by the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, to be effective February 1, 1968.

Under current department rules, women are not permitted to start or end a shift in manufacturing plants or laundries between the hours of 1 a.m. and 6 a.m., nor can they start or end a shift between midnight and 1 a.m. unless adequate transportation is available. Both these limits will be removed under the amended rules.

Douglas N. Ajer, administrator of the department's Division of Labor Standards, said the old rule was adopted in 1917, at a time when factory girls were turned out at all hours of the night and had little or no access to private transportation.

Mr. Ajer pointed out that the new rule does not change the limitations of the number of hours these women may work on night shifts. This will remain at eight hours daily and 48 hours weekly. However, Ajer said the women working in a general office will be permitted to work unlimited hours provided they are paid time and one-half for the hours in excess of eight daily and 48 weekly

Budget Hearing Slated Tuesday At Kaukauna

1968 Spending Plan Calls for $4 Hike in Property Tax Rate

KAUKAUNA — A public hearing on the city's $4,490,295 budget for 1968 will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the council chambers prior to the regular council meeting.

A $66 per $1,000 assessed value tax rate has been set to raise the $2,120,034 tax levy. The budget is $464,361 higher than last year; the tax levy is up $283,940, and the tax rate is $4 per $1,000 more than in 1967.

Most of the budget increase is a result of larger high and grade school operational costs, a marked increase in the vocational school budget, increased state and county taxes and an increase in hydrant rental costs.

Townships Wait

The latter is a result of a recent Wisconsin Public Service Commission ruling authorizing higher water rates. The council is expected to take action on the budget following the public hearing

Towns with land in the Kaukauna School District have to wait for adoption of the budget to complete work on their budgets, particularly their share of school costs. Township representatives are expected to be on hand to approve the school portion of the budget, although they gave preliminary approval at an earlier hearing when school officials presented the budget.

Lorge Loses Battle

Fiery Draheim Speech Sends UW Site Bill to Solid Defeat

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — As Sen. William Draheim R-Neenah, rose to his feet Thursday in the Senate, he pushed Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek into a meteoric plunge toward final defeat on the most controversial piece of legislation affecting Northeastern Wisconsin before the Legislature in this session.

The Rogers Bill was doomed from the start of Lorge's Senate battle to change the site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay campus. But Draheim's forceful speech — one of the hardest hitting he has made this session — may well have changed some votes that might have gone to Lorge, and it sped the death of the Rogers' measure.

Draheim represents the district that Lorge said he was trying to help in boosting the bill authored by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna — including Neenah and Menasha which Lorge claimed were dropped unfairly from the service area of the new school.

"Don't Want Help"

Draheim's message to Lorge and the Senate was succinct:

The residents of the cities don't want Lorge's help, for they oppose the measure he claims was designed to help them.

His explanation fell into classic political terms as he outlined his position

He had received two letters on the Rogers measure — no more. There isn't the public pressure in his area that Lorge claimed to be representing, he inferred.

One of the letters backed the site change bill, he reported. One opposed the Rogers bill. The one in opposition came from a man he highly respected.

Draheim's speech turned its attentions toward the Twin-City News Record, which editorially had suggested that he should make up his mind on the measure, and on his own long past college experiences and the future of the UW-GB as well.

Ended Debate

His attack firmed the positions of those who backed Green Bay's position in battling to kill the bill. It all but ended debate on the measure as one of the most respected and directly affected legislators flared and became publically involved for the first time. And it reportedly changed the minds of some Democratic lawmakers toying with the idea of backing the measure as a means of embarrassing the Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The editorial in the Neenah-Menasha newspaper chastised him for not making up his mind — and reported that he intended to visit the two contesting sites, Draheim said.

He later traveled to the selected Shorewood site and the proposed Larsen Farm location, he related.

"Without question the site selected is the most desirable of the two sites," he told the Senate.

He pointed out that despite Lorge's contention of direct concern to Neenah and Menasha, the Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce had refused to take a position on the bill.

Lorge's contention that bridge difficulties in Green Bay slows commuting students completely overlooks the fact that any student from the Appleton area can travel to the Shorewood site on highways east of the Fox River and avoid all traffic difficulties, Draheim said.

"A newspaper that is supposed to be responsible is accusing me of not making up my mind," Draheim told his colleagues.

"I've read that paper for years — almost all of my life — and in recent years it sometimes isn't worth a Chick Sales."

Draheim said that he has "the highest esteem" for Appleton and friends there.

He attended school there as a commuting student at Lawrence College, he said "I lost 50 per cent or better of the value of going to college by not living on campus," he said, of Lorge's claims that the new school was intended to be a commuting campus.

The bill creating the Northeast branch of the UW nowhere refers to a "commuting" school, Draheim reminded the senators.

With the conclusion of his speech, the battle was over and only the votes remained to be counted.

Vote 21-12

Voting to kill the bill were: Sens. Raymond Bice, R-La Crosse, Allen J. Busby, R-West Allis, Draheim, William Hansen, D-Stevens Point, Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, Casimir Kendziorski, D-Milwaukee, Ernest Keppler, R-Sheboygan, Robert Knowles, R-New Richmond, Ernest Krueger, R-Merrill, Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, Alex J. Meuner, R-Sturgeon Bay, Frank Panzer, R-Brownsville, Holger Rasmusen, R-Spooner, Martin Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, Norman Sussman, D-Milwaukee, James Swan, R-Elkhorn, Walter Terry, R-Baraboo, Carl Thompson, D-Stoughton, Robert Warren, R-Green Bay, and Wayne Whittow, D-Milwaukee.

Voting for the bill were: Sens. Taylor Benson, D-Franksville, Walter Chilsen, R-Wausau, Arthur Cirilli, R-Superior, Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire, Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, Lorge, Joseph Laurigan, D-Kenosha, Leland McParland, D-Cudahy, Fred Risser, D-Madison, Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, and Wilfred Schuele, D-Milwaukee.

The Rev. Mark Schmitt, Weyauwega Pastor, Among Those Selected in Second Vote

The first five members of an 18-member board have been selected in the second round of balloting by the Priests Association of the Green Bay Diocese.

Heading the association is the Rev. William Spalding, pastor of Resurrection Church, Allouez, president, and the Rev. John Mueller, pastor of Holy Redeemer Church, Two Rivers, vice president. Both were elected in the first round balloting.

Selected by their peers for board membership are the Rev. Mark Schmitt, pastor, Ss. Peter and Paul Church, Weyauwega; the Rev. Al Lison, pastor, Nativity of Our Lord, Ashwaubenon; the Rev. Raymond Zagorski, assistant pastor, St. Patrick Church, Green Bay; the Rev. John Van Deuren, assistant pastor, St. Joseph, Oconto, and the Rev. Charles Hoffmann, assistant pastor, St. Francis, DePere.

The priests were the first of 10 to be selected from the official roster of diocesan priests, divided into 10 approximately equal groups. Since the official roster is by year of ordination, the groups in effect are designed to give equal representation to the various age groups among the clergy.

Balloting during the second round did consider the other five age groups, but voting was not conclusive. A priest must have a majority for election.

Voting in the third round will include the remaining five positions by year of ordination and six positions according to geographical designation. The remaining two members of the board will be from religious communities, chosen by their peers.

State Park Moves Office At Sherwood

Warren Home Is New Location; Razing Planned

SHERWOOD — The 40-year-old building formerly the High Cliff Tavern and the state park's office and repair shop the past five years, will be razed next week, Earl Ecker, Stockbridge, has the wrecking contract.

Park manager Jon Warren and his family moved last week into the former Eugene Harp home, Lake Winnebago at the park's lower level and their old home at the upper level has been changed into an office and shop.

The Harp property was purchased recently after approval by the conservation commission and Gov. Warren Knowles. The Harp family has purchased Raymond Sprangers' property on Firelane 10 in the Town of Harrison.

An option taken on The Cliffs Supper Club is awaiting state approval. The site will be used for a contact station at the entrance to the park from a town road in the near future.

Your Problems

Ann Tells Reader Story of Friend's Operation Unlikely

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A dear friend of mine had a horrible experience recently and I would like your opinion on what should be done about it. Emily (not her real name) noticed a lump in her breast. She went to a physician and was told to check into the hospital for surgery that evening. The operation was performed within 48 hours of the time she had seen the physician.

When Emily awoke from the anesthetic she learned that her breast had been removed. She went into a deep depression (which I understand is not unusual) but she began to cheer up on the fourth day. On the fifth day, however, it leaked out that the biopsy report on the breast which had been removed was negative. This made the poor woman so furious that she just about tore the hospital apart

What can be done to prevent such catastrophes in the future? Don't suggest that Emily sue the doctor. Everyone knows the medical profession is such a tightly knit little group and it's ridiculous to try to fight them. I'd like your views. — California Yell For Help

Dear California: Like most second-hand reports your story contains some serious flaws.

No reputable physician removes a breast unless he first does a biopsy on the lump and finds a malignancy. This procedure is standard and virtually eliminates the possibility of removing a healthy breast.

Furthermore, all hospitals approved by the American Hospital Association now have tissue committees which examine a portion of all the organs which have been removed. Years ago a surgeon could remove just about anything and not have to answer to anyone. Today, he would not be allowed to operate if he had a record for taking out organs which showed no sign of disease.

So, don't believe everything you hear, Dearie.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I couldn't resist writing to express my sympathy for the woman who signed herself "Married To A Nut." She asked you to arrange passage for him to the moon because he couldn't get along with a single person here on earth.

There is at least one more like him. My husband. He also has some pet theories about life and people and will happily deliver a 40-minute speech on any topic, with or without encouragement. My husband is certain that nobody in this world succeeds unless he is crooked, dishonest, immoral or related. This goes for the top people in politics, business, religion, education and the arts

I have a suggestion for "Married to A Nut." Let's you and I get together and introduce our husbands. Maybe they can find happiness together knocking everybody on earth. Then we wives can take the first rocket to the moon and look for some nice little outer-space men who are sensible and well-balanced. Please print my name and address. — Also Married To A Nut

Dear Also: Here's your letter but I wouldn't think of printing your name and address. You'd be besieged with letters from wives who would want to join you!

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex — Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope

From Ki Ni Island

We enjoyed a delightful weekend with fine people — for we entertained the Wisconsin Society of Association Executives and they were most enthused about Oshkosh, and our area, and the facilities of The Pioneer. We are indebted and very grateful to Mr. Fred Daiger and the Milwaukee Convention Bureau for hosting a very beautiful cocktail party on Friday evening for this fine group and ourselves.

The Knights of Columbus held a very fine dinner-dance on Saturday evening. The ladies were so attractively gowned, and the Ballroom beautifully decorated — a very festive party, indeed!

Can you believe that Thanksgiving is one week from Thursday? It is true, and probably one of our loveliest, truly American Holidays. Our menu? Yes, we promised to give it to you.

Baker's Cyst Causes Pain Behind the Knee

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a swelling behind my knee which has been diagnosed as a Baker's cyst. Can it be treated without surgery? What will happen if I do not have surgery? Will I be able to get around? — M.T.

A Baker's cyst is a swelling of the bursa at the back of knee — the bursa over which the tendon of the calf muscle runs.

It is, therefore, bursitis in a particular location, and may result from injury, strain, pressure, possibly arthritis of the knee.

Like other cases of bursitis, it may be severe or mild. There may or may not be pain; when discomfort occurs it depends on the amount of swelling of the bursa, and while it may become quite painful, you would still be able to get around.

Sometimes injections of hydrocortisone are used; in milder cases no treatment may be necessary. If hydrocortisone does not improve the condition, then surgical removal may be necessary but this is done only in cases in which pain and the size of the cyst create problems.

It is a matter of comfort rather than danger.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was very puzzled by your column on breast feeding. You said you didn't recommend using a supplementary bottle with nursing because the baby would then only want the bottle. I have been nursing my baby for five months and have used a bottle at least once a week. Many of my friends have done the same and have no problems.

Perhaps I misunderstood your answer but I'm afraid many potential nursing mothers might misunderstand, too. — Mrs. R.B.

You're right; others did misunderstand.

The column in question was from a woman whose husband didn't want her to nurse the baby because it would be "too inconvenient." She wasn't much convinced herself and thought she could use a bottle some of the time.

With such a reluctant start there was mighty small chance that she would make a serious effort at nursing. A baby can accept the occasional bottle without difficulty — but if you are going to do a successful job of nursing, you have to start out with the intention of doing it. If you start with the idea that "I can use a bottle any time nursing isn't convenient," pretty soon it becomes all bottle.

You can't be half-hearted about it. And as you know, I thoroughly approve of breast-feeding babies.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking birth control pills but somehow miscounted and am pregnant. I continued the pills for about five or six weeks. I have been told by various people that I could have an abnormal baby because of this. My doctor wouldn't give me a direct answer, and I am out of my mind with worry. — D.

It is possible but not predictable. I wouldn't worry. The risk of abnormality from this appears slight.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is oleomargarine less fattening than butter?

Is it all right to use the water an egg has been boiled in to make a cup of tea? — W.M.B.

Calorie value of butter and most margarines is the same.

Yes, you can use the water. Boiling has sterilized it anyway.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it safe to eat vegetables grown above the ground on top of a septic tank drainage bed? — B.W.F.

Personally I wouldn't want to take the chance. The septic tank and tile field could fail and contaminate vegetables. Risk is greatest in vegetables growing in the ground, of course.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

State to Recruit, Train Public Health Workers

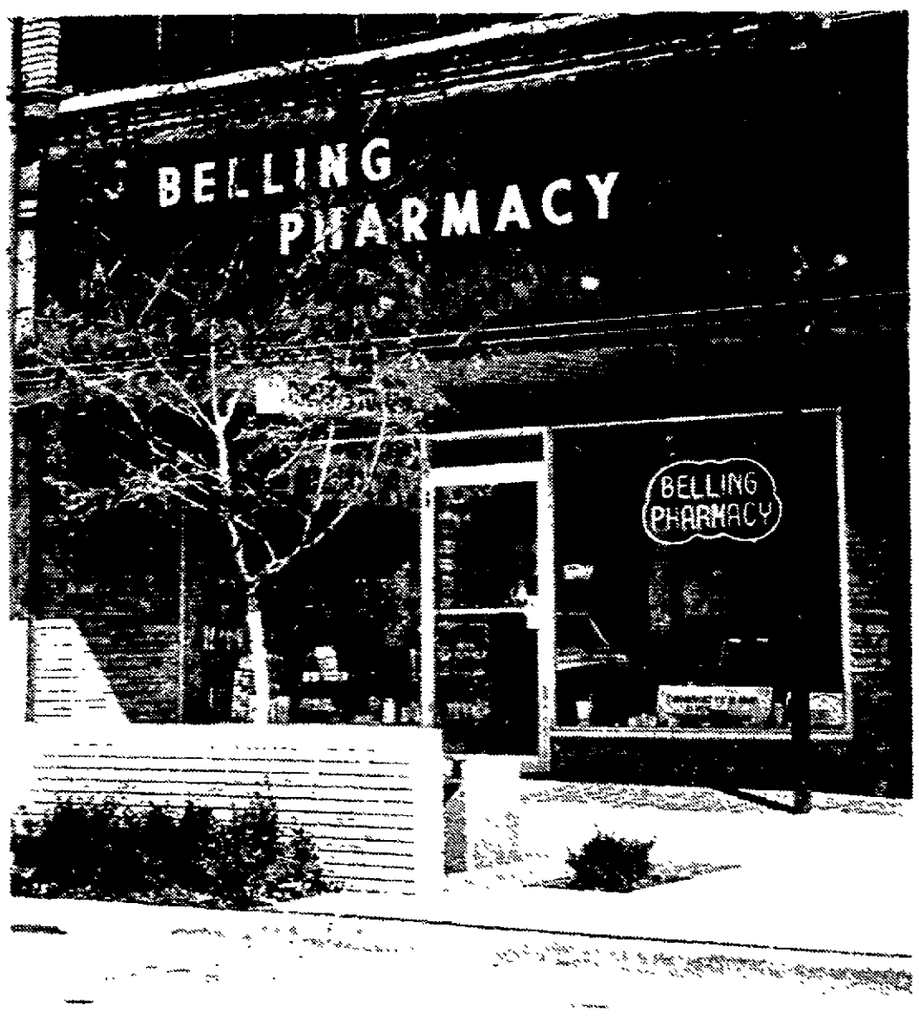
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The recruitment and training of aides for school health programs throughout Wisconsin is being planned by state agencies to relieve the pressures upon local public health offices and school nurses. Pilot training programs will probably be organized early next year by the State Board of Health in collaboration with the State Department of Public Instruction. Prospective applicants should have current Red Cross first-aid certificates and should address their inquiries to the State Health Department.

Post $700 for Charity

STEPHENSVILLE — Volunteer workers for the charity fund drive of Ellington, Inc. have collected a total of $700 in contributions.

The money will be sent to whichever agency each donor designated. Carl Brandt, president, commended the volunteers for their excellent effort.



Belling Pharmacy's New Look — Recent completion of the reconstruction and beautification of College Avenue has given Belling Pharmacy this new look. Modern as tomorrow. That's also an excellent way to describe the up-to-the-minute services they offer all their customers. (Adv.)

Thanksgiving Dinner Cheaper Than in '55

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you're getting set to serve a traditional Thanksgiving dinner next Thursday, Nov. 23, you will find it costs only a fraction above last year's total. If you've been serving this feast for several years, you also will find that its cost in 1967 actually will be substantially below the cost in 1955. This is in dramatic contrast to the overall trend of living costs and certainly in contrast to the developing new round of food price rises.

In fact, this claim may seem so startling that before going into details, I'll give you the dollar-and-cents facts to prove it. Here are costs for food actually consumed by a family of four, including two pre-teen-age children, as drawn up by U.S. Dept. of Agriculture economists and based on early November prices in Washington, D. C. super markets:

Turkey, oven ready (5 lbs.)	$2.15	$2.20	$2.75
Dressing (2 pkgs.)	.66	.62	.58
Sweet potatoes (1½ lbs.)	.15	.12	.15
Peas, frozen (1 lb.)	.29	.24	.30
Celery (½ bunch)	.10	.10	.06
Olives, stuffed (5 oz.)	.33	.33	.22
Cranberry sauce (1 lb.)	.24	.20	.19
Lettuce (1 head)	.27	.15	.19
Tomtatoes, fresh (1 lb.)	.37	.39	.29
Salad dressing (4 oz.)	.19	.17	.17
Pumpkin pie, frozen (½)	.19	.19	.33
Coffee (6 tbsp.)	.05	.05	.06
Milk (2 cups)	.13	.14	.11
Rolls (1 pgk.)	.29	.25	.13
Margarine (4 oz.)	.06	.07	.05
Totals	$5.47	$5.22	$5.58

As the chart indicates, this modest "model" Thanksgiving dinner will cost just 25 cents more than it cost last year. And the likelihood is that even this small gap will be significantly narrowed by holiday food specials in grocery stores from coast to coast in the days just before next Thursday.

Extras Cost More

Clearly, if you are among the millions who will go in for fancier and costlier extras such as wild rice, whipped butter, wine, bakery pies, oysters and chestnuts, your Thanksgiving dinner bill will dwarf the Agriculture Department's modest spread.

But you'll almost surely serve the traditional turkey at this feast, and in the turkey lies the heart of the Thanksgiving bargain story.

Because of dramatic progress in turkey breeding and turkey raising techniques in recent years, particularly of the buxom Beltsville variety, turkey prices have been in a continuous decline. This year alone, we're expected to raise a record total of 126 million turkeys vs. 105 million as recently as 1965. And because of the dramatic surge in production, we in the U.S. are now eating turkey the year round. Each of us is expected to eat an average of 8.8 pounds of the bird in 1967.

This year's pre-Thanksgiving small turkey compares to 83 cents per pound in 1950 for "ready for the oven white Beltsville type." And this year, bigger gobblers will be available, as they were last year, for as little as 31-33 cents per pound at Thanksgiving time.

Food prices generally are now moving out of a phase of stability into a new upswing. But not Thanksgivings' feast — which is another reason to "Enjoy, Enjoy."

Buckley to Veto Record Budget

Formal Action Set Monday

Mayor George Buckley said today he will veto the $18.7 million budget adopted Thursday and is calling a special meeting of the city council and schools' fiscal control board for Wednesday.

"I cannot in good conscience permit this tax atrocity to be committed against the people of Appleton," Buckley said in his veto announcement.

It is believed to be the first time in the city's history that a mayor will exercise veto power over a budget

Buckley said he intends to forward his veto of "this spendthrift budget" to the city clerk's office on Monday warning in keeping with statutory provisions.

Special Meeting

The mayor said he was calling the special meeting of the city's 20 aldermen and four town chairmen, who vote on school budget matters, Wednesday night to bring the matter to a head as soon as possible.

Buckley explained he took his action now in order to save three weeks between adoption of the budget and the next regular meeting of the council scheduled for Dec. 6.

Buckley specifically claimed the council failed to heed the recommendations of deletions by the finance committee, Appleton Taxpayers Association and his own suggestion of cutting the $343,449 Vocational School district assessment from the levy.

The budget calls for a tax rate increase of $9.04 per $1,000 assessed valuation in the coming year.

"We have many senior citizens on a fixed income and countless thousands who are not senior citizens but whose income does not increase proportionately with such a tax increase," Buckley asserted.

Confiscatory Tax

"To these people a tax increase of this magnitude would be confiscatory in that many would be forced to sell homes that they have worked for and lived in for many years," he added.

Buckley also claimed the sharp increase would be discouraging to present business and industry, "and more discouraging to potential business and industry."

The mayor recalled the Taxpayers Association had representatives at every meeting of the budget committee and that

Judges See Avenue in Best Attire

College Avenue wore its Sunday best today . . . for a good reason.

A panel of judges from the Wisconsin Section of the American Society of Professional Engineers was scheduled to be in town to inspect the reconstructed and beautified downtown.

Appleton is one of three cities picked as finalists in the "Engineering Award of the Year" competition.

More than 50 Boy Scouts from several city troops swarmed onto the avenue shortly after 7 p.m. Thursday and "policed" the entire area. They plucked paper and other debris thrown into planters by litterbugs who did not use the containers.

By the time they went over the 9-block stretch in fine-tooth-comb fashion, the business district looked spic and span.

Civic Gesture

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), chairman of the city council street sanitation committee, praised the Scouts "for their fine civic gesture".

City Engineer Robert Pfefferle said the youths from nine different troops deserved the thanks of the entire community.

Scouts who cleaned up the Avenue included Troops 29, 5, and Explorer Post 5 of St. Therese Church; Troop 9, St. Pius Church; Troop 67, VFW Post; Troop 15, Zion Lutheran Church; Troop 18, Richmond School; Troop 66, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, and Troop 76, Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Several weeks ago the Richmond School troop launched a weekly Saturday morning anti-litterbug program on College Avenue as a community service project.

Engineering Gains Traced by Institute Head

Progress made in industrial engineering over the past two decades was traced this week by Elio R. Rotolo, New York, president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers (AIIE), speaking at the Conway to the Fox River Valley Institute's chapter.

The speaker stressed that this progress paralleled the growth of the AIIE during the past 20 years since its beginning in 1948 on the campus of Ohio State University.

He pointed out that the main problem facing today's industrial engineers is "imaginative obsolescence." The local AIIE chapter works to prevent this obsolescence through lectures and workshops conducted by Clayton G. Orcutt, UW Extension Division, on the "Systematic Ideation" approach to solve engineering problems.

Youth's Leg Bruised In One-Car Mishap

James C. Starks, 18, of 201 W. Wolf River Ave., New London, suffered a bruised right leg about 6 p.m. Thursday when his car went off Outagamie County Trunk D, a mile south of New London, and ran into a ditch.

Starks said he was northbound on County Trunk D, when the car went out of control. There was minor damage to the 1963 auto.

Trustees Discuss UW Center Fate

Winnebago Cool to Site Offer

A cautious probing of feelings on the possibilities of offering the Fox Valley Center to Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) for use as the district vocational school took place Thursday afternoon between officials of Outagamie and Winnebago counties with only agreement being reached on holding future talks.

Representatives of Winnebago County declined to take any position on the Outagamie County proposal until a specific written proposal is made and a reaction obtained from Winnebago County residents.

Outagamie County has proposed to purchase Winnebago County's half of the jointly operated school, sell the school to the vocational district, and then build a new university center in Outagamie County.

Represent Winnebago

Representing Winnebago County at the meeting were Supvs. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, and Orrin King, Oshkosh, trustees for the school, and County Board Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh. King also is vice chairman of the Winnebago County Board.

Outagamie County representatives were Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton; Board Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, and Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna.

Youth, 17, Enters Innocent Plea To Tipsy Driving

Robert J. Nichols, 17, 343 E Greenview Ave., pleaded innocent Thursday to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

The youth, who was waived from Juvenile Court, filed an affidavit of prejudice against Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller and the case was continued for assignment to another judge. Nichols was freed on $150 bond.

Appleton police said they arrested the youth about 1:10 a.m. Wednesday after his car allegedly struck a curb and then swerved back into the lane of traffic in the 1400 block of W. College Avenue.

Nichols, when asked if he wanted to take a breathalyzer test at the police station, refused. He said his teachers had advised against the taking of such tests, according to police.

one of the two Outagamie trustees for the school. The second trustee, Supv. G. Allen Buboiz, Appleton, was not named to the special discussion committee.

Winnebago officials expressed doubt over the willingness of the vocational board to locate the school at the center site. King said he could not see the vocational school at that site. "It's not the right location to serve the area," he said.

Doubts Use

Thomsen said he felt the vocational board would want to "start from scratch" with a new building specifically designed for that purpose

Esler said he thought if the two counties could reach an understanding the next step would be to have engineers investigate the usability of the center for vocational purposes. He admitted the possibility existed the center could not be used for a vocational school.

Officials of both counties agreed the future for the Fox Valley Center was bright but admitted its potential was limited under the present conditions.

DeLaHunt said that after their trip Monday (the trustees) to the Waukesha and Janesville centers he realized they could not compete with other centers for staff. "We can hold our own for another year or two," he said, "but we are now competing with 'campus' centers."

Concept Changing

He added the original concept of the centers has changed and

Guard Officials Silent on Fate Of Valley Units

Reorganization Announcement Expected Next Week

State national guard officials declined to comment Thursday on the effect the planned statewide reorganization of 32nd Division units will have on Fox Valley area units.

A detailed announcement of the reorganization to include reduction of company-sized units from 92 to 68 is anticipated next week, according to Donald Erickson, Madison, public information officer to the adjutant general.

First indication of the reduction came earlier this week when Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Olson, Wisconsin adjutant general, told Waupaca Mayor Lloyd Matheson the unit there will be disbanded Dec. 31.

Erickson, who said the reorganization is in its final stages, said it is the result of a Defense Department proposal. He also declined to enlarge on the statewide effect.

The 102 enlisted men and three officers at Waupaca will be transferred to other National Guard units, Olson explained

New Citizens Today

Adopted Girls 'Adopt' U.S.

Four years ago this coming Dec. 18 two frightened and bewildered little Chinese girls were carried off a Trans-World Airlines jet at O'Hare Field, Chicago, to begin a new life in a new world.

It was a sunny, blue-sky kind of day and a swirling snow storm the night before had given everything a thick, clean coat of that fluffy white stuff

Today they became citizens of the United States of America.

Names Official

Now their names officially are Therese Mary Wessing and Bridget Mary Wessing, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart J. Wessing, 1718 E Lindbergh St.

Although both girls are of Chinese descent, neither were Chinese subjects Therese, now a first grader at St. Thomas More School, came from Hong Kong and was a British subject. Bridget, a kindergartner at Huntley School, came from Macao, and was a Portuguese subject.

The Wessings, along with about 20 other couples in the Green Bay Catholic Diocese, responded to an appeal by the Apostolate and decided to adopt Chinese children, who had no future unless someone gave them one.

Respond to Love

Both girls responded quickly to nourishing American food and loving care, so that they soon were acclimated to their new surroundings

As with all children, language was no problem, and the Wessings even learned a few words of Cantonese, the dialect spoken by Therese. Children learn well from other children and the Wessings' daughter, Christina, now 11, was an excellent teacher.

Within a year and a half the three girls had two brothers — Mark, born March 27, 1964, and Matthew, born April 8, 1965 But they were brought home from St Elizabeth Hospital, not O'Hare Field.

Therese and Bridget look forward to school every day. Therese is effervescent and loves learning new things Bridget loves people and takes 20 minutes to go one block to school because she stops to talk and laugh with everyone she meets.

Xavier Boys To Collect Canned Food

A [illegible]-door canvass for canned [illegible] to be packed to make up Thanksgiving baskets for 200 Appleton families will be started Sunday by the Xavier Key Club.

The club hopes to collect about 10,000 cans, as they did last year. Meat and potatoes will be purchased to supplement the canned food. Money for the project comes from profits the club made from its candy sale earlier.

Next week the cans will be sorted by content and entered into baskets in amounts adequate for each family.

Names of the families are obtained from churches and welfare agencies.

Outagamie Meeting

Democrats Defeat Tribute to Froehlich

A scheduled discussion by Assemblymen William Rogers of Kaukauna and Gervase Hephner of Calumet County on the proposed tri-county merger bill at the Outagamie County Democratic Party meeting failed to materialize Thursday night. However, Republican Assemblyman Harold Froehlich almost received a commendation from the party.

A resolution by Harold Schneider, first district vice chairman, to commend Froehlich for "taking a progressive stand on trying to solve area problems" lost by a single vote.

Schneider said his intent was not necessarily to support the bill, but to recognize that Froehlich had a progressive idea.

After learning that Rogers and Hephner had not returned from Madison in time to attend the meeting, members debated whether to take a stand on the Froehlich bill which would merge Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties, but then offered the Froehlich motion instead.

Re-Elect Mrs. Taylor

Mrs. Robert Taylor was re-elected to her third term as chairman of the county unit. She defeated Mrs. William Sanders, 15-8.

The opposition to Mrs. Taylor had been unexpected and some party members indicated it developed because of Mrs. Taylor's association with movement within the party to oppose President Johnson. She quit the anti-Johnson group several weeks ago.

The only new officer is Miss Sylvia Stack who was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Milo Singler who did not seek re-election. Other officers re-elected were Harold Schneider, first district vice chairman; Joseph Promer, second district vice chairman; Robert Parnell, third district vice chairman, and Mrs. Gretchen Liethen, treasurer.

Industry, Conservationists Duel Over Water Standards

Citizens and conservationists [illegible] dueled with paper mill interests in a long session here Thursday over Northeastern Wisconsin water resources.

Twenty-two persons testified at the hearing called by the state Division of Resource Development (DRD). Quality standards and use classifications proposed by the DRD for intrastate waters were on the agenda for attention.

All agreed that high water quality is a desirable and essential objective. The disagreement was over the degree of attainment.

Mainly the discussion concerned the Fox River. The East, Ocoto and Peshtigo Rivers and Lake Winnebago also came in Testimony presented at the hearing will be weighed by the DRD in establishing standards for all navigable waters of the state.

Zone Change Denied For Newberry Tract

Developers Asked Commercial Designation; Council to Consider Reversing Early Action

The Appleton Common Council [illegible] a [illegible] to any further rezoning of the north side of Newberry Street Wednesday night [illegible] but it didn't end there.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) has since introduced a resolution in the council to change the zoning category of one property owner back to residential after having been rezoned to commercial earlier in the year.

At its regular meeting this week the council, on a 12-6 vote, refused to rezone lots owned by Land Associates, a group of Appleton developers, from residential to commercial

Wouldn't Disclose Use

Spokesmen for Land Associates and other contractors with holdings in the southside area pleaded with the council to rezone the land so they could dispose of it to a client who wished to remain anonymous at this time

Questioned as to the type of development planned, they indicated any disclosure now would be premature, but said it would add to the city's tax base

It was the argument of the petitioners that Newberry Street has all the characteristics of being used for commercial and local business purposes

But the council — [illegible] previous Newberry rezoning concurred in the recommendation of the plan commission and city and rezone [illegible]

Land for Sale

Haunting the council was the fact that earlier in the year James VandenBoogaard owner of a non-conforming use dairy business on Newberry, had a lot rezoned so he could put an addition on to his business

Aldermen learned that shortly after VandenBoogaard put the property up for sale

Thompson, in whose ward the Newberry strip is located, accused him of acting in bad faith

After the denial of the Land Associates rezoning, Thompson brought in his resolution to rezone the VandenBoogaard property back to residential.

Bergstrom Calls Fox River Pollution Schedule Too Tight

GREEN BAY — Standards and time tables for cleanliness proposed for the Fox River from Lake Winnebago downstream to Appleton are too stringent, Bergstrom Paper Company told the state Division of Resource Development Thursday.

Officials of the Neenah-based paper manufacturer testified at a water quality hearing here that they found the standards proposed for the section of the river on which their plant operates "are extremely strong medicine."

The firm stated the standards are nowhere more stringent than those being proposed for the local stretch of waterway. "All five categories of the standards are being proposed for us," they declared, "and the time being allowed to us to meet these requirements calls for a most difficult timetable for anyone."

The Bergstrom statement called attention to the company's own water treatment and anti-pollution efforts, including most recently the installation of a $1.2 million clarifier system to treat water taken from the river and to clean water used in the manufacturing process before it is emptied into Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Agrees with Goals

The company firmly declared its agreement with goals stated in June, 1966, in a federal pollution control report for the Green Bay area. But Bergstrom officers added they believed it would be practical to attain these goals in stages only, "if reasonable installments and timings can be allowed."

The company argued against setting requirements too stringent on local industry, and allowing too little time for reaching goals that might be adopted by the state agency.

Agreeing that industry has responsibility to help curb pollution, the company declared it must also meet responsibilities to stockholders, employes and its community at the same time. "Such stringencies would not be enhancing, but rather depressing, to our northern Wisconsin area and its development," the company maintained.

The statement also argued that it seemed unreasonable to set the highest category of requirements for the section of river into which Lake Winnebago annually dumpes its annual blooms of algae and other natural pollutants.

The firm quoted the state's principle that says in cases where water uses conflict, "water quality standards shall be interpreted to protect the general public interest."

"Bergstrom Paper Company believes that 'the general public interest can best be served by a strong economy in Wisconsin, brought about by a sound, steady growth of its industry — industry unhampered by unrealistic water management criteria," the statement observed.

Four in Family Hurt When Car, Train Collide

OSHKOSH — Four persons were taken to the hospital after a freigh. train collided with an auto carrying a Town of Neenah family on County Trunk G near U.S. 41 Thursday evening.

Thomas H. Hart, 31, of 104 Adella Beach Rd., driver of the car, was not injured, but four members of his family were taken to Theda Clark Hospital. Mrs. Agnes Hart, 65, who also lives at 104 Adella Beach Rd., received possible rib and internal injuries. Hart's wife, Joan, 29, received facial injuries and two children, Chad, 1, and Daniel, 5, were examined. The whole family was treated and then released.

The Chicago and Northwestern diesel engine, which was headed south, struck the westbound Hart car in the right rear, pushing the car 18 feet on the tracks on the west side.

Hart told police he did not see the train's swinging headlight or hear its whistle until the moment before the collision.

The conducior, Ray Raidy, 53, Fond du Lac, told Winnebago County police that the train's whistle was blowing, its bell was ringing and its headlight was on and swinging.

There was $2,000 damage to the car.

Woman Hit by Car in Menasha

MENASHA — Hospital authorities said Miss Theresa Lingnowski, 69, 631 Warsaw St., was in critical condition today with injuries she received Thursday evening when struck by a car near her home.

She was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital by Neenah Fire Department ambulance. Authorities said she sustained internal and head injuries and a fractured pelvis.

Police said Miss Lingnowski was crossing Seventh Street at the Warsaw Street intersection when struck by a car operated by James C. Vogel, 36, 736 Carver Lane. The auto was heading west on Seventh Street, police said. The accident was reported at 5:11 p.m.

No charges have been filed in the case, said police, who are continuing their investigation.

Madison Police Chief Wilbur Emery, center, met with high school journalists and local police officers before his talk at Highlands PTA Thursday night. Neenah Man Tells Why He Marches

NEENAH — The last chance for non-violence in the United States struggle for race equality lies in the Milwaukee demonstrations, according to Loras Kotinek, Neenah, who has taken part in the marches for open housing for the past two Sundays.

Kotinek, a world history teacher at Neenah High School, stressed the "workability" of such amicable damonstrations by the Corps of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Open housing, if attained, is only one step in the battle for achieving equality, but a very important one, he said.

Reasons for Marching

One reason for his participation in the marches, Kotinek said, is that the problem in Milwaukee is immediate. The Negro situation in the core needs to be alleviated, he said.

Secondly, he believes that Milwaukee is the final chance for non-violence to be demonstrated. "If Father Groppi fails, the white man will not be trusted to eliminate those conditions by peaceful means," he said.

Because he participated in the demonstrations, Kotinek said this does not mean that he couldn't also do something on the local level.

"My understanding is that the (Wisconsin) attorney general has set up a model open housing law that might be adopted by various municipalities," he said. Consideration of the law by the Neenah community is the least we can do, he said.

In viewing the demonstrations, Kotinek stressed the role of the NAACP Commandos.

"The Commandos are very much respected by all the people in the march," he said, adding, "They have gained great respect."

Ranging in age from 18 to 40, the Commandos keep "perfect discipline in the group to the point where it is almost amazing," he said.

They carry no weapons and are very conscious of would-be attackers in the crowd, Kotinek said.

The marches are well protected, not only from the Commandos, but from the police who seem to know the route of the march, although the demonstrators do not.

Kotinek said that he sensed what "appears to be a tacit agreement between the police and commandos."

"They don't show affection for one another," he said, "but on the other hand appear to have a great deal of respect."

Yet antipathy towards the police and the corps' own hopes are shown through signs, songs and sweatshirts.

A sign across a burned out freedom house reads, "The police did it," while Corps members wear sweatshirts with labels, "Black Power," "We Love Father Groppi," "Rats," "Stop Police Brutality" and "Freedom Now."

The people who march cannot be stereotyped, Kotinek pointed out. They come from many parts of the country to join the march and range in age from the very young to the elderly.

Although there might have been a few bearded people in the area, it would be a "grave injustice" to call this a bearded group, he said. "Only an idiot would say they predominated."

Children represent a great portion of the marchers, he said. They are down there through dedication to the cause and not curiosity, since they know all the songs and slogans of the Corps.

A very noticeable part of the march, Kotinek continued, is that the white person seems to play an auxiliary role. There is an attitude of nonchalant acceptance or a "so you're here" feeling.

"This hits you," he said. They are not hostile, but, "I don't think they really trust us."

Both times that he joined the marches, the group (numbering about 408 last Sunday night) went to the downtown area, although they took different routes each time.

The core area has an "eerie quality," Kotinek said. The houses are dilapitated and eyes seem to be peering from everywhere, he added.

Very much in evidence throughout the marches is that Father Groppi is respected, he emphasized.

"You sense what a tragedy it would be if somehow Father Groppi was removed either through action of the Catholic hierarch or by violence."

"It is important for the people of Neenah to understand that Father Groppi is a restraining force. The alternative to Father Groppi is violence," he said.

PTA Speech

Outsiders Blamed For UW Protests

The head of the Madison Police Department said here Thursday night the University of Wisconsin campus riot of last month was well organized by an "outside element".

Police Chief Wilbur Emery told a PTA audience at the Highlands School the pattern has been similar in other parts of the country.

The rioting students — objecting to Dow Chemical Co. recruiters on the campus — were so well organized, Emery indicated, that it was a hard task to split them up.

"We had police officers who were put in the position of having to fight for their lives," Emery said.

He commended the University of Wisconsin administration for taking the disciplinary action it did against the ringleaders and said law enforcement agencies and the university president have "a complete understanding."

Lost War

"You might say we won the battle but they won the war," Chief Emery remarked. "The Dow Company stopped its recruiting interviews."

He said there were some charges of "police brutality" but for the most part the law enforcement officers received plaudits for the manner in which the open defiance of the law was handled.

Chief Emery reported 32 of his men were injured and student demonstrators claimed 70 injuries.

He blamed the problem on a small minority and said the principal rioters were not all University of Wisconsin students residing on the campus.

Emery said much of the agitation could be traced to the East and inferred that some legal counsel for arrested students came from the same outside source.

Not Aggressors

"When police officers are trained for riot control, it is basic that they are not the aggressors," Emery declared. "They employ defense tactics to overcome and split the riot force."

He said the Madison Police Department has jurisdiction on the campus.

Emery said his department had advance warning of some resistence, expecting a sit-in or lay-down type of passive resistence.

"We were caught by the element of surprise," Chief Emery said, of the all-out riot.

He said there is no objection to the true spirit of orderly dissent.

Emery said the policeman of today is no longer a mere watchman or collector of crooks.

However, he said enforcement in a community and public protection is only what the people want it to be. He urged more public cooperation and response, warning that those advocating rioting rather than orderly protest should be cause for general public alarm.

"It is foolish not to cooperate with your police department," Emery said. "You're merely creating problems for yourselves — all the citizens in a community."

Emery said law enforcement has never been more important in the United States than it is today.

During a question period, Chief Emery gave frank answers and said more emphasis is needed on law enforcement and education.

With regard to the reckless attitude of some of the younger generation, Emery said, "We must take the blame as parents. Perhaps, John Q. Citizen has been sitting around too long and just watching without speaking up."

Conservation, Industry Duel Over Water

mand) on the Fox River," Auchter declared.

A second factor, he stressed, is that the 39-mile stretch of the Lower Fox has the highest concentration of pulp and paper mills in the United States.

Virgil Muench, representing the Brown County Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, questioned the sincerity of industry people who say they are earnest about pollution abatement.

Arthur Kaftan, another Izaak Walton Spokesman, made a strong presentation for the Oconto River below Oconto Falls. That stretch of about 23 miles was given the same classification as the Fox River in the DRD's proposals.

"You are proposing to turn the Oconto River over to a single industry," he charged, referring to the Scott Paper Company at Oconto Falls.

"We request that the river be classified to sustain fish and other aquatic life. It was, and it could be, a beautiful stretch of river."

David Pagel, speaking for the Fort Howard Paper Company, Green Bay, stressed the need to have standards set up that are well defined and realistic.

Mill Economics

Economics of paper mill operation were discussed by R. M. Billings, research and engineering specialist for the Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah. As announced several months ago, he pointed out that the firm's pulp mill at Kimberly is being shut down because it would have been impossible to maintain the necessary quality standards and still show a profit.

Nicholas J. Lardieri, manager of air and water resources for the Scott Paper Company, testified that his firm has made substantial improvements at the Oconto Falls mill. Tests show a high degree of attainment in oxygen content of the water, he declared.

Other paper industry officials reporting on steady improvements included Robert Mader, for Consolidated Paper's Mill at Appleton; Raymond Delat, Badger Paper Mills, Peshtigo, and Robert Driessen, Thilmany Paper Company, Kaukauna.

Labor Unions

Clifford Murphy and Francis Besaw spoke as representative of labor union locals at American Can. They asked that application of water standards be realistic so that employment would not be jeopardized.

William Thomasma and John Wilson, De Pere, pleaded the conservation cause, urging high standards in order to attain some measure of pollution abatement and control.

Mrs. Joseph Dercks, speaking for the Appleton League of Women Voters, said she was delighted with the proposed upgrading of the Fox River between Lake Winnebago and Appleton.

"We live in the heart of the paper country, and are aware of the problems involving the river. We hope the standards proposed for the Fox between Appleton and Green Bay will be adopted as minimum and reviewed periodically," Mrs. Dercks stated.

Accountants to Discuss Budgets, Cost Control

GREEN BAY — A. R. Baumann, manager, Arthur Anderson & Company, Milwaukee, will be the featured speaker Tuesday at the monthly dinner meeting of the Northern Wisconsin Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Baumann will speak on "Budgets as an Approach to Cost Control". The chapter will meet at the Oneida Golf and Riding Club.

A Special Guest at the Fox Valley Area Christian Business Men's Committee annual dinner brought his testimony to about 200 guests Thursday. Christian Business Men Hear Dale

Love Is Vital, Even to Gridders

There's a great temptation for all of us to become involved with our own lives and often we forget that other things come first, a man who is a hero to thousands of sports fans, told a group of about 200 people Thursday.

Carroll Dale, Green Bay Packer end, spoke at the annual Christian Business Men's Committee dinner, sponsored by the Fox River area committee and attended by family members and friends of the group.

Dale, who shared his personal testimony with the group, spoke on the theme of "Love — both that which I have given and received."

"This includes the love of my Christian parents and my family as well as the love of the heavenly Father," he said.

However, he added, not always is love for the best. "My love for football, even as a youngster, also brought with it the love to win — to the point where I had a difficult time taking losses," Dale said. "And then I was traded to the Los Angeles Rams, a team which didn't win half the games in one season," he added.

"But I learned a great deal there; there should be a lesson when you're down and everyone should have a losing season to learn that lesson," the Packer end stressed.

He also discussed his present team and its coach.

"Lombardi is rough and tough on the field, as everyone knows," the football star said. "But he has a great deal of depth and we all respect him."

Team Devotion

It was through his approval, Dale said, that we could bring in team devotion a few minutes before each game and repeat the Lord's prayer after the games — "yes, even the Baltimore game," he told the smiling audience, adding, "This brings team fellowship."

"It is this time of solitude that puts the game in proper perspective," he added.

Sharing the spotlight with Dale was singer Kaaren Miles, and the Rev. Earl Henning, who presented an inspirational song.

William H. Gibson gave the opening prayer and Donald Schnell, the closing prayer. Guests were Earl O. Wolff, Appleton police chief, Roland L. Kuehnl, Appleton fire chief, and James Felten, Sheboygan, chairman of the Northern Wisconsin district of the businessmen's group. Calvin Huebner, chairman of the local committee, was in charge.

The object of the organization is to bring Christianity to uncommitted men in the community.

Trio of Accomplished Singers Fails To Save Ambitious Show, 'Oliver'

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

On several levels, Ken Anderson's production of Lionel Bart's "Oliver" at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center lacked polish, but Thursday night's opening in the Fine Arts Theater held promise that a smooth, tight package was about one week away.

Unfortunately, "Oliver" is only playing a four-night run.

Amidst the memory lapses, faulty timing and missed technical cues, however, there were moments of individual achievement that went a long way toward making the evening short of a disaster. For instance, three cast members (Barbara Tungate as Widow Corney, Jeff Spooner as Fagin and Sue Nofike as Bet) were accomplished singers. Also, the many children required for "Oliver," a musical based on "Oliver Twist," were visually delightful.

Whatever the faults of this production, it cannot be said the material is second-rate. Bart's musical is exquisite, but for effectiveness requires sharp timing (what play doesn't?).

The UWFVC presentation was most enjoyable when Spooner was on stage. His wild appearance, resembling what John Lennon's grandfather might look like, and activing ability on a level above several others in the play combined with an adept voice to provide cohesiveness to ragged sections and calm to troubled scenes. It was when Spooner was speaking that the youngsters were most aware of what they were supposed to be doing and not doing (such as looking for relatives in the audience).

The many kids, and the older chorus members, too, would sometimes forget their duties, or so it seemed, and watch the play, instead of participating in it, resulting in false starts and missed beginnings on several choruses of various songs.

An attractive young man named Torge Goderstad played the title role Thursday and will again tonight, but for Saturday and Sunday he will trade parts with Brian Jayne, who is cast as Charley, a minor position. Goderstad overcame some early nervousness to create a pleasant little chracterization.

The only other youngster with a major role was Pete Dunwiddie as the Artful Dodger, the part played by Davy Jones on Broadway in his pre-Monkee days. Dunwiddie offered a workmanlike Dodger that was quite acceptable.

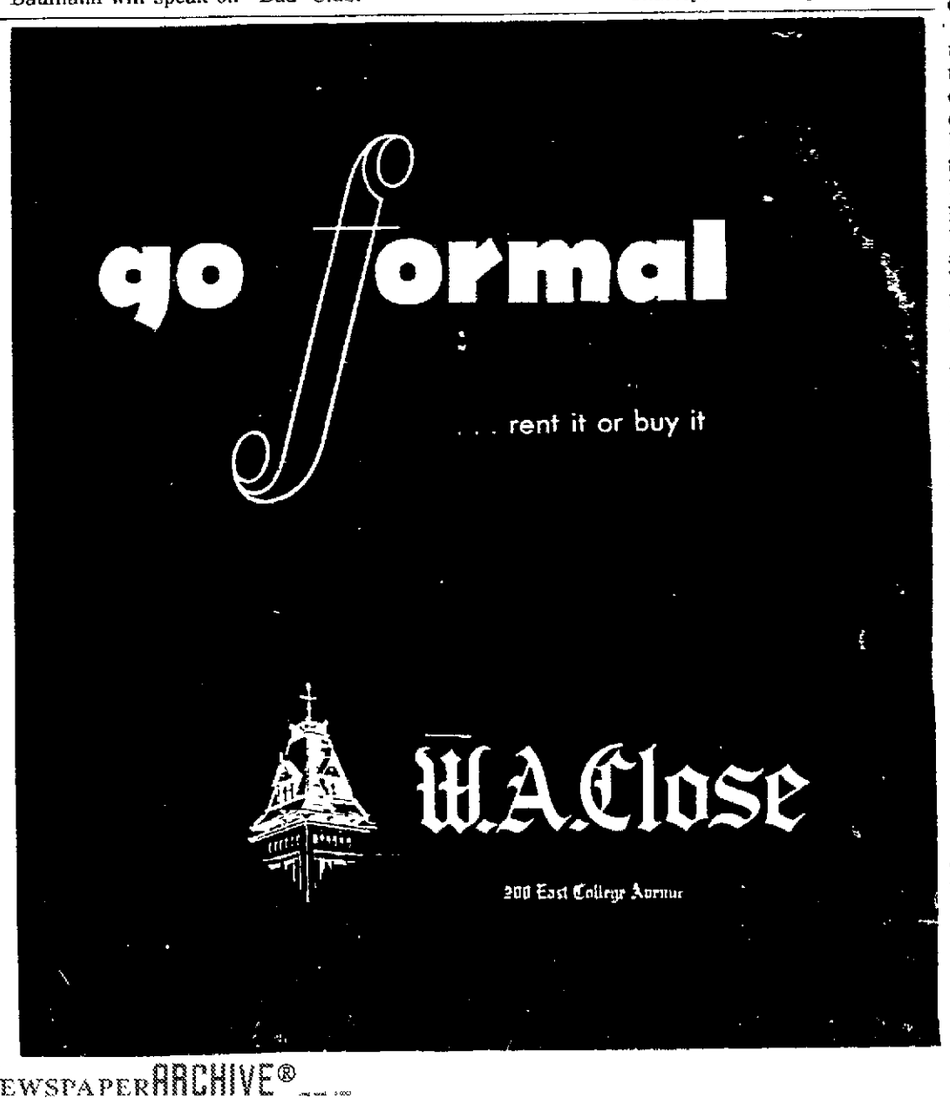
With a couple of exceptions, most of the trouble Thursday night did not originate with bad acting. On the contrary: the acting was usually adequate. The woes were mostly of a technical nature. For example: one segment of the action takes place on the stage. To hide the orchestra, which occupied half the stage, only one side of the curtain was opened. This procedure failed to consider sight lines and about one-fourth of the audience could not see a share of the "action." Also, lighting was uncoordinated in far too many places. The blocking of the various characters, major and minor, was so skimpy that quite often the actors did not know what to do, so they shifted nervously from foot to foot and free lanced many other hard-to describe actions.

In the early stages of the play, the idea that the singers needed to get together with the orchestra crossed my mind several times. By the halfway point, I felt the orchestra needed to get together with the orchestra. Directed by Dave Starck, the 15-piece orchestra had lapses of tempo and the violins were often sour. An oboe, played by Neil Tatement, provided some of the brighter moments for Starck and his group.

Other major roles in "Oliver" were Fred Hrubecky as Mr. Bumble, Tim Gmeiner as Mr. Sowerberry, Dr. Grimwig and Long Song Seller, Mary May as Mrs. Sowerberry and the Milkmaid, Tom Burns as Noah Claypole, Sue Brehm as Bet (she wore modern glasses that distracted from the 1850 setting), William Mattes as Mr. Brownlow, Bonnie Ganzel as Mrs. Bedwin and Dan Bystrom as Bill Sykes and the Knife Grinder.

During intermission, audience members seeking refreshment in the school cafeteria might have been frightened away because of the appearance that they were interupting a cast party, which brings to mind the final criticism, why must cast members of these FVC productions mingle with the audience and walk the hallways before, during and after the play? It isn't in the spirit of professionalism.

"Oliver" will be repeated nightly through Sunday, beginning at 8:15.



Buckley Says He Will Veto Appleton Budget

its president presented recommendations at Wednesday night's public hearing.

"Yet, none of their recommendations for cuts in the budget received any attention whatsoever," Buckley said. "Nor, were the recommendations of the budget committee followed despite many hours and several long evenings of scrutinizing the budget by this hard-working committee."

Buckley cited that his own recommendation regarding the vocational levy did not even get to a vote.

Question Legality

In view of the mayor's action the question was posed in city hall circles today whether he could veto the entire budget or just the portion relating to city operations, excluding the board of education levies and others.

Some aldermen, when hearing of the mayor's announcement, said they would seek the city attorney's opinion.

Appleton's total budget for 1968 — including all purposes and county and state levies — is $18,760,345. Of this total, $16,719,729 is for city and public school operational purposes.

The $18.7 million budget calls for a levy (money to be collected from property taxes) of $10,936,284.

In a further breakdown of the budget, adopted at 2:14 a.m. Thursday morning after a seven-hour council meeting, the total costs of the Appleton Public School District is $7,912,721 which includes $6,777,978 in operating expenses next year and $1,134,743 for debt payments and site acquisition.

The levy for all school district purposes is $6,741,751, the figure arrived at by subtracting anticipated revenues.

Appleton taxpayers must pay $5,636,778 of the schools' levy while $1,104,973 is picked up by the Towns of Grand Chute, Menasha, Buchanan and Harrison — all attached to the Appleton school district.

Here is a breakdown of the 1968 Appleton tax rate compared with 1967 and reflecting increases:

	(1968)	(1967)
All city purposes	$16.04	$13.97	$2.07
Public schools	33.60	30.34	3.26
Public library	.94	.91	.03
Parks-recreation	2.44	2.22	.22
Vocational district	2.25	.21	2.04
County state levies	9.99	8.57	1.42
Totals	$65.26	$56.22	$9.04

★ Because of a lower county levy in Calumet County, residents of the 2nd precinct of the 9th Ward will have a $63.15 rate, an increase of $8.53 over this year.

both students and faculty expect more. The limitations of the library were specifically cited.

Thomsen added there were problems but did not feel they were insurmountable. There is land available near the center for expansion, he said. He conceded it was expensive land but that it was still cheaper than moving the school.

All three Winnebago officials indicated they needed more information, including the proposed new site, before serious talks could take place.

Esler indicated that if the university was relocated it would probably be built either on the former Outagamie County Farm at U.S. 10 and 41 or just north of Appleton in the Town of Grand Chute.

DeLaHunt added they believed eventually the school would be built up to a four-year institution and this could not take place at the present location. "We feel we need more facilities but, at the same time, we don't want to put an ultimatum to your country," he said. "We want to be prepared and not have to make an 11th hour decision," he added.

Drexler said it was too early to say yes or no on the proposition, but they would be willing to discuss it among themselves. Thomsen and King agreed they would have to get the feelings of the rest of the Winnebago County Board and the residents, particularly those living in the Neenah-Menasha area.

Thomsen said Menasha has a close interest in the school because it was originally started in that city and was maintained by private donations for a period of time.

Both groups agreed to further talks after a sounding out of opinion in the counties.

Foreclosure Sale Set for Club Terrace

MENASHA — A foreclosure sale on Club Terrace, Inc., a corporation which owns the motel at County Trunk BB and U.S. 41, has been set for Jan. 4 at the Winnebago County Courthouse.

The action was brought about by Security Savings and Loan Association, Milwaukee, and the judgement of foreclosure was handed down last June 29.

A period of six months from the judgement is required before the sale, and the corporation can redeem its debts during that time to stop the action.

However, the public auction probably won't result in the closing of the doors, a spokesman said, except for a brief period to transfer the operations.

We put our old bus in a new box.

If there was anything the old bus didn't need, it was more room on the inside.

Which brings us to the first thing you should know about the new box.

There's more room on the inside.

In fact, the Volkswagen Station Wagon has almost twice as much room inside as conventional station wagons.

On the outside (which is a little bigger, too) we replaced the 13 little windows with 8 big ones. And one of them is a wraparound windshield.

What next?

A wraparound bumper to help you step up into the driver's compartment through wider front doors.

As for the 2 side doors, they're not there anymore. We replaced them with a single sliding safety door. It locks when it's open and locks when it's closed.

An aisle through to the back is now standard equipment. (After all, what's a bus without an aisle?)

If you'd rather do without the charm and convenience of an aisle, it'll cost you.

But you'll get 2 more seats (total: 9) for your trouble.

Only Volkswagen would give you fewer windows. Fewer doors. Fewer seats.

Rockin' Round the Valley

Kimberly Group to Join Touring USO Show

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

It is the hope of every rock and roll band to some day have a hit record and become as popular in the entertainment field as some of the stars of the past.

Until this once-in-a-100,000 situation comes, the average band spends its time earning money and improving by performing around its home town. Some bands extend their travels around a five-or six-state area. A few others are fortunate enough to travel the whole country.

Early next year, a group from Kimberly will travel even farther by extending their travels out of the borders of the United States. The name of the band is the Casino Royal.

Ecco Enterprises, the group's booking agent, is in the process of completing the necessary details to send the group nearly around the world. The tour for the Casino Royal begins Feb. 5. It leaves the U.S. mainland for an engagement in Hawaii. There the group will become attached to a USO show for about four months.

Shows for Military

The tour will take the Casino Royal to most parts of the world where United States soldiers are presently stationed, including Vietnam.

Other countries to be visited will be Japan, Okinawa, Korea, Thailand, Taiwan and the Philippines. Then they go to Alaska where they will leave the U.S.O show to return home about June 20.

It should be quite a trip.

The Casino Royal consists of Tom Van Oss on bass guitar; Tom Vollmer, lead guitarist; Pat Kelly, drummer; John Wolfinger, organist, and vocalist Terry Lee Seubert. As it stands today, the group has been together only five months. Many, however, recognize the group's close resemblance to Terry Lee and The Sonics.

Sonics Organize

The Sonics began about four years ago with Ray Greene on drums instead of Pat Kelly. After two years of hard work, the group lost Tom Vollmer and Terry Lee when further education took them away from town. George Baer, former lead guitarist for the Memories, took Tom's place and the group continued playing under the new name of The London Streets.

After playing the state circuit for a few months, Ray Greene left for service. Pat Kelly then took Ray's place on drums. About a year ago it became George's turn to leave the group for the Navy.

When George left, Tom Vollmer returned and the Casino Royal was born. A few months later, Terry Lee returned from Kenosha where he had been singing. After two years of many changes, the Casino Royal was nearly the same group as the former Terry Lee and the Sonics.

Music Style

The Casino Royal specializes in top 40, soul music, old standard, and big production-type music.

In the last two years they have backed Jay and The Americans, J. Frank Wilson, and Billy J. Royal. Although they have not recorded in the past, they may have a record released shortly after returning to the States.

Even if this doesn't happen, they will be able to say they did something very few bands without a hit record have done, namely "We have traveled nearly around the world."

Mendelssohn Work on Reformation Feature Of Sunday Concert

70-Member Lawrence Orchestra Opens Season at 8 p.m. Program in Chapel

A musical score marking the 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation will be included in the Lawrence Symphony Orchestra's opening concert of the season at 8 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Chapel.

Felix Mendelssohn's "Reformation" Symphony No. 5, Op. 107, will be the featured work, along with the Chaconne in G minor, by Henry Purcell; Passacaglia Op. 33b, from the opera, "Peter Grimes," by Benjamin Britten; and the tone poem, "Over the Hills and Far Away," by Frederick Delius.

Kenneth Byler, professor of music at Lawrence Conservatory, conducts the 70-member orchestra. Instrumentalists include Lawrence students, faculty and area musicians. Sunday's concert is among three presented by the orchestra annually.

The Mendelssohn symphony has been programmed in recognition of the Reformation movement begun on Oct. 31, 1517, when Luther is said to have posted his 95 theses taking issue with the policies of the Church of Rome.

Mendelssohn, born a Jew, was an admirer of the German monk and undertook his symphony in 1830 at the age of 20 to pay tribute to Luther and his accomplishment as a translator of the Bible.

The "Reformation" symphony became one of Mendelssohn's mightiest orchestral works. The composer's biographer, Heinrich Eduard Jacob, said of it, "A strong, exhilarating wind sweeps through (its) four movements. There is something autumnal about it, an October clarity and crispness."

Two familiar musical fragments were incorporated into the score, the first, a suggestion of the so-called "Dresden", or Luther Amen later used by Wagner in his "Parsifal;" the second, a magnificent paraphrase of Luther's hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is our God."

The symphony was given a single reading at the Paris Conservatoire in 1830 and then put aside. The French response was not untypical, but in Germany and England, too, where Mendelssohn generally found more favor, the work was ignored.

It was not until this century that the "Reformation" symphony was accepted by the public, and in the past 35 years it has become one of Mendelssohn's most prestigious works.

The Purcell "Chaconne" and Britten "Passacaglia" have a common origin in the variation form, but reflect two chronological poles, the 17th and 20th centuries.

Differences Noted

Purcell's score is of purely instrumental origin, while Britten's is one of six Interludes which provide dramatic scene transitions for his opera, "Peter Grimes."

Delius, another English-born composer, spent much of his life away from his native land. His tone poem, "Over the Hills and Far Away," is a reflective work inspired by the moorland scenery of Yorkshire, his birthplace.

'Profile' on National Art Gallery

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 5) — If your tastes run to such award-winning productions as "Michelangelo" and "The Louvre," tonight's American Profile presentation of "The National Gallery of Art" is a must. A product of the same producer (Lou Hazam) and director (Tom Priestley), this should be the most valuable hour you have ever spent in an art gallery. "It is not a 'Louvre' or a 'Michelangelo' " Hazam explained to TV Scout, "for these were part history of a building and part biography of a man. This is all art." The program not only concentrates on the vast art treasures in the nation's own gallery but also gives motion to what are essentially just "pictures hanging on a wall." (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — Jackie Coogan is good as a terrorized sheriff whose town is being attacked by a killer and his gang on The Wild Wild West. Bradford Dillman is equally good as the badman and Beverly Garland suitably fits the traditional role of the lady saloon keeper. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — The casting of Helen Hayes and her son James MacArthur might be on the credits of the most distinguished of TV shows, rather than tonight's Tarzan. But this series has achieved a reputation for being able to sign the finest actors who are probably having more fun in performing than the audience has in viewing. Miss Hayes plays a domineering society matron whose son is trying to keep his father's jungle clinic in operation over the threats of a native witch doctor and his own mother's schemes. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Off To See The Wizard offers the second instaliment of "Island of the Lost," a strictly for children melodrama. (C)

7:30-8:30 (Channel 5) — Fans of Star Trek's weird, wise and very unwordly Dr. Spock are in for a first-rate episode as this story closely examines his unusual breeding and his relations with both his mother an Earthling, and his father, a Vulcan. (C)

7:30-8:30 (Channels 11-9) — Gene Raymond and Rod Cameron guest on Hondo in a story that is almost totally lacking in substance. It is about a former senator and a land speculator who team up to sell real estate around an abandoned silver mine. (C)

* * *

8-10 (Channels 2-7) — Bob Hope and Anita Ekberg star in a very light-hearted romp through the African jungles in a film called "Call Me Bwana," on The Friday Night Movies. It concerns a space capsule that comes down in the middle of nowhere: an American agent (Hope) sent to retrieve it, and an exotic foreign agent on the same mission. Edie Adams is featured and Hope even managed to squeeze in Arnold Palmer and an unusual golf match in the midst of the plotting. (C)

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — Judd for The Defense has one of its better scripts and a cast (James Whitmore and Martha Hyer) to go with it. The intricate plot is a nightmare for a defense attorney. His client is a well-known money manipulator whose reputation was once tarnished, then blackened and finally disappeared under the weight of the accusations against him. (C)

Make an Unusual Frame With a Paint Palette

BY CAPPY DICK

An unusual frame for a picture of someone is today's make-it-at-home fun-project for boys and girls. The picture may be the photograph of a friend, or it may be a large picture of a movie or sports star cut from a magazine.

The first step in making the frame is to cut a big palette from a piece of white poster board. Figure 1 shows the shape.

The next step is to mount the picture on the palette as in Figure 2. This may be done by gluing the picture or by taping it in place with bands of colored mending tape.

The final step is to place daubs of paint of various colors on the palette, also as in Figure 2.

The completed frame can be hung on the wall of your room with a thumbtack or two.

Words often misused: Do not say, "They were unable to disturb his equanimity of mind." Omit the words "of mind," since "equanimity" means "evenness of mind."

Often mispronounced: Prescience. Pronounce pree-shi-ens, accent first syllable.

Often misspelled: Tranquillity (the noun): observe the two "l's." Tranquilize (the verb): only one "l."

Synonyms: Prejudice (noun), partiality, bias, prepossession, unfairness, predisposition, injury, detriment.

GBW Picked to Win Third Straight Basketball Title

Writers Predict Manitowoc, Sheboygan North Will be the Chief Challengers in 1967-8

FOX VALLEY CONFERENCE
(Final 1966-7 Standings)

Green Bay W.	13	3	Fond du Lac	9	7
Manitowoc	13	3	Sheboygan S	5	11
Oshkosh	12	4	Gr. Bay SW	4	12
Appleton	10	6	Green Bay E	2	14
Sheboygan N.	10	6	Preble	2	14

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The oft-demonstrated clutch-playing ability of Green Bay West basketball and football teams in the last few years has apparently persuaded Fox Valley sportswriters to pick the Wildcats ahead of altitudinous Manitowoc and experience-packed Sheboygan North as conference basketball cage favorites.

GBW, which won the FRVC Cage title outright in 1965-6 and shared the crown with Manitowoc in 1966-7, earned the first-place votes of five of the six participating writers. The other voter placed the Wildcats second, thus giving GBW the lowest total of seven points (one for first, two for second, etc.)

Manitowoc, a perennial contender, was ranked second, with 13 points. The Ships picked up the final first-place vote, as well as garnering four seconds and one third.

Third Choice

North, accumulating one second place and three thirds, among others, was a clear choice for a third-place finish, with 20 points.

Green Bay East, last season's co-cellar inhabitant (with Preble), is expected o make a noteworthy comeback. The Red Devils, with one vote as high as third are the concensus choice for fourth, with 30.

Oshkosh, a third-place finisher last season, has been tabbed for fifth this time around—with 34 points.

A voting free-for-all developed for the final first-division berth. Fond du Lac, and Green Bay Southwest both received 42 points, with Sheboygan South getting 43 and new Appleton East 44. Fondy and South each got one vote as high as third. The highest votes for AHS-E and Southwest were for fifth place.

Picked for the final two berths are 1-letterman Appleton West, with 59 points, and Preble, with 62 points.

The new coaches in the circuit are Bill Morse, at AHS-E, and Steve Nault, at Southwest. Nault, former Lawrence University cager, formerly coached at Stockbridge.

The schedule could become a significant factor in the 11-team circuit. Each team plays home-and-home series with only six rivals, while it meets the four other clubs only once apiece.

If Oshkosh has any dark-horse ambitions, its schedule is made to order to further these aims. The Indians play each of the six teams rated below them twice, while they face the four top-ranked teams only once apiece.

Among the top three, GBW is the only one scheduled to meet its chief challengers (Manitowoc and North) twice apiece. Manty and North face each other only once.

Team-by-team prospects:

GREEN BAY WEST — Football heroes Jerry Tagge and Dave Mason are among the four lettermen. The 6-2 Tagge scored 260 points in league play last season. The other lettermen are 6-5 Chuck Schultz and 6-0 Stu Hollimon. The 6-2 Dave Dahlin is among the non-lettermen varsity holdovers. Prospects from a 15-1 JV team include 6-5 Dan Berner, 6-1 Mark Hansen, 6-2 Bill Albrecht and 5-10 Terry Schott. Coach Bob Kloss' main problems will be to find dependable guards.

MANITOWOC — The Ed Fleener-coached Ships could start a unit that averages 6-3 or better. Returning lettermen are Bill Sepnafski (5-11), Tom Haag

Hawks to Launch Campaign Against Assumption '5'

Tallest Xavier Quint in History To Start Saturday's Contest

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Xavier High School will open its 1967-68 basketball campaign at Wisconsin Rapids Assumption Saturday night, and the five Hawks slated to take the floor will constitute the rangiest Xavier team in the school's history.

While coach Gene "Torchy" Clark's squad will be facing its first foe, the Royals will have already had the benefit of one game under their belts. Assumption also entertains tough Milwaukee Messmer, last year's runner-up in the State Catholic tournament, in its initial action tonight.

Xavier, champion for six consecutive years in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference, will have a starting lineup that averages a shade better than 6-2½. The tallest is junior center Bob Fullarton at 6-7; the smallest is junior guard Mike Clark at 5-11.

The remaining trio is comprised of junior Tom Thomson (6-4), junior Jeff Bartosic (6-2), and senior Pat Fitzgerald (6-1). Fitzgerald is expected to help Clark with the ball-handling chores in the backcourt but will also see his share of duty in a corner forward spot once the ball is across the center line.

Only Fitzgerald, an All-FVCC pick as a junior, returns as a starter from last year's Hawks squad that finished with a 23-2 record and the state Catholic tournament consolation crown.

However, all of this year's starters saw action against Assumption last year in a Hawk 61-47 romp on the Xavier floor. In that contest, Fitzgerald and Fullarton played supporting roles by scoring six and one points, respectively.

Accustomed to coaching smaller, swifter teams in past years, Clark is both delighted yet cautious in his appraisal of the current crop of Hawks. "I've never had such a big team before," he says. "I just don't know how we'll do. We'll know more after Assumption."

Bob Olson, who begins his second season with the Royals as head coach, wishes he had some of Clark's problems — like more height. Still, Assumption

Kimberly, St. John Renew Basketball Rivalry Saturday

Wippich Will Make Debut as Papermaker Cage Mentor

BY JIM HARP
Post Crescent Staff Writer

KIMBERLY — Little Chute St John and Kimberly, longtime rivals in a variety of sports, take their differences to the basketball court Saturday night.

The Dutchmen and the Papermakers will clash at the Kimberly High School gym at 8 p.m., and it will be the non-conference opener for both quintets.

In addition to having sights set on an opening victory, each team has added incentive going into Saturday's encounter. St. John will be trying to notch its second straight win over the Papermakers — something no Little Chute team has been able to do in the last 20 years. Meanwhile, the Papermakers, who saw their 14-game victory streak over the Dutchmen snapped last year, will be out to start a new chain of wins.

St John surprised everyone by handing the Papermakers a convincing 69-53 defeat in 1966. However, the Chuters may find things a little more difficult Saturday, since the Papermakers have seven lettermen back, plus a number of varsity members who saw limited experience last year.

Kimberly had a 5-15 overall record last season, one of the poorest finishes for a Papermaker squad in recent years. Hoping to get back on the consistent-victory trail, Kimberly has named Jack Wippich as head coach. Wippich, who also coaches football, is replaced Gene Mason, who resigned last spring.

The Papermakers and Chuters will be about even in the height department, but Kimberly will have the edge in experience. Paul Van Grinsven will probably open at center. At 6-3 Van Grinsven matches forward starter Jeff Wildenberg for eight honors.

Jeff Vanden Heuvel and Bill Lamers are battling for the other forward spot with both slated to see action. At guards, Wippich will probably start Wayne Swokowski and Don Hagany, a pair of juniors who saw considerable action as sophomores.

Wildenberg is the leading scorer back. He averaged a little over 10 points per game for the Papermakers in 1966-67.

Coach Avitus Ripp, of the Chuters, will have three lettermen in his starting lineup. "Oscar" Schuler and Gary Vande Hey will man the guard spots. Ron Van Thiel and Rick Van Roy will be at forwards and Mike Verbruggen will be at center.

Verbruggen is 6-4 and the tallest man on the squad. He is up from the jayvees and "could make this club go," according to Ripp. Reserves Ripp will have to pick from include Earl Vande Hey, Larry Lamers, John Leiferman, Lee Weyenberg, Stu Hietpas, Cliff Peeters, Keith Locy and Mike Fitzpatrick.

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Can Bart Starr repeat as the National Football League's passing champion?

Although Mr. Quarterback has made great strides in recent days, the odds — with only five games remaining — would appear to be against such a pleasant parlay.

But one thing is certain — the Packer faithful will see the real Bart Starr "live" for the first time this season when the world champions encounter the perennially obstreperous San Francisco 49ers in Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon.

Painful Injuries

Largely recovered from a series of painful injuries that dogged him throughout training camp and the first half of the season, Bart gave dazzling indication in last Sunday's 55-7 demolition of the Cleveland Browns that he is once again the Starr who won the NFL most valuable player award in 1966.

The gentlemanly Alabamian, who completed 14 of 21 passes in the process of dissecting the Browns' defense with a precision performance, admits he has

Badgers Seek Home Win

Johnson Leads Wolves Against UW

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin and Michigan, both one-time national grid powers, collide Saturday in a contest of two also-rans in the Big Ten football chase.

Michigan's Wolverines will enter the match with a 3-5 record, while the battered Wisconsin Badgers will limp into the contest with a 0-7-1 slate.

It will mark the last home appearance of the campaign for Wisconsin coach John Coatta, who took over for Milt Bruhn at the end of the 1966 season. The Badgers finish up against Minnesota next week at Minnesota.

Coatta, a star quarterback on Wisconsin's 7-1-1 club in 1951, realizes that two more defeats would doom his club to one of the worst records in the 78 years the Badgers have fielded football teams.

Only the first Wisconsin team, with a 0-2 record in 1889, failed to score a victory.

Bump Elliott, who starred on the 1947 Wolverine club which won the Big Nine and Rose Bowl crowns, and who coached Michigan to a Rose Bowl victory in 1964, is hoping for a triumph over the Badgers to strengthen Michigan's bid for a first division finish.

Close Battles

Although Coatta's Badgers have yet to score their first triumph, they have battled recent opponents into the final minutes of each game.

In the last five matches, Wisconsin has been outscored by a total of only 13 points.

After dropping a 13-11 game to Pittsburgh, the Badgers came back to tie Iowa 21-21. They then lost to Northwestern 17-13.

Face Gophers Saturday

Hoosiers Set Sights on Rose Bowl

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana's Cinderella team tries to fit into the glass slipper Saturday with a victory at Minnesota that would send the Hoosiers to the Rose Bowl for the first time.

A triumph for the Gophers would extend the drama to the season's conclusion next week.

The fifth-ranked Hoosiers, with 8-0 for the campaign and 5-0 in the Big Ten, finish against mighty Purdue next week. Minnesota, 6-2 and 4-1, ends with Wisconsin, so far winless.

With the highly-rated Boilermakers their final foe, Indiana must pin virtually all of its Rose Bowl hopes on beating the massive Gophers or even tying them.

Another Step

Meanwhile, No. 3 Purdue, ineligible to repeat for the Pasadena trip, tries to expand its 5-0 conference record in another step toward the championship with a home victory over Michigan State, 2-3. Iowa, 0-4-1, is at Ohio State, 3-2; Illinois, 1-4, at Northwestern, 2-3, and Michigan, 2-3, at Wisconsin, 0-4-1.

The Hoosiers, guided by the sophomore set of Harry Gonso-John Isenbarger-Jade Butcher, have scrambled for virtually each Big Ten victory. They defeated Illinois 21-7 but won their next four league games by a total of only 19 points.

Minnesota and Indiana statistics are about as close as any two teams in the circuit.

Indiana is averaging 19.2 points per Big Ten game and Minnesota 14.6. They have yielded 13.2 and 12.6, respectively.

Net Yards Gained

In average net yards gained a game, Minnesota has 266.8 and Indiana 295.2. Average opponent yards are 288.4 and 300.2.

If the Gophers have a weakness it's shown in opponents' ability to pass against them. The enemy has averaged 169.8 yards a game in the air—highest in the Big Ten. Indiana has permitted 124.

Purdue — with Leroy Keyes leading the nation's major scorers and the Big Ten's rushers, and Mike Phipps, topping the conference in passing and total offense — seems invincible. As a team, the Boilermakers are No. 1 on offense as well as defense.

Iowa will be bolstered by the return of quarterback Ed Podolak who was second in the conference in total offense before missing the last two games with a cracked rib.

Illinois and Northwestern will be meeting for the 61st time in a rivalry deadlocked at 28 victories apiece and four ties — closest series of long standing as in the country.

Nixon-Reagan Ticket Most Favored by GOP Delegates

California Governor Leads Poll As Vice Presidential Contender

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has topped an Associated Press poll of delegates to the 1964 Republican National Convention as their favorite for the presidential nomination next year, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan emerged an overwhelming choice to be the vice presidential nominee.

A majority of those participating in the survey said they favor a Nixon-Reagan ticket.

However, a combination of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Reagan received a substantial number of votes and ran second as the strongest potential GOP team.

Reagan received support mostly for the vice presidential nomination, in all 50 states.

Associated Press bureaus submitted questionnaires to the 1964 delegates in the nationwide poll. The response was slightly more than 44 per cent.

Repeat Delegates

Of those replying, more than 42 per cent said they expect to be delegates again in 1968.

The principal questions and results were:

Whom do you favor for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination?

Nixon—46 per cent
Rockefeller—20
Reagan—19
Gov. George Romney of Michigan—7
Others—8

Whom would you name as the strongest candidate?

Nixon—45 per cent
Rockefeller—24
Reagan—22
Romney—6
Others—3

What combination would constitute the strongest ticket?

Nixon-Reagan—40 per cent
Rockefeller-Reagan—29

Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois received 57 votes for the vice presidential nomination, teamed with Nixon, Reagan or Rockefeller.

Second Spot

Others named for second place on the ticket, with their votes, were Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio, 16; Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, 10; Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, 8; Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky, 6; and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, 5.

The results of the survey tally in some respects with an Associated Press poll of state chairmen and members of the GOP National Committee, taken last October. But there were also significant differences.

In both polls, Nixon ran first as the favorite for the nomination, but he received fewer votes in answers to the question as to the "strongest candidate."

In the October survey, Romney ran second, ahead of Rockefeller, as the GOP leaders' choice whereas he was a poor fourth in the voting by the former convention delegates.

A Rockefeller-Reagan combination was voted the strongest team in the earlier poll, with a Nixon-Reagan ticket well behind.

Strong Candidate

In the answers to all three questions, Reagan's showing was better in the second poll.

In the latest poll, as in the October survey, a number of Republicans said Nixon was their personal favorite for the nomination but expressed doubt that he would be the strongest GOP candidate.

"I don't think there's anyone better than Nixon," said Andrew Axtell, former Essex, N.J., County chairman. "But you have to have someone with appeal and Rockefeller is certainly popular now."

Nixon plans to enter presidential primaries in New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Indiana and Oregon.

The New Hampshire election is scheduled for March 12. In a possible reference to that primary, a Wisconsin congressman said, "Today I would say Nixon, but four months from now I may say it would be Rockefeller."

Rockefeller and Reagan both have said they are not candidates for national office in 1968.

Mideast Peace Looks Doubtful In U.N. Council

None of Three Rival Plans Appeals to Both Arabs, Israelis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Prospects of Security Council agreement on a Middle East peace formula appeared remote today as members studied three rival plans. None of them were believed acceptable to both the Arabs and the Israelis.

The 15-nation council was moving toward a showdown on the proposals, but some delegates predicted that the ballot may not come until next week. Some members were awaiting instructions from their governments.

Britain came in late Thursday with a compromise draft. Both the Israelis and the Egyptians withheld comment on the British plan until they heard from home, but there were reports that the Russians gave the formula a cool reception.

2 Plans Rejected

The United States and India, Mali and Nigeria had already put in rival plans, neither of which was acceptable to both sides.

Lord Caradon introduced the British resolution after warning the council that the alternative to effective action on the Middle East was "too terrible to contemplate."

"So great is the need and so great is the measure of agreement among us that I cannot believe we will fail," he said.

The British resolution calls for Israeli withdrawal "from territories occupied in the recent conflict" when Israel seized hundreds of square miles of territory from Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

It also affirms the need for an end to "all claims or states of belligerency," a reference to the state of war the Arabs have maintained against Israel since the Jewish state was born 19 years ago.

Like the other two resolutions, the British draft would send a U.N. representative to the Middle East "to promote and assist efforts to achieve a peaceful and accepted settlement."

Members of the Students for a Democratic Society leave New York Thursday for Paris. Students, who say they represent various peace organizations and were invited to North Vietnam, are, from left, Steve Halliwell and Jeffry Jones, both of New York City; Karen Koonan, San Francisco, and Cathy Wilkerson, Washington, D.C. Suspected Gestapo Chief Apparently Not Hitler Aide PANAMA (AP) — The "finding" of another long-missing Nazi leader—Gestapo chief Heinrich Mueller—apparently is another false alarm, but Panamanian authorities still are holding a shabby peddler who looks like Mueller.

Investigations Chief Hector Valdes said Thursday he has reached the "frim conclusion" that the peddler, arrested this week at the request of West German authorities, is not the missing wartime head of Adolf Hitler's secret police.

Valdes added, however, that the West German Embassy in Panama has asked for an opportunity to furnish evidence supporting the contention of German officials that the man could be Mueller. He said the man will remain in custody for the time being.

Prints Match

The peddler claims to be Francis Willard Keith, 61, born in Webb City, Mo. Valdes said a thumbprint of the man in custody matches a print of a Mr. Keith who arrived in Panama May 14, 1942, three years before Mueller disappeared in Berlin at the end of World War II.

Valdes said it also matches a thumbprint of a Francis W. Keith who worked in the Panama Canal Zone for six months in 1942. The investigator said the peddler's identity as Keith was further established by his diary and by the testimony of a Panama City family with whom he lived for many years.

Rumors of Nazis wanted for war crimes being found in Latin America are frequent, but Martin Bormann is usually the man reported found. He was Hitler's deputy fuehrer at the end of the war and heads the list of wanted Nazis. The capture of Adolf Eichmann in Argentina in 1960 put new life into the search for the missing men.

Simon Wiesenthal, whose Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna helped track down Eichmann, said of the man held in Panama: "I am afraid they got the wrong man. As far as we know, Mueller never was in Panama, but has been living in South America recently." Wiesenthal said he had not been involved in the investigation of the present suspect.

Mueller last was confirmed alive in Hitler's Berlin bunker in 1945. Many Germans believe him dead.

Identification of anyone as Mueller is hampered by the fact that there are no fingerprints of him available, West German officials said.

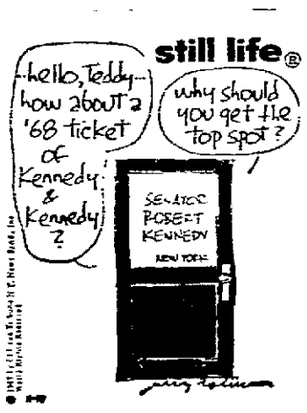
Mueller's divorced wife, who lives in Munich, was reported to have identified the man in Panama as her ex-husband from a photograph. But later the 67-year-old woman announced through her daughter that the man had more hair than Mueller.

Still unexplained were the suspect's reported German accent and the absence of any reference to a Francis Willard Keith in archives and newspaper files at Webb City. But some of the records of 1906, the year the man said he was born, were missing.

Family Takes Over by Election, Appointment

BLOOMINGBURG, Ohio (AP) — After Max Grim was elected without opposition as mayor of this central Ohio village of 800, he named his brother George a special consultant.

Two other brothers, Robert and Raymond, then were elected to the Board of Public Affairs, and their mother, Mrs. Irene Grim, was elected to the Village Council—all by write-in votes.



Model Cities Approach Admits Coordination Flaw, Official Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "total attack" approach of the new Model Cities program represents in part an admission by the government that its many programs often aren't coordinated, a federal official says.

And local institutions, many of them federally supported, have the same problems, says the director of the Model Cities program, H. Ralph Taylor.

Lack of coordination at federal and local levels "may in part have been encouraged by the way the federal grant-in-aid program has developed," Taylor said in an interview.

He said the programs in 63 cities whose selections were announced Thursday should foster greater cooperation among such independent institutions as schools, welfare agencies, employment services and housing authorities.

Unite Programs

"With Model Cities, we're saying that the cities are going to have to pull all these things together," Taylor said.

Authority for the model programs, which will focus on a blighted single neighborhood in each city, will rest with the mayors.

While the government is requiring local agencies to work together, it's requiring the same of itself.

For the first time the government will have a team in each region representing such agencies as the departments of Housing and Urban Development, Health, Education and Welfare, Labor and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Taylor and other officials have been careful not to hail the model cities program as the long-awaited answer to the problems of the cities. "Some federal programs have been seized upon in the past as instant solutions," Taylor said.

Learn Problems

The program, which will grant a total of $11 million for initial planning grants to the selected cities, is an effort to find out how to solve the problems of the cities—not to actually solve them.

With about $300 million in operational grants and the aid of all existing federal, state and local government programs, the goal will be to make the target neighborhoods showpieces.

Federal officials admit it won't be easy. The neighborhoods include some of the poorest, roughest, dirtiest, crime-ridden areas of the nation's depressed cities.

But if the effort works as planned, Taylor said, the chosen neighborhoods will become "the laboratories of the nation" for finding by experimentation the means of rebuilding whole cities.

HUD Secretary Robert C. Weaver says the program could lead to a national effort to rebuild the cities on the scale of the Marshall Plan for rebuilding war - ravished Europe after World War II.

Truck Driven Through Roof Brings Lawsuit

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Pietro Lombardo has been sued for $160,000 on grounds he drove his pickup truck through the roof of a house.

William and Ora January of Reno complained Thursday that the truck woke them up when it careened off an interstate 80 ramp and plunged through their roof.

Mrs. January was seriously injured and the house and its contents were destroyed, the suit filed in Washoe District Court asserted.

Tasty Remedy

If Elephant Shivers, It's Brandy She Needs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Police dispatcher Nicholas Ciolorito picked up the telephone Thursday and a pleading voice said, "My elephant needs some brandy, quick, quick."

After several moments, the caller convinced the disbelieving policeman that he actually had a shivering elephant which needed the brandy to warm up.

The caller was James Van Bushkirk Jr., 18, a handler for "Tuffie," an elephant used by a Woodstock, Ill., paint company for promotion purposes.

Van Bushkirk explained arrived here with Tuffie for a trade show this weekend and stayed overnight in a motel. Tuffie was in her heated trailer on the motel prking lot.

But during the night, the heater malfunctioned and the temperature fell below freezing. When Van Bushkirk routinely checked Tuffie, the 2-year-old female Indian elephant was shivering.

Remembering that brandy warms up elephants, he called police, who rushed a bottle over.

Tuffie downed a cupful of brandy and all was well until the heater was repaired.

UCLA and USC Collide

Roses will be blooming in the thoughts of UCLA, Southern California, Indiana and Minnesota football players Saturday, but for Army, no matter what happens, the season will be one of bittersweet memories Top-ranked UCLA will battle No 4 Southern California in Los Angeles, with a Rose Bowl invitation and probable national championship at stake.

The other Rose Bowl berth will be decided at the Indiana-Minnesota game at Minneapolis Even if third-ranked Purdue beats Michigan State Saturday and then fifth-ranked Indiana the following weekend, the Boilermakers will be ineligible for the Rose Bowl under Big Ten rules because they played in the last one.

But Army has nothing to look forward to but victories at Pittsburgh Saturday and over Navy Dec. 2 for a 9-1 record, the best at West Point since the 1949 team was 9-0.

Squelch Hopes

Some of the sweetness went out of the Cadets' season Thursday when the Pentagon announced the Army football team will not accept a bid to the Sugar Bowl or any other postseason game. The Sugar Bowl had indicated an interest in inviting the Cadets.

Other games involving Top Ten team Saturday:

Second-ranked Tennessee plays Mississippi at Memphis, Tenn.; No 6 Wyoming is at Texas-El Paso at night; seventh-ranked Oklahoma is at home against Kansas; No 8 Oregon State, which has beaten Purdue and Southern Cal and tied UCLA, entertains Oregon; No 9 Notre Dame is at Georgia Tech and 10th-ranked North Carolina State is at Clemson. Maryland is at Wake Forest in the only game involving major teams tonight.

The big game of the weekend has to be the one between UCLA, 7-0-1, and Southern California, 8-1, which will be televised nationally (ABC, 4 p.m., EST).

Not only does it involve a race for the Rose Bowl and national honors, but it also will pit two of college football's super stars—UCLA quarterback Gary Beban and Southern Cal halfback O. J. Simpson.

Toss Up

It shapes up as a battle between UCLA's offense and Southern Cal's defense, but in this traditional game surprises are the rule.

Wyoming, the only other unbeaten-untied team in the Top Ten, with a 9-0 record, will have to be alert to keep from getting thrown for a loss by Texas-El Paso.

The Cowboys, fourth ranked on total defense, must stop the passing of Texas-El Paso quarterback Billy Stevens and his backup man, Brooks Dawson. Stevens needs just two TD tosses in his next two games to top the NCAA career record of 50 set by Babe Parilli of Kentucky and tied by Brigham Young's Virgil Carter.

Other big games Saturday include Alabama at South Carolina, Colorado at Kansas State, Nebraska at Missouri, Ohio University at Penn State, Yale at Princeton and Idaho at Houston at night.

Pete Schmidt Records 665 Set; Ed Schultz Tops Legion League

Tom Hibbard went on a strike spree in the 41 Bowl Classic League Thursday night and socked a 255 game and 665 series to lead the action.

The 41 Bowl team had a 1,071 scratch total, but team honors centered on the Out-o-Town squad which had a 1,043 game and hefty 3,010 series.

Pete Schmidt came within one pin of reaching Hibbard's total, as Schmidt recorded games of 239 and 226 and finished with a 665. Other top scores included a 243 game and 640 series by Chuck Bayer, a 226 game and 637 series by Larry Althaus, a 619 by Gordy Heffernon and a 247 line and 610 series by Al Spang.

In the American Legion League at the 41 Bowl last night, Ed Schultz rolled a 235 game and 627 series. Others with high scores included Wayne Gonyea 570, Norb Grassl 568 and Gil Stordock 552.

Ed Van Berkel uncorked games of 235 and 225 for a 619 series and top honors in the Businessmen's League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes last night. Earl "Soupy" Williamson pounded a 233 line and had a 574 series while Bud Rector hit a 557 set.

Dick Penkala's 612 series was tops in the Banta League at Sabre Lanes Thursday night and the only other honor score was a 563 by Ken Konetzke.

In the Grocers League at the 41 Bowl last night, Wayne Steinberg rolled a 234 game and Larry Shebilske had a 601 series. Steinberg finished with a 596 series and Shebilske had a 229 game with the high set.

Managerial Job Of AL Seattle Club May Go to Wills

SEATTLE (AP) — Maury Wills is the first candidate for the job of managing Seattle's proposed baseball team in the American League.

The banjo playing base burglar, who summers at third base in Pittsburgh, is night clubbing in this area with his instrumental group. The Glades. Wills sings, tells jokes and plinks the banjo in the four-man group.

"I would like to manage baseball in only one of two places," said the champion stealer of bases (104 with Los Angeles in 1962). "Seattle or Los Angeles.

"Seattle because I played here in 1957 and because I like the Pacific Northwest so much," explained Wills, whose home is across the state in Spokane. "Los Angeles because I'm familiar with the Dodger personnel."

Wills said he believes he has "five good, strong seasons" left as a player. He hit .300 for Pittsburgh last season after moving there from the Dodgers.

Fans Will See 'Real' Starr in Sunday's Game

come a long way physically since those early weeks of the season, when he missed virtually all of three games because of a sprained thumb, bruised ribs and bruised muscle in the shoulder of his passing arm.

Feels Very Good

"I feel very, very good," Bart was happy to report Thursday. "If it were not for this pesty thumb thing, I'd feel great. If I didn't have to tape the thumb, everything would be perfect. I'm sure it's more psychological than anything, but I feel I don't have the control I should have some times. I don't like to have anything on my hand, which I suppose is the way anyone might feel."

Although Packerland was agog over Travis Williams' two kickoff runbacks for touchdowns in that rout of the Browns, Coach Vince Lombardi observed in his postgame press conference, "The story of the game was Bart Starr. . .the way he's come around," and eloquent testimonial of what a healthy Starr means to the Pack.

"I'm sure it probably was my best game," Bart agrees, "because I haven't played well all year." He chuckled and appended, "it wouldn't take too much."

With that glittering 14-for-21 performance, which amassed 249 yards, the Packer field general vaulted from 16th to 11th place in the league's individual passing race. He now is, coincidentally enough, just behind the 49ers' John Brodie, league champion in '65, who ranks 10th.

Old Authority

Starr, throwing with his old authority, has padded his percentage to a highly respectable 53.6 on 75 completions in 140 attempts, good for 1,148 yards and 5 touchdowns.

Even in the County Stadium romp, however, he had been felled for losses four times, it was noted. Did this suggest that the pass rush has become more devastating?

"I don't think so," Bart replied. "I think there were a couple of times I probably should have thrown the ball away. . .passing is such a closely timed thing — just a half second can be the difference in getting the ball away, or being thrown for a loss."

"I've had just as good protection as I've ever had. When I get caught, it's probably as much my fault as anybody's. . .maybe I lost a receiver, or didn't see him and waited a little long trying to spot him."

Army Berth in Bowl Rejected By Pentagon

Bid Would Not be Consistent With Cadets' Goals

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — There'll be no Sugar for the Army football team on New Year's Day, but the classy Cadets won't find a Pentagon "No Bowl" edict too hard to swallow —if they can make Pitt and Navy their cup of tea.

Cadet hopes for an unprecedented postseason appearance were dashed Thursday when Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor decreed that no bowl bids would be accepted by the U.S. Military Academy.

"It was concluded that accepting an invitation to play in a postseason bowl game would tend to emphasize football to an extent not consistent with the basic mission of the Academy, which is to produce career Army officers," the Pentagon statement read.

Army, driving toward its best season wind-up in 18 years, reportedly had been in line for an invitation to the Sugar Bowl classic in New Orleans. Sugar Bowl officials had indicated strong interest in the Cadets, 7-1, should they get past Pitt Saturday.

While one Army bowl booster, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., was sharply critical of the decision, and vowed he would seek to have it changed, the Cadets themselves kept in step with the order from above.

Vocally disappointed Thursday morning when reports circulated that "people in high places" would reject an Army bowl appearance because of the Vietnam war, the Cadet Corps had regrouped by nightfall and were sighting their guns on Saturday's foe—and Navy.

YMCA Handball Turkey Tourney Slated Saturday

The Appleton YMCA's second annual handball turkey tournament will be held Saturday.

Eight 2-man teams have entered the competition, which begins at 9:15 a.m. In the opening pairings, it will be Jim Crane and John McInnes against Ken Anderson and Bud Koehnke; Ken Kitchen and Ken Kitchen, Jr., against Dennis Sommers and Milt Enright, John Bartmann and Aldo Santaga against Stu Locklin and Dan Gauslin and Doug Hansen and Bill Branta against Carl Rehfeldt and Ray Neveau.

Wolman Waives Deadline for Creditors to Sign Agreement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Wolman waived Thursday the Friday deadline he had set for creditors to sign an agreement he hopes will give him the time and cash to firm up his weakened multi-million-dollar financial empire.

Wolman, who owns a majority interest in the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has told his creditors he plans to pay "100 cents on the dollar" within 18 months if they all will sign his agreement.

As part of the agreement, Wolman said he intends to sell some of his holding including the Georgian Towers, a $17 million high-rise apartment in Silver Springs, Md.; Connie Mack Stadium here and the Yellow Cab Co of Philadelphia.

Wolman says he will not, however, sell the Eagles.

Pete Rozelle, NFL commission, says he had already received calls from two potential purchasers of the Eagles "on the basis of stories" about Wolman's financial troubles.

He said one of the interested parties was Joseph M. McCrane Jr., former general manager of Garden State Race Track and one of the early bidders for the Eagles four years ago when Wolman bought the team for $5.5 million.

Badgers Play Home Finale

Indiana 14-9, and Ohio State 17-15.

"Somewhere there always seems to be a critical penalty," lamented Coatta. "They've hurt us tremendously this year."

The Badgers, in fact, are tied with Michigan as the most penalized team in the league.

Wisconsin and Michigan each has been penalized an average of 60.4 yards per game.

Coatta said he definitely plans to start quarterback John Boyajian, who won back his starting berth in the past two games from junior John Ryan.

Boyajian turned in solid performances against Indiana and Ohio State and ranks fifth in the conference with 34 completions in 71 throws for 425 yards. Ryan is ranked 12th in the conference.

Coatta said he is impressed with what he has seen of the Wolverines.

"The more I see of them on film the better they look," he said.

One of Coatta's big worries is sophomore halfback Ron Johnson, who scored the winning touchdown in Michigan's 21-14 victory over Illinois last week.

Johnson has rolled up 876 yards rushing this season, only nine short of Tom Harmon's 1939 school record.

The meeting Saturday will be the 29th between the two clubs. Michigan owns a 20-7 advantage. One game ended in a tie.

Wisconsin's last victory over the Wolverines was in 1962 by a 34-12 score Michigan downed Wisconsin 28-17 last year and routed the Badgers 50-14 in 1965.

Trotter Quint Makes League Debut Tonight

The UW-Fox Valley Center will make its University of Wisconsin Center System Basketball Conference debut at Racine at 8:30 p.m. today. The Trotters will visit Kenosha at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Bob Bachhuber, starting his 12th season as coach of the Trotters, has three returning veterans. They include Tom Ehlke, former Fox Valley Lutheran star, who was an all-conference choice last year and the second ranking scorer in the circuit. Dan Zuleger and Rich Riehl.

Last year's team posted a 10-4 record, tying Sheboygan, Racine and Manitowoc for second place behind champion Kenosha.

ARD Grade Cage Program Set to Start

A total of 51 boys' teams and eight girl's teams will begin play Saturday in the Appleton Recreation Department's grade school basketball program.

Eighteen teams will compete in the Fifth Grade Boys circuit at Franklin school. Nine teams are slated to play in the National Division of the Sixth Grade Boys League, while 10 will compete in the American Division. Both divisions play at Wilson school.

The Seventh Grade Boys league has attracted eight teams. Games are played at Franklin school. The 6-team Eighth Grade Boys League will also play at Franklin school.

Eight girls' teams (on the seventh and eight grade level) will play in the Wilson school gym.

Ice-Making Process Told

Curling Club Opens Season

BY REINHART J. WESSING

It may be a bit early in the season for fishermen to inquire about the condition of the ice. But not for the 140 members of the Appleton Curling Club.

The ice is being made right now by E. J. Murray, and the first day of play will be Saturday.

In an effort to increase interest and participation in their Scottish-grown sport the local club will have an open house Monday in the clubhouse behind Biggars Motel, on W. College Ave.

During the open house, from 7:30 p.m. until the place is empty, there will be curling movies, curling instructors to give advice and, of course, an opportunity to sign a membership blank.

About a Week

Murray, long-time club member, explained that it takes about a week to make the ice. It has to be built up carefully so it will not crack. Cracks interfere seriously with the path a curling stone takes after being thrown toward its target.

An inch and a half sheet of ice is built up in one-eighth inch layers, murray explained. That means that for the four sheets of ice he is creating he uses 750 gallons of water for each one-eighth inch layer to cover all four.

The last layers of ice are created by flooding with 90-degree temperature water, which melts the surface of the previous layer and, in effect, welds the two layers together. Otherwise, the two layers will come apart like two pieces of paper. Such peeling of the ice ruins curling, Murray explained.

Hard water makes better ice than soft water, he said.

Before the finish coats are applied dehydrated lime is spread over the sheets of ice to turn them snow white. Then the color target rings are made at each end.

The finish coats of ice are applied with a device invented by Murray and made with terricloth. A very thin glaze is put on the ice, which gives it a coat as smooth as velvet.

Then an ice pebble surface is created by spraying tiny water droplets onto the sheets, which freezes on contact. The curling stone rides on these pebbles, and the sweeping brooms used by good sweep can bring the 42-pound stone 10 to 12 feet closer curlers create a suction to draw the stone onto the target. A to the target, Murray said.

The Appleton Curling Club's ice has been prepared for Saturday's season opening. Ed Murray puts on the final touches as he "shaves" the ice. (Wessing Photo)

Dick Tiger Slight Favorite in Bout

Light-Heavyweight Title on Line Against Rouse Tonight

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Venerable old Dick Tiger is due to make his 76th trip into a boxing ring when he risks his world light heavyweight championship in a 15-round fight tonight with Roger Rouse, the top challenger in the 175-pound division from Montana.

The 38-year-old Tiger, from the newly-created African state of Biafra, is a slight favorite at odds of 6-5 to turn back the bid of the taller, heavier fellow from Anaconda, who has had 38 fights in a rather frustrating career.

The match goes on in the Las Vegas Convention Center, with about 5,000 fans expected to attend. The match will have national television exposure via Sports Network, Inc., with Montana and Nevada blacked out. The time: 7 p.m., PST.

Lost to Griffith

Tiger, twice the world middleweight king until losing the crown to Emile Griffith early in 1966, won the light heavyweight title from Jose Torres by decision in New York on Dec. 16, 1966, and retained it in a rematch in New York last May 16.

Rouse, 32, began fighting professionally in 1958. At one stage he quit the game for two years, discouraged he felt his manager at the time was not enhancing his career.

Tiger has won 57 bouts, lost 15, winning 25 by knockouts, and boxed three draws. He has never been knocked out.

Rouse, twice the national intercollegiate champion when attending Idaho State University, has won 30, lost 5, drew in 3, stopped 18 opponents and was stopped once on a broken nose in a fight in 1963.

(6-4), Pete Hansen (6-6) and Vic Trastek (6-1). Other top prospects include Pat Walsh (6-5), Mike Muchowski (6-1) and Mark Miller (6-0). Sepnafski, who scored 163 points in the circuit last season, is the only returning starter.

NORTH — Coach Bill Richards has a wealth of experience back, with six lettermen (including the top three guards of last season). The top guards are Bill Pragalz (a 202-point scorer), Mike Kuechle and Mike Martin. Forecourt lettermen are Pat Matzdorf, Mike Krueger and Bob Wondergem. Junior Mark Hildebrand (6-4) is being counted on to provide rebounding strength, along with Wondergem (6-2) and high jumper Matsdorf (6-1).

GREEN BAY EAST — Three Red Devils have the largest lettermen complement — 10 — but a number of them saw heavy duty in the last few games only, after Coach Bob Torresani dropped several regulars for training violations. John De Young (6-3) and Bob Brawner (5-1) are returning regulars, while Tom Hummel (5-1) was a top reserve. The other lettermen — Bill Van Beaver, Neil Bray, Jim Frey, Dennis Jeffers, Stan Buhrer, Ben Laird and Dave Cook — will help give East its best depth in years. Brawner, the top shooting prospect, scored 204 league points last season.

OSHKOSH — Among the experienced returnees Coach Don Erickson has are Al Janke, Paul Elbin and Jim Strasser. Janke (5-9) was a backcourt starter, and Strasser started a number of games at forward. Elbing was the team's "sixth man." Tom Last, 6-4 junior, is being groomed to replace all-conference Jon Weber. Prospects from the JVs include guard Arvid Johnson and front-liner Fred Auclair.

FOND DU LAC — Terry Bester (5-11) senior guard) is the only letterman available to Coach Fritz Lautenschlager, who has lost all of his 1966-67 starters. Bob Bendrick (6-3), a transfer from New Richmond, is expected to provide a lot of the scoring punch. Varsitymen returning include Scott McCallum (6-2), Mieke Gusse (6-2) and Don Eiring (5-11). Prospects from the JVs include Kim Evans (6-1), Mike Galles (6-1), Steve Zimmerman (6-1) and Mick Furhrman (6-8).

SOUTHWEST — Nault has four lettermen. They are 6-1 Dave Froistad (a 211-point scorer last season), 6-3 Gary Ecke (133 points), 6-2 Bill VandenHoogen (79 points) and Keith Goldschmidt (55 points). The top candidate from the JVs is John Vogel (5-11). Senior Paul Kornowski (5-11) is also expected to help.

SOUTH — Four lettermen scored 435 points last season — one of the highest returning totals — but the team lacks height. Charles Simon (6-2½), who scored 211 points last season, is the tallest starter. Other lettermen for Coach John Schumann are Pete Fischer, Tom Ashworth and Charley Kometer. Vic Adamavich and John LaBouve are other varsity returnees.

APLETON EAST — Morse has three lettermen from last season's Appleton Terror state tourney team. They are Tom Jones, Rick Stach and Bob Meyer. George Mills is another with varsity experience. Prospects from the JV team include Bob Birkholz and Gary Bleier.

APPLETON WEST — The only regular and letterman available to Coach Dick Emanuel is Tom Hintz. Others back with some varsity experience are Mark Schroeder, Carl Hunt and Ade Dillon. JV grad prospects include Mike Simon and Mark Catlin.

PREBLE — Coach Jerry Hopfensperger has only two lettermen: Mike Wier and John Guzzonato. Wier, a 6-3 junior, scored 127 league points last season. Other varsity returnees are 6-2 Dan Blohowiak and 5-9 Dennis Peterson. The leading prospect from the JV squad is 5-9 Scott King.

Berlin Hands Omro 70-60 Cage Defeat

BERLIN — A 22-10 edge in the third quarter proved decisive, as Berlin defeated Omro's Foxes, 70-60, in a non-conference opener for both schools here Thursday night.

The home Indians took a 19-14 lead at the first quarter mark and stayed atop, 33-29, at the intermission before exploding in the third frame. A half-court press proved to be too much for the Foxes to handle.

Berlin got balanced scoring from three players, with guard Paul Cismocki pouring through 20 points to share game honors. Norb Mendleski and Steve Schwarz each contributed 16 points to the Indians' cause.

Bright spot for Omro was the play of guard Randy Wade. The 6-2 sophomore tossed in 20 points. John Hoeft was runner-up with 12.

OMRO (14-15-10-21—60) J. Hoeft 2 8-2; Jungwirth 4-2-0; Davis 5-1-1; S. Hoeft 2-32; Wade 7-6-4; Baurichter 0-0-3. Totals 20-20-12.

Xavier Meets Assumption '5'

looks optimistically to its 12th winning season in a row.

The Royals, 11-9 overall a year ago, lost four regulars and return just one starter. He is Greg Schneider, a 5-10 senior guard, who failed to score against Xavier in last season's game.

Four other lettermen also return to Olson. They are seniors Denny Kreuser (5-8); Mike Walczak (5-11); Bob Fenske (6-2); and Tom Duval (5-11). Duval recently gained Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference honors for the Royals' football team, but is nursing a shoulder injury.

The Royals will also look to forward Mike Putnam, a transfer student from Marshfield Columbus, to help in the scoring department. Putnam, a 5-11 senior, was the Dons' second-high scorer last season as a junior.

Assumption, according to Olson, will be a scrappy team with emphasis on a speedy type of attack on offense and a pressing defense.

New Kimberly Sports Group Attracts 35

KIMBERLY — Thirty-five adults turned out for the initial meeting of a quarterback club and elected officers to serve until after the basketball season.

The Quarterback Club was selected as a temporary name for the organization which will be designed to promote athletic interest at Kimberly High School. Serving as president will be Eugene McLaughlin with Jerry Vander Velden, vice president; Miss Janet Behling, secretary, and Richard Van Hammond, treasurer.

Al Harke was named to head a committee to study organizational procedures of similar clubs in the area and to recommend a name. The committee will also be responsible for drawing up a constitution and by-laws. Serving with Harke will be Joseph Bolwerk and Gilbert Frank.

Plans were discussed to hold another meeting the week of Nov. 27.

Future meetings are open to all persons interested in the high school athletic program.

Dispute on Concessions

Finley Sued for $10 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the new Oakland Athletics in the American Baseball League, was sued for $10 million Thursday by a concessionaire, the Twin City Sports Service, Inc.

Judge Roger Peckham of the U.S. District Court granted a temporary order forbidding Finley to enter any agreement for concessions with the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum Complex, Inc. which leases the 50,000-seat Coliseum to Finley. Judge Peckham will hear arguments Nov. 27.

Finley, recently granted permission by the league to move his franchise from Kansas City to Oakland, referred the matter to Robert T. Nahas, president of the Coliseum complex.

"The question of whether Mr. Finley is obligated to Sports Service is up to the courts," Nahas has said. "Filing of the suit at this time is unfortunate because our attorneys have been working on that."

The suit said Twin City Sports Service, Inc. has a contract with the Athletics, dated in 1950 when the team was in Philadelphia, but binding on the team anywhere until 1976.

Fourth Backfield in Less Than 2 Years, Lombardi Notes

GREEN BAY (AP) — "Way back in the days of the flying wedge, there was an axiom common among football coaches: a team is as good as its substitutes."

It holds true in these days of razzle-dazzle pro ball.

The Green Bay Packers, who play host to the San Francisco 49ers Sunday, can attest to the importance of a good bench.

Elijah Pitts took over at halfback last season when Paul Hornung was laid up with injuries.

He kept that spot when Hornung and fullback Jim Taylor departed for New Orleans before the start of the 1967 campaign. Jim Grabowski took over for Taylor.

Leg Injuries

Both suffered leg injuries Nov. 5 at Baltimore. Pitts is out for the season and Grabowski's return to the lineup is deferred.

Into their spots came Donny Anderson and Ben Wilson and performed nobly as the Packers trounced Cleveland 55-7 last Sunday.

Coach Vince Lombardi remarked. "That's the fourth backfield we've used in less than two years."

And waiting for a chance to show more of their stuff are backs Travis Williams and Chuck Mercein. Williams ran a pair of kickoffs back for touchdowns and Mercein picked up 24 yards in six carries.

"I was ready," Anderson said after the game. I wasn't as nervous as if I was going to come to sit on the bench again.

Anderson, who scored four touchdowns against the Browns, added, "The Packers are a very close team. And that is an asset in building spirit for a time like this when we are in trouble. Knowing they have confidence in you helps a great deal."

Wilson said, "It used to be that I couldn't wait for Sunday to be over. Now I look forward to Sunday and an opportunity to play."

Spat With Girl

Lions' Karl Sweetan Gashes Arm on Door

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lion quarterback Karl Sweetan suffered a six-inch cut on his left arm early Thursday as the result of a disturbance at his girl friend's apartment house, police reported.

The injury occurred when the 25-year-old passer drove his arm through a storm door while trying to enter the residence of his fiancee, Ruth Copeland, on Detroit's east side.

Miss Copeland called police.

"When officers arrived to answer the call, they found the storm door shattered and Sweetan's arm wrapped," said Inspector Russell Galloway. "He gave the officers verbal abuse and some harsh words were exchanged."

Third Incident

It was the third incident Sweetan has been involved in since joining the Lions last year.

Galloway said the incident occurred when Sweetan arrived at the Chandler Park Drive address and the girl with whom Miss Copeland lives would not let him in.

"The officers said that Miss Copeland declined to press charges, saying, "No, I just want to forget it." Galloway said.

Sweetan had his arm treated and bandaged later by the Lions' team physician. He worked out with the team Thursday afternoon and showed no effects from the cut.

"It's no problem," said Sweetan. "There's nothing to it. It was like having a little spat with your wife. Let it go at that."

No Police Action

"To my knowledge there has been no police action," said Russ Thomas, the team's general manager. "We plan no disciplinary action as things stand now."

Sweetan will probably start at quarterback Sunday when the Lions face the Baltimore Colts in Baltimore.

"It's a personal thing," said Coach Joe Schmidt. "As far as I'm concerned he had an argument with his girl. It has nothing to do with the ball club."

Two months ago the quarterback was involved in a fist-swinging incident in a Hamtramck bar. No charges were made.

He was arrested midway through last season on an assault charge filed by a bowling alley patron. He pleaded not guilty and the charge was dismissed before the case came to trial.

New Courts Authorized By Assembly

Calumet, Waupaca, Winnebago Among Counties Affected

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Authorization of four new trial courts in and near the Fox River Valley during the next two years was among the final actions of the state Assembly before its recess Thursday night.

Sponsored by the State Judicial Council and widely backed by the bar association, the measure would provide an additional branch of the county courts in Brown and Waupaca counties, and an additional circuit judge for the Winnebago-Calumet county district and the Brown-Door-Kewaunee county circuit.

New county courts were also approved for Dane, Milwaukee, Racine and Sheboygan counties, and an additional Circuit Court for Milwaukee County was authorized.

If the bill is enacted into law, as expected, by the Senate and Gov. Warren Knowles, the new Brown County judge will be chosen in the spring election of 1968, while the Fox Valley circuit judges and the new Waupaca County judge will be elected in the spring of 1969.

Ex-News Record Writer Promoted At Green Bay

Larry A. Belonger, a former sports editor of the Twin City News-Record and news editor of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, today was named managing editor of the Press-Gazette, Editor David A. Yuenger announced.

The managing editor position had been vacant since November, 1965.

Belonger, 32, has been with the Press-Gazette the past seven years, the last two as news editor. He started with the Press-Gazette in August of 1960 as a copy editor and sports writer. He later was a copy chief before being named Sunday magazine editor.

Belonger is a native of Two Rivers. He graduated from Washington High School at Two Rivers and later attended Manitowoc County Teachers College. He began his newspaper career as a part-time staffer for the Manitowoc Herald-Times while attending the teachers college. He then worked at the Twin City News-Record at Neenah as a city hall reporter, and then as sports editor. He joined the Herald-Times as sports editor and later was named wire editor there.

Rules Eased On Adoptions

Green Bay Diocese Apostolate Has No Waiting List

Due to the increase in children available and lack of a waiting list of parents, the Green Bay Diocese Apostolate has eased its adoption rules.

According to officials, there is no waiting list of adoptive parents and limits on the number of children a family can adopt have been removed.

Today prospective parents no longer must own their homes. Placements can be expected in less than a year, instead of two or three years.

A report released by the agency states that though the number of children increased, the number of adoptive parents is about the same as it was 20 years ago.

The imbalance is also charged to the fact that medical science has helped many couples who previously were unable to have their own children.

Recall Ordered For Toronadoes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A recall of 4,104 1967 and 1968 Oldsmobile Toronadoes has been ordered to see if they have improperly welded wheels.

Oldsmobile Division of General Motors Corp. said under certain conditions, the wheel rim could separate and cut the tire's valve stem. This, in turn, could cause tires to lose air. That has happened in one instance it said.

A division spokesman said 1,732 cars have the optional type of wheel, which may have improper welding. However, all cars are being recalled to determine which have the optional type wheel.

Results of War 'Pleasing,' President Johnson Insists

A Vietnamese Boy plays at war, firing his toy gun at passersby near his Saigon home, while wearing the boots of his father, a South Vietnamese Army soldier at home on leave. (AP Wirephoto)

Criticism 'Goes With Job' – LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that criticism is "one of the things that goes with the job" although he thinks "we have perhaps more than our share sometimes."

Johnson also told a news conference that his Vietnam commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, anticipates no increase in the troop level there. But he didn't say specifically when he thought a phase-out of troops could start.

To a request for a current appraisal of the way he looks at things—the most satisfying and the worst things he has experienced. Johnson replied at first that if he went into that he would be charged with filibustering.

'Revolutionary Strides'

But he went on to say that: "We have made revolutionary strides in education and health and conservation."

Johnson turned the conference into an ad lib address to the American people on Vietnam.

Removing his glasses and stepping away from the podium which held his notes, Johnson spoke for more than five minutes on the central issue of U.S. politics—the Vietnam war.

Standing before newsmen in the White House East Room, Johnson was on the dramatic side, gesturing more than usual, clapping his hands for emphasis, and bobbing his head around.

Smilingly, Johnson said he will cross when he comes to it the bridge of decision on running again for the presidency. He had been asked about surveys indicating he might be in trouble on Vietnam.

Serious Mistake

Anyone who believes that Uncle Sam, whoever is president, is going to pull out of Vietnam, is making a serious mistake, the President said.

If Ho Chi Minh has any doubts about it, "I want to disillusion him this morning," Johnson said. "We're going to keep our commitments."

Johnson was asked about the economic situation.

"We want very badly to have a tax bill just as quickly as we can get it," he said, adding that there is no indication that the House Ways and Means Committee plans to report one this year.

One of his administration's failures, he said, has been the inability to convince Congress of the need for a new tax bill.

"I think that's one of the great mistakes the Congress will make," he said, saying that Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, "will live to rue the

Sees No Further Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today "we are pleased with the results we're getting" in the Vietnam war. He also said his military commander "anticipates no increase" in the previously authorized U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

As for calls for a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam, Johnson told a news conference, Hanoi's own response has shown that stopping the air attacks alone will not bring the Reds to the negotiating table.

He said Hanoi's rejection of his latest offer of peace talks—made last weekend aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise—had been "clear and complete." That should answer the question of every person in this country who thinks a bombing halt alone will accomplish this end, he said.

'Hopeful People'

"There are some hopeful people and there are some naive people and there are some political people" who advocate a one-sided bombing suspension, but such proposals just "confuse and weaken our position," he said.

Reporting on his current talks with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. William C. Westmoreland—both back from Saigon for consultations—Johnson said:

"We are making progress. We are pleased with the results we're getting. We are inflicting greater losses than we are taking."

Johnson said the American people are impatient in war or in a football game, and want the action to build up quickly and the enemy to be defeated rapidly. He swung his arms wide, using his hands to indicate how the progress toward a quick victory might be shown on a chart.

Slower Tempo

"But it's not that kind of a war we're fighting in Vietnam," Johnson said, indicating that its tempo is much slower.

"In 1954 we said we'd stand with those people out there to meet the common danger," Johnson said. "The time came when we had to put up or shut up. We put up."

Johnson said that he had discussed the troop problem Thursday night with Westmoreland. He then recalled that he had previously considered and approved what he called "recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for the force level in Vietnam."

"Gen. Westmoreland," Johnson said, "tells me that he anticipates no increase in that level."

Wants Speedup

The buildup to 525,000 men is supposed to be accomplished by mid-1968, but Westmoreland has been reported seeking a speedup to maximum strength before that time.

As of last Saturday, the American troop strength in Vietnam reached 470,000 men, only 2,000 short of the peak U.S. strength in the Korean war 14 years ago.

Congressional sources quoted Westmoreland Thursday as being optimistic about the war's progress and as believing a troop reduction may be possible within two years. But he indicated no early end of the fighting is in sight.

Strategic Hill Seized by GIs

SAIGON (AP) — Driving through a murderous blaze of North Vietnamese machine gun and small arms fire, U.S. infantrymen late today seized the top of a strategic hill overlooking Dak To, in South Vietnam's central highlands.

AP Correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the battle scene that soldiers of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division "occupied the topmost point of the hill around 5 p.m. (4 a.m. EST) after some of the bloodiest fighting" in the two weeks of heavy combat in the area close to the Laotian and Cambodian borders.

Hanoi Target Hit

The air war against North Vietnam also intensified as, for the second straight day, another target came off the Pentagon's off-limits list. U.S. Air Force pilots made the first attack of the war on a secondary airfield one mile south of the center of Hanoi and reported they cut the runway and damaged buildings.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported from Hanoi that several U.S. bombs exploded in the center of the North Vietnamese capital, one of them in the diplomatic quarter.

Arnett said the 4th Division troops took Hill 1338 after day-long fighting against an enemy battalion in bunkers on the crest of the hill.

The hill, four miles south of the Dak To airstrip, is the highest point of ground in the area, overlooking all U.S. and South Vietnamese installations in the valley and a potential site for artillery emplacements to menace allied units below.

Arnett reported U.S. com-

Kenosha Bank Robbed, 1 Shot

SILVER LAKE, Wis. (AP) — One person was shot today during a holdup at a bank in this western Kenosha County community, and squads of police immediately converged on a gravel pit area near the community.

Officers said they believed the person or persons who held up the bank fled on foot toward the gravel pit. Several squads of officers were called to the scene.

The amount taken, if any, from the bank was not determined immediately. The identity and condition of the person shot were not known.

$14.9 Million Approved

Knowles Gets His School Aids

MADISON (AP) — Republican assemblymen have handed Gov. Warren P. Knowles his $14.9 million emergency school appropriation after beating down Democratic attempts to increase the aid.

GOP lawmakers rejected 17 Democratic amendments to the bill Thursday before giving the measure final passage and adjourning until Dec. 5.

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, acting governor in the absence of Knowles, signed the measure into law within minutes after it cleared the lower chamber.

The bill was offered by Knowles recently in the face of a threatened teacher strike in Milwaukee and amidst reports of violence in Milwaukee's troubled Inner Core.

Included in the increase is a $10.2 million appropriation in school aids: direct school aids totaling $4.75 million for Milwaukee, and $1 million in other Inner Core programs.

Local Taxes

The bill authorizes municipalities to impose hotel and automobile registration taxes. The city of Milwaukee is authorized to increase its tax rate for school purposes by stages in the next three years, from the present $13.50 per $1,000 of property valuation to $17 in 1970.

Seven hours of heated debate, which extended back into an abbreviated night session Wednesday, preceded Assembly adoption of the bill.

Left by the lawmakers for the December session, their third of the year, were such bills as highway safety, county chargebacks and revisions of state election laws.

Lawmakers mixed in bitter debate about new and expanded programs for schools.

Republicans contended there was no money left in the current $1.1 billion state budget to finance new programs.

Minority leader Robert Huber, D-West Allis, took Knowles to task for proposing a mill rate increase for Milwaukee and for his absence from the state during the financial squeeze.

Knowles, who is in the Far East heading a Wisconsin trade mission, was described as "Wisconsin's answer to Marco Polo."

"He apparently doesn't give a hoot for the property taxpayers of the Milwaukee area," Huber said. "What he has done is leave a trail of fractured property taxpayers behind him."

Huber described Republican lawmakers as legislative "quack doctors" who are "going to make a sick city violently ill."

Majority leader J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, countered that Milwaukee should shoulder most of the burden since it would profit the most from the emergency aid.

"Of the total appropriation, $8.5 million will go for Milwaukee and $7.3 million to the rest of the state," McKay declared.

The Republican labeled Democrats who failed to vote for the proposal as "totally insensitive and inhuman."

Assistant minority leader David Obey, D-Wausau, said he hoped the "bill will die, deader than a door nail, so we can come up with a meaningful solution."

The Assembly gave final approval to an open housing bill Thursday but fought off efforts to pry a much stronger measure from committee.

Forwarded to the governor's desk was a measure to permit cities to enact their own open housing laws — which can be stronger, but not weaker, than the state's open housing law.

The state statute exempts single dwellings and owner-occupied dwellings of four units or less.

Six in Family Perish in Flames

VALATIE, N.Y. (AP) — A mother and five of her 13 children perished today when a kerosene stove exploded and fire roared through their large house.

Her eight other children and another family of eight persons fled safely.

The body of Mrs. Laura Hagadone, 41, was found in the charred rubble about five hours after the cooking stove burst aflame, state police said.

60-Ton 'Bust of Sylvette'

Picasso Work to Adorn 'Village'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Picasso sculpture as big as the head of the great sphinx of Egypt is going to stand on Bleecker Street in the heart of Greenwich Village.

The "Bust of Sylvette"—a 60-ton work soaring 36 feet—will be built of sandblasted concrete in a court at New York University's Washington Square Center apartment complex.

Allan D. Emil, a lawyer and philanthropist, and his wife are presenting the work to the university and it is expected to be complete in 11 weeks.

The original of the work, done by Picasso in 1954, is a two-foot-high piece of folded metal with the features of the woman painted on. It is in the Museum of Modern Art here on loan from the artist.

Alfred H. Barr Jr., former director of collections at the museum and an authority on Picasso, said the city should applaud its acquisition.

Barr said Picasso first dreamed of colossal sculpture 40 years ago and completed a series of figure drawings, "but no one stepped forward to make the dream come true until the 1950s.

"Now, in our city, we shall have a monument sprung from a two-foot-high painted bent sheet metal, the head of a girl with ponytail hair, as big as the head of the great sphinx of Egypt."

Carl Nesjar, a Norwegian artist who has worked with Picasso on previous large sculptures, will do the work on the outdoor version with the artist's approval. The cost was not revealed.

Poured Over Form

In forming the work, buff-colored concrete will be poured over a form of packed black basalt pebbles and then sandblasted to reveal the detail.

Emil, 69, has an extensive personal art collection. He said he was making the gift because "I think New York City should have a Picasso sculpture of this size."

Last August, Chicago unveiled a 50-foot steel sculpture by Picasso, the first he had specifically designed for a civic project in the United States.

'I Expect to Win It,' Says Nixon of State's Primary

MADISON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon said today he would like to win Wisconsin's presidential primary decisively next April—if he decides to bid for the 1968 Republican nomination.

Wisconsin is tremendously important," Nixon said. "I want to win it. I expect to win it. My goal is to be a decisive winner in the primaries."

Nixon, former vice president, said however, he won't decide until "late January" whether to make another bid for the White House.

Wisconsin's April 2 primary could turn into a scramble between, Nixon, Michigan Gov. George Romney, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois.

Under a new state law, an 11-man selection committee will place all bona fide candidates on the ballot. A person could remove his name only by swearing under oath he did not intend to become a candidate.

Nixon, who served eight years as vice president under former President Eisenhower, ruled out the idea he might accept second spot on the GOP ticket.

"We need a new face as vice president," Nixon told a news conference.

Nixon said he did not believe Reagan would campaign in the Wisconsin primary even though he probably will be on the ballot.

William Sirek Explains VTE-12

Vocational, Technical Program Topic for Altrusa

Five years from the time a person stops learning, he will be unemployable, said William M. Sirek, director of Vocational and Technical Education District 12 Thursday evening at the Appleton Altrusa Club's guest night dinner. About 175 attended the program, which included selections by an Appleton High School West woodwind quintet.

Mr. Sirek noted that the need for vocational and technical education is great, and that it is important everyone understand the issues involved. In speaking on "Trends of Vocational and Technical Education for All" he noted the legislation that has been enacted in this field since the first law in 1911, and cited Wisconsin as a leader in this type of training.

The surge in technical education was fed by the post-World War II veterans who wanted new and upgraded vocational skills to compete in an industry that had vastly changed during the war years. When the federal Vocational and Technical Act of 1963 was set up, it provided that 55 per cent of the funds provided in the program go to high schools for vocational and distributive education program.

State Districts

The state has now been divided into 19 districts which are charged with providing this kind of education to all people of the state, rather than the former setup which gave it only to those living in municipalities or towns with vocational schools. Appleton is in District 12, which includes all of Waupaca, Outagamie and Winnebago Counties, almost all of Calumet and parts of Manitowoc, Brown, Portage, Waushara and Shawano Counties.

A District VTE-12 Board has the responsibility of providing a broadened, expanded and comprehensive program for a population almost doubled from that formerly served.

Must Know More

The rapid acceleration of knowledge and technical skills has doubled man's knowledge since 1941. It is expected to double again in 10 year, and again in another five. Education is essential if each person is to keep up and maintain his employability. Computers now operate on the high school level, and it is obvious their operators must know more than that. Mr. Sirek said that by the year 2000 he believes the 13th and 14th year of education will be a requirement.

At that time, he said, half the population will be working at jobs that do not yet exist, and that 50 per cent of today's high school graduates will change jobs because their present occupations will be phased out. This means retraining and continuing education for all who want to be part of the job market. It will include everyone from the man who needs to learn reading, writing and figuring, to the Ph. D. who needs to know technical skills.

The trend is evident today, he said, when auto mechanics must return to school to learn to repair fuel injection systems, and watchmakers to repair watches that are timed by electronically received radio signals. New materials in construction mean that every skilled laborer must continually upgrade his knowledge and his skills.

Number of Programs

The speaker outlined the areas which are included in vocational and technical education, and said that throughout the state there are 150 district vocational education programs, and that in this district alone 556 apprentices are receiving training at the vocational school.

Mr. Sirek also pointed out that the school also has 200 now taking high school credit courses preparatory to receiving diplomas, offers citizenship classes and farm management courses.

Definite Need

We need to look at the district and see what we need to offer, the speaker said. We have nothing in fluid power, and that will need to be provided, as will courses in paper technology and the foundry industry. Health occupations need trained people, and such areas will also be part of the course material.

Plans for a new facility call for a systematic look at the economy of the district, a consideration of how many will use the school and where it should be located to serve the area and population best.

It is hoped, Mr. Sirek said, that all problems will have been worked out and the faculty ready to serve all in the district by the fall of 1971.

Education, he said, is a birth to death commitment. It does, he admitted, cost money, but it should be considered an investment rather than a cost, essential to participation in the economic life of the nation. There is presently demand for skilled men in every occupation, he said, and people must be trained to perform the services that have become an essential part of our lives.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Annabelle Wolfe, who noted the speaker's subject was geared to Altrusa's theme, "Fit the Deed to the Need."

Among guests at the program were Altrusans from Neenah and Green Bay and Mayor and Mrs. George Buckley.

Lift Hour Rules On Women Who Work Shifts

The restrictions on night time work for women in Wisconsin will be eliminated under an amended rule adopted by the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations, to be effective February 1, 1968.

Under current department rules, women are not permitted to start or end a shift in manufacturing plants or laundries between the hours of 1 a.m. and 6 a.m., nor can they start or end a shift between midnight and 1 a.m. unless adequate transportation is available. Both these limits will be removed under the amended rules.

Douglas N. Ajer, administrator of the department's Division of Labor Standards, said the old rule was adopted in 1917, at a time when factory girls were turned out at all hours of the night and had little or no access to private transportation.

Mr. Ajer pointed out that the new rule does not change the limitations of the number of hours these women may work on night shifts. This will remain at eight hours daily and 48 hours weekly. However, Ajer said the women working in a general office will be permitted to work unlimited hours provided they are paid time and one-half for the hours in excess of eight daily and 48 weekly.

Talks to Continue On Offering UW For VTE-12 Site

A cautious probing of feelings on the possibilities of offering the Fox Valley Center to Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) for use as the district vocational school took place Thursday afternoon between officials of Outagamie and Winnebago counties with only agreement being reached on holding future talks.

Representatives of Winnebago County declined to take any position on the Outagamie County proposal until a specific written proposal is made and a reaction obtained from Winnebago County residents.

Outagamie County has proposed to purchase Winnebago County's half of the jointly operated school, sell the school to the vocational district, and then build a new university center in Outagamie County.

Represent Winnebago

Representing Winnebago County at the meeting were Supvs. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, and Orrin King, Oshkosh, trustees for the school, and County Board Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh. King also is vice chairman of the Winnebago County Board.

Outagamie County representatives were Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton; Board Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, and Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, one of the two Outagamie trustees for the school. The second trustee, Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, was not named to the special discussion committee.

Winnebago officials expressed doubt over the willingness of the vocational board to locate the school at the center site. King said he could not see the vocational school at that site. "It's not the right location to serve the area," he said.

Doubts Use

Thomsen said he felt the vocational board would want to "start from scratch" with a new building specifically designed for that purpose.

Esler said he thought if the two counties could reach an understanding the next step would be to have engineers investigate the usability of the center for vocational purposes. He admitted the possibility existed the center could not be used for a vocational school.

Officials of both counties agreed the future for the Fox Valley Center was bright but admitted its potential was limited under the present conditions.

DeLaHunt said that after their trip Monday (the trustees) to the Waukesha and Janesville centers he realized they could not compete with other centers

K-C, Thilmany Officials

Industry Questions Water Criteria Plan

GREEN BAY — Officials of two major Fox Cities paper industries Thursday questioned proposed minimum water standards for the lower Fox River. They asked whether the standards were realistic and whether it was economically feasible to meet them.

Robert E. Driessen, representing Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company of Kaukauna, and Richard M. Billings, assistant to the vice president of research and engineering for Kimberly-Clark Corporation, indicated it may not be possible for the paper mills to meet the proposed minimum standard for dissolved oxygen content in the water and questioned the basis of the standard and its point of control.

Billings directly attributed the planned shutdown of Kimberly Clark's Kimberly Pulp mill to the mill's inability to conform with the standards.

Oxygen Requirement

Both men appeared at a public hearing before the Division of Resource Development (DRD) on the water criteria proposals. The Fox River from Lake Winnebago to the upper dam at Appleton has been proposed for the highest category recreational use, fish and water acquatic life, industrial and cooling water, and public water supply, requiring an average of five parts oxygen per million parts water, and a minimum of four.

From Appleton to the mouth of the river, the standards would call for partial body contact recreation and industrial and cooling uses with an average oxygen content of two parts per million and a minimum of one.

Billings said that industry wants clean streams as much as anyone but that "we must keep our stream improvement efforts in balance with the rest of our efforts if we are to continue to exist."

"Kill the Goose"

He said the proposed classification would correct the majority of pollution problems in the lower Fox River. However, he added, if 95 per cent of objectionable pollution were removed, an equal amount of money would have to be spent to raise the dissolved oxygen content to the level claimed necessary.

"Industry comes in for its share of criticism." Billings said, "but none of the critics want to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. They just want to change it and have it act differently. Just how differently it can act and still produce the gold is the question."

Billings contended it would double the cost of pollution abatement to increase the oxygen content from two to five parts per million in the section of the Fox between Appleton and Lake Winnebago. "If, because of inability to meet such standards, plants were forced to relocate, the cost would be much higher than this."

He seriously questioned whether the oxygen content was the controlling factor in the quality of fishing. He said experience in some areas has shown just the opposite.

How Much?

It is a question, Billings said, of how much the mills along the Fox River can be improved. "If it isn't enough to meet the standards that are set, the mill will have to be shut down and a new one built" at a different location.

"I am not crying wolf," he added. "I am not warning of things that might happen or that may happen some day." Billings cited the closing of the Kimberly Pulp mill and said that since 1949 pollution at the mill has been reduced 75 per cent but that this still wasn't enough to meet the oxygen requirements. "With this old pulp mill, it was not feasible to make further

Judge Orders Fine, Suspension for Speeding, Fleeing

WAUPACA — Earl D. Boyles, 37, route 2, Fremont, was found guilty Wednesday by a 12-man jury in Circuit Court of attempting to flee from a state traffic patrolman.

The jury was out for nearly two hours before returning the guilty verdict.

Boyles was arrested Oct. 6 near Fremont on U.S. 10 by Trooper Harry Parker who also charged him with speeding 115 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone. Boyles entered pleas of innocent to both the speeding and fleeing charges when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court Oct. 11 and again in County Court Oct. 17. The case was transferred to Circuit Court and Judge Wendell McHenry was the acting Circuit judge for the case.

Prior to the closing arguments at the trial, Boyles' attorney entered a plea of no contest to the speeding charges.

Boyles was fined $100 and costs on the speeding charge and his driver's license was suspended for 15 days. On the fleeing charge, he was fined $200 and his license was suspended for 30 days. The two suspensions are to run concurrently.

Special Services Set

Waupaca Ready for Hunters

WAUPACA — Anticipating an influx of deer hunters in Waupaca County, the Sheriff and Conservation departments will provide added services for hunters and property owners of the county. The season opens Saturday.

Sheriff William Mork said that because of many complaints from property owners about trespassing, former county police captain, Royal Myhill, will patrol the county. He will be dispatched when a complaint is received. Other department officers will assist, Mork said.

The Conservation Department will have a deputy game warden on duty at the Sheriff's office from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday and Sunday to answer hunters' questions about lost permits or tags.

In the past a hunter had to wait until the county clerk's office opened Monday to obtain a duplicate.

Both Sheriff Mork and Conservation Warden Rex Oatman also warned hunters not to hunt on posted land without the owner's consent. "Trespassing is the most frequent complaint received during the hunting season," Mork said.

"Hunters found trespassing are subject to arrest and a fine," he said.

Another frequent complaint of property owners concerns hunters cutting fences and driving across fields. "Hunters on someone else's land should consider it a privilege and should respect another person's property," Mork said.

The officials also stressed safety. Waupaca County has perhaps the largest per capita deer herd in the state drawing hundreds of hunters. Not only should the hunter handle his gun to avoid injuring himself but he should also be constantly aware there are many other hunters in the woods, Mork warned.

"Last year Waupaca was fortunate not to have a hunting fatality and it would be good if the same statistic could be reported at the end of this season," the sheriff said.

Senate Votes Down Rogers Bill, 21 to 12

Decision Ends Year Of Struggle

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Senate Thursday killed the Rogers bill to shift the site of the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay campus to the west side of the Fox River.

The 21-12 vote ends a 12-month legislative struggle that started even before the 1967 Legislature convened last January.

The vote came after 90 minutes of debate on the Senate floor, more than four months after the bill, authored by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, passed the Assembly on a 55-37 vote.

The loser in today's battle was Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, who carried the battle for the bill into the Upper House. Lorge debated with northeastern Wisconsin legislators through the morning before going down to defeat.

His arguments were based on familiar allegations that the state site selection committee in choosing the contested Shorewood site met in secret and changed the criteria to mislead Outagamie County site backers.

Lorge contended the school, scheduled to open to juniors and seniors in 1969, should be shifted to the west side Larsen Farm site at the intersection of State 54 and U.S. 41 to speed commuting students from the Appleton area.

'Pork Barrel'

Winners in the battle were Sens. Robert W. Warren, R-Green Bay, and Reuben Laflave, R-Oconto, who called the bill "porgbarrel politics," "provincial legislation" and "a spite bill."

In a surprise move, Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, denounced the Rogers bill as a feud created by Outagamie County forces and said there is no pressure in his district to support the measure.

He attacked an editorial that appeared in Neenah-Menasha's Twin City News-Record, owned by The Post-Crescent, which had

Democrats Defeat Tribute to Froehlich

A scheduled discussion by Assemblymen William Rogers of Kaukauna and Gervase Hephner of Calumet County on the proposed tri-county merger bill at the Outagamie County Democratic Party meeting failed to materialize Thursday night. However, Republican Assemblyman Harold Froehlich almost received a commendation from the party.

A resolution by Harold Schneider, first district vice chairman, to commend Froehlich for "taking a progressive stand on trying to solve area problems" lost by a single vote.

Schneider said his intent was not necessarily to support the bill, but to recognize that Froehlich had a progressive idea.

After learning that Rogers and Hephner had not returned from Madison in time to attend the meeting, members debated whether to take a stand on the Froehlich bill which would merge Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties, but then offered the Froehlich motion instead.

Re-Elect Mrs. Taylor

Mrs. Robert Taylor was re-elected to her third term as chairman of the county unit. She defeated Mrs. William Sanders, 15-8.

The opposition to Mrs. Taylor had been unexpected and some party members indicated it developed because of Mrs. Taylor's association with movement within the party to oppose President Johnson. She quit the anti-Johnson group several weeks ago.

The only new officer is Miss Sylvia Stack who was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Milo Singler who did not seek re-election. Other officers re-elected were Harold Schneider, first district vice chairman; Joseph Promer, second district vice chairman; Robert Parnell, third district vice chairman, and Mrs. Gretchen Luther, treasurer.

Assembly Gets Pay Raise Bill

Senators Already Pass $600 Hike for State Legislators

MADISON (AP)—A bill that would give legislators a $600 a year salary hike was in the hands of the Assembly Thursday after receiving approval of the Senate in an about-face action Tuesday.

If the lower house approves, lawmakers will receive $9,000 a year instead of the current $8,400.

The Senate, which had twice rejected the proposal, did so again Tuesday but reconsidered a few hours later and approved it by a 17-16 vote. The reversal was achieved when Sen. William Hanse, D-Stevens Point, switched his vote at the last minute.

The legislators' raise was included in a seven-point salary plan for state agency and department heads. The scale ranges from the $9,000 for lawmakers to $26,000. The salary of the lieutenant governor would be raised from $7,500 to $10,000 a year.

The bill provides for a special citizens' salary review board to examine future changes in the lawmakers' pay.

Accountants' Review Course Set at Waupaca

Extension Center Considers Study at Other Locations

WAUPACA — A review course for accountants studying for the certified public accountant (CPA) examination will begin Nov. 25, at Waupaca High School.

Similar classes may be conducted in other locations if enrollments justify, according to Max G. Hensel, assistant professor of accounting at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, Menasha, and coordinator of UW Extension commerce programs for northeast Wisconsin. UW Extension is sponsoring the accounting review.

Other sites under consideration are Green Bay, Manitowoc and Marinette; Appleton, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh; and Marshfield, Stevens Point, Wisconsin Rapids and Wausau.

Will Offer Course

"We are willing to offer the course in as many locations as possible," Hensel said. "However, any location will have to provide a minimum of 20 enrollees."

A new state law requires accountants taking the CPA examination for the first time on and after July 1, 1968, to hold a bachelor's or higher degree in accounting from a school with standards similar to those of the University of Wisconsin.

Plans call for the review course to meet for 26 three-hour sessions through May 11, 1968. Among topics to be covered are accounting problems and practice, theory auditing and law. Registrants must have an undergraduate college major in accounting or the equivalent. Fee for the course is $85.

Registration materials for and further information on the CPA review course may be obtained from the Extension office at the Fox Valley Center.

Counties Talk On UW as Site For VTE-12

for staff. "We can hold our own for another year or two," he said, "but we are now competing with 'campus' centers."

Concept Changing

He added the original concept of the centers has changed and both students and faculty expect more. The limitations of the library were specifically cited.

Thomsen added there were problems but did not feel they were insurmountable. There is land available near the center for expansion, he said. He conceded it was expensive land but that it was still cheaper than moving the school.

All three Winnebago officials indicated they needed more information, including the proposed new site, before serious talks could take place.

Esler indicated that if the university was relocated it would probably be built either on the former Outagamie County Farm at U.S. 10 and 41 or just north of Appleton in the Town of Grand Chute.

School to Grow

DeLaHunt added they believed eventually the school would be built up to a four-year institution and this could not take place at the present location. "We feel we need more facilities but, at the same time, we don't want to put an ultimatum to your country," he said. "We want to be prepared and not have to make an 11th hour decision," he added.

Drexler said it was too early to say yes or no on the proposition, but they would be willing to discuss it among themselves. Thomsen and King agreed they would have to get the feelings of the rest of the Winnebago County Board and the residents, particularly those living in the Neenah-Menasha area.

Thomsen said Menasha has a close interest in the school because it was originally started in that city and was maintained by private donations for a period of time.

Both groups agreed to further talks after a sounding out of opinion in the counties.

Christian Business Men Hear Dale

Love Is Vital, Even to Gridders

There's a great temptation for all of us to become involved with our own lives and often we forget that other things come first, a man who is a hero to thousands of sports fans, told a [illegible] people Thursday.

Darrell Dale, Green Bay Packer end, spoke at the annual Christian Business Men's Committee dinner, sponsored by the Fox River Area committee and attended by family members and friends of the group.

Dale, who shared his personal testimony with the group, spoke on the theme "Three — both that which I have given and received."

Talks on Love

"This includes the love of my Christian parents and my family as well as the love of the heavenly Father," he said.

However, he added, not always is love for football, even as a youngster, also brought with it the love to win — to the point where I had a difficult time taking losses." Dale said. "And then I was traded to the Los Angeles Rams, a team which didn't win half the games in one season," he added.

"But I learned a great deal there; there should be a lesson when you're down and everyone should have a losing season to learn that lesson," the Packer end stressed.

He also discussed his present team and its coach.

"Lombardi is rough and tough on the field, as everyone knows," the football star said, "but he has a great deal of depth and we all respect him."

Team Devotion

It was through his approval, Dale said, that we could bring in team devotion a few minutes [illegible] each game and recent the Lord's prayer after the games [illegible] over the Baltimore game," he told the smiling audience, adding, "The Bible's team fellowship."

"It is this time of solitude that puts the game in proper perspective," he added.

Sharing the spotlight with Dale was singer Kaaren Miles, and the Rev. Earl Henning, who presented an inspirational song.

William H. Gibson gave the opening prayer and Donald Schnell, the closing prayer. Guests were Earl O. Wolff, Appleton police chief, Roland L. Kudinl, Appleton fire chief, and James Forten, Sheboygan, chairman of the Northern Wisconsin district of the businessmen's group. Calvin Huebner, chairman of the local committee, was in charge.

The object of the organization is to bring Christianity to uncommitted men in the community.

Mills Question Water Criteria

reductions in pollution so the decision was made to shut it down," Billings said. This closing, he noted, will remove $14,200 a day from the area's economy.

He strongly recommended the state "carefully consider the costs involved relative to the benefits gained" before proceeding.

Driessen also cited the problems involved in meeting the dissolved oxygen requirements and indicated it was not entirely within the control of paper mills. He said Thilmany started its stream improvement program more than 30 years ago and has, since 1927, checked the oxygen content of the water both above and below the mill during summer months.

Low Oxygen Count

Low oxygen content, he said, is regularly associated with low river flow, a situation controlled by the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

"Dissolved oxygen, or the use of available water for maximum oxygenation, was not and is not a criteria in controlling the flow," Driessen said.

"I feel that local efforts to improve the stream must be coupled with those of the federal government to give basic consideration to the control and release of waters from Lake Winnebago, especially during the summer months," he added.

He urged a hydrological study be made on the flow control with dissolved oxygen content being one of the primary considerations.

"If minimum river flow is not increased by effective control, it is my opinion that regardless of what municipalities, industries and other users do, the dissolved oxygen level proposed appears to be relatively unrealistic," Driessen stated.

criticized him for not taking a position on the pending legislation.

Draheim said that after reading the editorial he visited both sites in Green Bay and said that, "Without question, the site selected is certainly the most desirable of the two sites."

Lorge was the only northeastern Wisconsin lawmaker to vote for the bill, which was attacked by Sen. Alec Meunier, R-Sturgeon Bay, who said shifting the site to the west side of the Fox River would hurt students from his district, which consists of Door and Kewaunee counties.

Embarrass Knowles

Lorge was able to win five of the 12 Democratic votes in the Upper House. Some Democrats had backed passage of the bill in an attempt to embarrass Gov. Warren P. Knowles, a Republican, into becoming involved in the bitter regional dispute.

Knowles had given some indication he would veto the bill if it reached his desk.

Voting with Lorge was Majority Leader Jerris Leonard, R-Pulaski, who is particularly opposed to the bill. His vote is expected to be an attempt to appease Lorge's fury over Republican losses.

Fox River Is Key Issue

Industry, Conservationists Duel Over Water Standards

BY RAY PAGEL
Post-Crescent News Service

Citizens and conservationists dueled with paper mill interests in a long session here Thursday over Northeastern Wisconsin water resources.

Twenty-two persons testified at the hearing called by the state Division of Resource Development (DRD). Quality standards and use classifications proposed by the DRD for intrastate waters were on the agenda.

Mainly the discussion concerned the Fox River. The East, Oconto and Peshtigo Rivers and Lake Winnebago also came in for attention.

All agreed that high water quality is a desirable and essential objective. The disagreement was over the degree of attainment.

Testimony presented at the hearing will be weighed by the DRD in establishing standards for all navigable waters of the state.

Lone Sessions

Held in the WBAY auditorium, the hearing attendance exceeded 100. It opened at 10 a.m. and ended at 3 p.m., with time out for lunch. Similar hearings held at Madison and Milwaukee this week attracted considerably less interest.

The hearing was followed by a meeting of the DRD's Region 3 Advisory Board. That took another three hours, and resulted in several specific recommendations to the state agency.

Eleven paper industry representatives testified. Their main theme was that standards proposed for the Fox River from Appleton to the Bay are aimed for significant improvement over present conditions.

Seeking Answers

"We are still seeking answers for further pollution abatement through continuing studies," the hearing was told by M. A. Lundstrom, mill manager for the American Can Company, Green Bay.

M. J. Auchter, vice president of manufacturing for Charmin Paper Products, Green Bay, stressed that the Fox River is a unique case requiring special consideration.

"One factor is the natural occuring algae loads discharged from Lake Winnebago. When they occur, they constitute one of the largest single sources of BOD (biological oxygen demand) on the Fox River," Auchter declared.

A second factor, he stressed, is that the 39-mile stretch of the Lower Fox has the highest concentration of pulp and paper mills in the United States.

Virgil Muench, representing the Brown County Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, questioned the sincerity of industry people who say they are earnest about pollution abatement.

Arthur Kaftan, another Izaak Walton Spokesman, made a strong presentation for the Oconto River below Oconto Falls. That stretch of about 23 miles was given the same classification as the Fox River in the DRD's proposals.

"You are proposing to turn the Oconto River over to a single industry," he charged, referring to the Scott Paper Company at Oconto Falls.

"We request that the river be classified to sustain fish and other aquatic life. It was, and it could be, a beautiful stretch of river."

David Pagel, speaking for the Fort Howard Paper Company, Green Bay, stressed the need to have standards set up that are well defined and realistic.

Mill Economics

Economics of paper mill operation were discussed by R. M. Billings, research and engineering specialist for the Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah. As announced several months ago, he pointed out that the firm's pulp mill at Kimberly is being shut down because it would have been impossible to maintain the necessary quality standards and still show a profit.

Nicholas J. Lardieri, manager of air and water resources for the Scott Paper Company, testified that his firm has made substantial improvements at the Oconto Falls mill. Tests show a high degree of attainment in oxygen content of the water, he declared.

Other paper industry officials reporting on steady improvements included Robert Mader, for Consolidated Paper's Mill at Appleton; Raymond Delat, Badger Paper Mills, Peshtigo, and Robert Driessen, Thilmany Paper Company, Kaukauna.

Labor Unions

Clifford Murphy and Francis Besaw spoke as representative of labor union locals at American Can. They asked that application of water standards be realistic so that employment would not be jeopardized.

William Thomasma and John Wilson, De Pere, pleaded the conservation cause, urging high standards in order to attain some measure of pollution abatement and control.

Mrs. Joseph Dercks, speaking for the Appleton League of Women Voters, said she was delighted with the proposed upgrading of the Fox River between Lake Winnebago and Appleton.

"We live in the heart of the paper country, and are aware of the problems involving the river. We hope the standards proposed for the Fox between Appleton and Green Bay will be adopted as minimum and reviewed periodically," Mrs. Dercks stated.

We put our old bus in a new box.

It there was anything the old bus didn't need, it was more room on the inside.

Which brings us to the first thing you should know about the new box.

There's more room on the inside.

In fact, the Volkswagen Station Wagon has almost twice as much room inside as conventional station wagons.

On the outside (which is a little bigger, too) we replaced the 13 little windows with 8 big ones. And one of them is a wraparound windshield.

What next?

A wraparound bumper to help you step up into the driver's compartment through wider front doors.

As for the 2 side doors, they're not there anymore. We replaced them with a single sliding safety door. It locks when it's open and locks when it's closed.

An aisle through to the back is now standard equipment. (After all, what's a bus without an aisle?)

If you'd rather do without the charm and convenience of an aisle, it'll cost you.

But you'll get 2 more seats (total: 9) for your trouble.

Only Volkswagen would give you fewer windows. Fewer doors. Fewer seats.

— He started herd classification in Calumet County and had his herd classified 12 times during which six Cherry Bold cows were rated excellent. Numerous other Cherry Bold cows were classified in other herds.

— For nine consecutive years the state association named him a progressive breeder. He was a constant exhibitor at district black and white shows, county fair, state fair and international dairy exposition.

— He was in the herd improvement registry program for 22 years. His herd's lifetime average for 35 cows was 14,468 pounds of milk on a 4.2 per cent test and 602 pounds of fat. He had 19 100,000-pound producing cows during his career, made three state records, and registered more than 700 head of Holsteins in 43 years of farming.

— He organized one of the county's oldest 4-H clubs, the Friendly Valley 4-H near Brillion. He was a frequent judge for 4-H dairy shows.

— He raised purebred horses and exhibited the grand champion Percheron stallion at the state fair in 1935.

— He raised purebred Yorkshire hogs and consigned to many area sales. He also was active in the Wisconsin Corn Pacemakers an organization seeking to boost corn yields.

— Served as superintendent of the Zion Evangelical United Brethren Church Sunday School at Forest Junction for 23 years and was a teacher for 52 years. He was president of the church board of trustees for 11 years and supervised an extensive building program. He was on his church board of stewards, young people's counselor and frequent delegate to church conferences.

Seybold was born June 2, 1896 on the family farm in the Town of Brillion. His father, John, brought some of the first registered Holsteins into Calumet County.

He started farming on a neighboring farm in 1917 with two cows and a heifer from home. He was locally educated and in 1914 graduated from Brillion High School.

He and Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agricultural agent, became acquainted in 1942 while Meyer was vocational agriculture instructor at Brillion. Seybold was later honored by the school's Future Farmer of America chapter.

In 1961 Seybold was cited for his achievements during the annual Farm and Home Week program at Madison. After 43 years of farming, Seybold sold his herd and retired to devote further efforts toward betterment of his community. He also was associated with the Carnation Breeding Service.

Outagamie Clubs Rated

27 of County's 44 Cited for Excellence in 4-H

More than half of the Outagamie County's 44 4-H clubs have been recognized for their excellence and awarded gold seal certificates for the 1967 program.

Eighty-seven per cent of the club's members must achieve to qualify. The remaining clubs are eligible for a green seal award if they meet the standards to a lesser degree.

The 27 clubs which qualified this year are B Square, Busy Badgers, Busy Macks, Cicero Busy Bees, Clover Leaf, Crystal Star, Ellington, Fairview, Go Getters, Golden Clovers, Golden Rule, Helpful Hands, Lucky Star, Mosquito Hill, Nitingale, North Star, On the Go, Rainbow, Spring Brook, Valley, Wide Awake Forward, Wild Grove, Windmill Wonders, Wolf River Beavers, Woodland Hustlers, Woodlawn, Workers and Wonders.

Combine Chemicals

Chemistry texts used to say that noble gases like helium, neon, krypton and xenon do not combine with other elements. In 1962, chemists succeeded in making xenon combine with fluorine.

Winter 4-H Encampment Planned

WAUPACA—Waupaca County older 4-H youths will have an opportunity to attend a winter 4-H camp at Upham Woods, Wisconsin Dells, Dec. 1-3, according to Philip Jeske, county 4 - H agent.

Many of the older youths, because of jobs and other commitments cannot attend 4-H camp in the summer. This will give these people a camping opportunity, and will also provide some fun with winter sports providing snow and ice exist at that time.

Upham Woods is the State 4-H Camp and has been reserved for that weekend for Waupaca and Portage Counties. The camp has excellent facilities and has winterized cabins so there will be no particular sacrifice that will have to be made on the part of the campers.

This camp is for high school age 4-H youths. Any of them interested in attending should contact the 4 - H office at the Waupaca County courthouse. Reservations are on a first come, first serve basis.

Dr. Tarr Also Does Homework

Dr. Curtis Tarr, president of Lawrence University and head of the task force created by the State Legislature to make a thorough review of Wisconsin's shared taxes and aids, and local governmental structures, by all indications has been doing his homework.

In an address before the Appleton Rotary Club, Dr. Tarr was able to bring into proper perspective the problems facing central cities with rapid urbanization, while focusing attention also on the ills of smaller communities, semi-urban towns and strictly rural towns.

After listening to Dr. Tarr one thing was certain — the task force has been doing its job and appears to have the problems well defined, also realizing that there are no simple answers. However, suggestions for changing some local government practices and positions could solve part of the problem and the Tarr Task Force has recognized this.

In keeping with Dr. Tarr's observations, it has long been felt by responsbile people in government that assessors should be full-time and well trained for their all-important work. Uniformity in assessing on town, village and city levels should have come to pass long ago but reform is sadly lacking.

And there has to be agreement that county government is in the position to assume a larger role which would eliminate overlapping operations of city, town and village governments.

Dr. Tarr demonstrated an awareness of the "mountainous problems" facing local governmental units today. The task force will continue to hold public hearings throughout the state and then prepare its recommendations to be presented to the Legislature.

One obvious conclusion that can be made at this point is that some of the recommendations will not be new to our lawmakers in Madison. So, once the Tarr Task Force reports — then surely it is incumbent on the State Legislature to face up to the issues and resolve to rid the state of archaic tax distribution formulas and annexation laws.

Private Enterprise in the Slums

While the formal documents from study commissions appointed to try to find the causes of last summer's urban disturbances are still being compiled, it is safe to conclude in advance of such reports that there must be a call for more than just more and larger governmental expenditures. One of the sources of help which is being overlooked in the almost automatic demand that government must act is the private enterprise system.

A few months ago, the nation's life insurance companies announced plans to invest $1 billion in city slums to improve housing conditions and to finance job-creating enterprises. The projects will be in urban areas avoided in the past for investment because of their location and higher risks.

Each participating company will make investments in its own region, and an industry-wide group will promote construction of low-cost housing. The companies will lend money at market interest rates or lower rates for some governmental programs.

In the first number of a new publication, Chase Manhattan Bank has detailed other examples of private investment in improving the conditions of the slums.

The publication notes one of the most successful programs has been at Mc Donnell Douglas Corp. in St. Louis, developer of space capsules. The company, which pays employes during training periods, has demonstrated that in four months men and women who have no high school diploma or no trained skills can be integrated into a production system which demands accuracy and precise workmanship.

In Rochester, N.Y., Xerox Corp. has developed "Project Step Up," a 19-week training program for unemployed men, many of whom have police records and bad employment histories. In Quincy, Mass., General Dynamics found employment or started training programs for 200 persons in a program intending to recruit members of minority groups, and the number of persons from such groups seeking employment on their own has increased by 300 per cent since the recruitment program began.

These are only three examples, and the critic will declare the companies are faced with labor shortages. But the programs also evidence a social concern, not directed by government.

It is significant that political leaders in both parties are saying private enterprise must be called upon. Sen. Robert Kennedy has proposed a schedule of tax concessions to private enterprise which invests in job-producing undertakings in the slums. Michigan Gov. George Romney said local governmental and private initiative provided some of the best hope he saw during his nation-wide tour of the ghettos.

A new partnership of government and private enterprise may have to be developed in the search for new solutions.

We Are Wearying of Vietnam Debate

Students at Dartmouth College recently took a new tack on debate over Vietnam. They set aside two days entitled "Vietnam Focus" during which they announced that "for the first time in the College's history, the whole campus will come together and debate a national issue."

Practically every student organization on campus joined in sponsoring the event. Over 40 separate discussions, debates, lectures and symposiums were organized. Eleven well-known speakers ranging from hawks to doves to those with mixed feelings were invited. Hyde Park type discussions were announced for the college green with microphones made available for anyone who wished to enunciate his views.

When it was all over, however, the large majority of Dartmouth undergraduates had shown a complete lack of interest or response. Despite excellent organization and wide publicity, the major speeches and discussion sessions were attended by anywhere from a handful of students to a few hundred. On the green, despite repeated loudspeaker appeals to passing students to cut classes and join in, most kept right on walking to class or going about their normal business.

Sponsors concluded after it was over that Vietnam is no longer a burning issue with the students. Most, like the American public in general, have formed their own opinions and are wearying of the incessant repetition of the pros and cons. Again like the majority of Americans, most students realize the complexity of the issue, and despite their frustration over the unhappy dilemma the United States faces, have rejected either the extreme dove or hawk positions. As one student put it: "I didn't go because I didn't want to hear a bunch of crackpots blowing wind."

President Johnson has issued the following proclamation, designating Thursday the 28th day of November as a day of national Thanksgiving and praise:

In conformity with a recent custom, that may now be regarded as established on national consent, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby recommend to my fellow citizens that Thursday, the twenty-eight day of November next, be set aside and observed as a day of national Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty Ruler of nations, with whom are dominion and fear, who maketh peace in his high places.

Resting and reframing from secular labors on that day, let us reverently and devotedly give thanks to our Heavenly Father for the mercies and blessings with which He has crowned the closing year.

Birch Society Declines, but It Still Embarrasses Conservatives

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It has been two years since I have alluded to the John Birch Society, which has been slipping gradually from the sight of observers liberal and conservative — it is only the Communists who continue to dwell on it, for the most obvious reason, to discredit the anti-Communist right. But two recent episodes demand comment, one of them Mr. Robert Welch's official abandonment of his original and most distinctive campaign, namely the campaign to impeach Earl Warren. The other, the matter of The Wall Street Journal story.

Mr. Welch has called off a campaign which once he considered absolutely crucial to the success of his general enterprise. It remains for a lot of conservatives the bitterest pill of recent years that the prestige of Mr. Warren increased in direct ratio to the intensity of Mr. Welch's campaign against him. Not so many year ago just before Mr. Welch decided to impeach the Chief Justice, the reputation of the Warren Court had sunk so low as to have provoked the explicit censure of the majority of the justices of the supreme courts of individual states, and of such learned scholars as Edward Corwin and Learned Hand. But the proposal that Warren be impeached struck so many people as so patently inappropriate that his critics found themselves muting their criticism lest by association they be linked with the fanatic from Belmont who believed that Eisenhower was of all things a Communist agent ("Eisenhower isn't a Communist." — Russell Kirk's rejoinder is still the classic — "he is a golfer"). When one thinks of all that energy spent, all those dollars squandered on speeches, and prizes, and literature, and billboards; it is a special irony that the situation contributed not to the weakening of the influence of Earl Warren, but to the consolidation of his power and prestige! If one were to proceed to analyze the whole episode by Birchite logic, one would conclude that the movement to impeach Earl Warren, which after nine years' effort was unable to enlist the support of a single Congressman, was a Communist plot intended to discredit the opposition to Mr Warren.

And then the story of The Wall Street Journal, which appeared a few weeks ago and spoke about the decline of the John Birch Society, the spectacular apostrophies of some of the most conspicuous adherents, the lapsed members — most of all the general indifference of the public. Mr. Robert Welch countered The Wall Street Journal story by a routine denunciation . . . "the current monstrosity is . . . no worse (in) its errors, half truths, omissions of important facts, biased innuendoes, misinterpretations and misunderstandings than hundreds of articles which have appeared about us in dozens of major periodicals during the last five or six years." Characteristically, Mr. Welch does not explain what might have been the motives of the conservative Wall Street Journal in misinterpreting him and his society; the only explanation is that The Wall Street Journal, like so many others, has been taken over by the Communists, in which case it is indeed truly lost.

Mr. Welch reacted further to the general drift of public opinion that the society has been pretty well immobilized by sending out an urgent appeal for funds, in a circular entitled "This Is It!" The response, to judge from Mr. Welch's most recent communication, has been gratifying. "Fortunately," he quotes from one letter, "my bank balance is unusually high just now and I am able to help myself out by forwarding the enclosed check for $1,000. For I realize as well as anyone that you are doing us the favor." Others who responded do not have bank balances so unsually high, but they have contributed sacrifically.

It is testimony to many things, among them the charismatic nature of Mr. Welch's leadership, which his detractors must not underrate. And testimony, too, to the talent for self-sacrifice of so many of Mr. Welch's followers, who apparently undeterred by the fiasco involving Earl Warren, are prepared to put their savings into yet another billboard demanding, say, the withdrawal of the United States from the United Nations, an achievement as unlikely as the impeachment of Earl Warren. The John Birch Society, judged objectively, above all things is a drag on the conservative movement in America, which it continues, though decreasingly, to embarrass. But it is a significant measure of the failure of other conservative organizations to provide emotionally satisfactory means of serving many Americans concerned for their country's future.

More Dogs Registered Than Flags on Display on Nov. 11

Editor, Post-Crescent.

Armistice Day (more recently and appropriately called Veterans Day) had a very poignant moment some years ago. At 11 o'clock in the morning, students, workers and people in their homes throughout the country paused to pay homage to our servicemen who gave their lives defending our democracy. Flags were prominently displayed everywhere.

Driving through the city of Appleton on this Veterans Day, I came to this conclusion. There are probably more dogs registered in the city than there were flags displayed on homes.

Very seriously, patriotism isn't old-fashioned . . . isn't something your neighbor feels or shows. It is a free and wholehearted expression of your pride in your country and for the things it represents. The Post-Crescent, along with many stores in the area, has offered very fine and reasonable "flag kits" to make this outward expression of pride available to most everyone.

Patriotism actually costs little or nothing. It is retaining our freedom which is costly. Unfortunately my street wasn't a sea of "Stars and Stripes" either and it is dedicated as a memorial to our veterans.

Wisconsin Report

Short Sessions Make Shambles of Normal Legislative Process

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — More with regret than in indignation, it should be reported that the bobtailed sessions of the State Legislature that have become a habit in recent decades present a hazard to the proud tradition of careful and methodical and thoughtful lawmaking in Wisconsin.

It has been a rare day since the legislators returned to their chambers last month that a gallery observer, not to mention professional lobbyists and even trained reporters could come to the Capitol in the morning with any assurance of a schedule of legislative activity. Impromptu caucuses, bills scheduled at the will of the majority leaders without regard for printed calendars, assignment of matter to a special order calendar that is never reached on time, hearings held at 7:30 a.m., or in the evening to shorten the deliberations, and other improvisions have made a shambles out of what in earlier decades was known as one of the most orderly and neat legislative processes in the country.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS APPARENT

Under normal circumstances, to illustrate, a newspaper correspondent could arrive at the Capitol before the sessions of the houses convened, examine the calendars for the day and choose the topics which he regarded as the most meaningful issues of the day that were scheduled for consideration.

Perhaps it is not always understood by the citizen who does not see the Legislature in action that the job of the reporter starts with the question of selection. So voluminous is the matter involved in the legislative process, here as in other legislatures and more particularly in the U.S. Congress, that only the publisher of a daily encyclopedia could hope to capture all of the details.

In the regular sessions of the Legislature that task of selection is possible. There is a prepared schedule of events that is the prime tool of the reporter, and more important, of those citizens who are interested in particular issues before their representatives for resolution.

WAITED FOR ACTION

But it is altogether different in the hurried tempo of the so-called recessed session, when lawmakers are anxious to quit their labors after a few weeks. On one afternoon recently one hired observer of the Legislature sat in one of the chambers from noon to nightfall. His notebook recorded only one positive action. That was the tabling of a bill.

There is no desire here to criticize unnecessarily, but it requires no particular capacity for imagination to guess that under such circumstances, with effective public information rendered difficult, there are opportunities for maneuvers and trading and other questionable practices — and that they may sometimes be employed.

All of this is said with a full acknowledgment that the men who lead the Legislature are demonstrably interested in improving the institution of which they are a part. Few legislative leaders in this century, for example, have shown such a deep interest in improving the mechanics of legislative operation as Sen. Robert P. Knowles and Speaker Harold Froehlich.

CHANGES NEED SUPPORT

Yet they can move only as far as their supporters will permit. They can reform the institution of which they are important cogs only through fundamental legislation, as through the constitutional amendment to authorize annual sessions which has now had the final approval of the Senate and Assembly and will be submitted for the endorsement of the people next year on a referendum ballot.

The bobtail session is the natural consequence of changing times and circumstances. These have brought more work to the Legislature than its part-time members can effectively handle in a sitting of tolerable length.

Yearly sessions, which appear to have an increasing support in the country and are supported by most detached critics of the legislative process here, would permit the return of the deliberative, careful, fully publicized, citizen-involved legislative procedures of earlier times that were legitimately described as models for the country.

Strictly Personal

Freedom Is Ultimate End of Discipline

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend who has won many tennis championships remarked the other day that he had finally figured out why he plays better against good opponents than against mediocre ones.

"A good opponent," he said,

Harris

"forces you to play a fast game. And in a fast game, you have no time to think. And when you have no time to think, you commit fewer errors!"

I believe him. The ultimate object of any art or craft is to go beyond thinking. The best typists type unconsciously, their fingers moving almost ahead of their minds; the best pianist streak across the notes without thinking of them as notes, only as a continuum of music.

To achieve excellence in almost any pursuit, the unconscious mind must be allowed to take over. But this can be done only after long practice and tedious training. And the whole paradox of arts and crafts (including sports) lies in the fact that the ultimate end of discipline is freedom — but a far different kind of freedom than that of the beginner or the amateur, who has not yet mastered the discipline.

The conscious mind is a slow and cumbersome thing; before it can decide how to return a volley down the sideline, the ball has already gone past. It is only when the body has "learned to think," in a sense, that it responds far faster than any mental process could. It is the reflex of the total personality that makes champions, not one or another element of skill.

Racing drivers are perhaps most of all aware of this deep truth. All of the top ones drive as well as one another, in a technical sense; they all "know" the same skills and have perfected the same techniques. What makes a Stirling Moss stand out from the rest, however, is an immediate access to his unconscious, so that he acts in a crisis without a millisecond's hesitation — the difference between life and death.

And even ordinary drivers cannot drive a car well until they no longer have to think about what they are doing, until the unconscious part of the mind takes over, to guard them from sudden accidents. Good "driver education" must be mostly psychological, or it is wasted effort — as all purely "technical" education is largely wasted.

Learning is a form of discovery, not just an accumulation of facts or postures; discovery by the total personality of the way to tap the hidden possibilities in body, mind and spirit, and make them work for us. This is why the champion seems to do it so easily.

Leaders Find War Protests Hard to Avoid

Violence Starts Accompanying Demonstrations

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tolerance has a crooked neck. This comes from leaning over backwards not to appear intolerant.

The result is that violent demonstrations are getting more violent.

Freedom of expression, including the right to dissent, is a basic American right. But expressing dissent through violence is not a right. Only the peaceful kind is.

Violent expression is a national disgrace. If permitted to continue, it opens the door to anarchy since it is a defiance of law and order.

Great Reluctance

But there seems to be a great public reluctance—and particularly on the part of government leadership—to urge and take strong action to prevent mass violence or to crush it fast if it occurs.

Both whites and Negroes have committed historic acts of violence in the past few months, even though for different reasons.

In Detroit last summer Negroes looted and burned but Michigan and national authorities showed great hesitancy to meet the violence with full force fast and crush it.

Then this week in New York where Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke at a hotel, bands of anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, unable to pierce the police lines set up to protect Rusk, turned the night into a riot.

They pelted policemen, automobiles and buildings with steers' blood and resisted arrest. Forty of them were arrested and a number of persons, including five policemen, were injured.

The steers' blood was supposed to symbolize human blood shed in Vietnam. The Secretary of State had to slip into the hotel through its garage hours ahead of time to avoid the pickets.

Cancel Plans

Rusk and President Johnson have to travel under increased security guard and, reportedly, have had to cancel some of their public appearances when they learned thousands of antiwar pickets were waiting for them.

Although Johnson is in the No. 1 position to act and arouse public opinion to act against the increasing irresponsibility and violence he hasn't said much about it.

The roots of the violence probably go back into the 1950s when white liberals journeyed South to help Negroes test the discriminatory racial laws still on the books there.

Those were relatively peaceful expressions of protest and they were effective in arousing the country to the injustices against Negroes. But the idea of protest by direct action, first by peaceful picketing, caught on around the nation.

Bit by bit violence grew out of the demonstrations in schools and cities until some weeks ago a mob protesting the Vietnam war tried to force its way into the Pentagon.

Brainless Actions

It's a good guess that a number of the pickets—judging from their brainless actions—were mental emotional cases using the war as an excuse, conscious or not, to defy society or wreak vengeance on it.

It is a frightening commentary on the mood of the country that the President and secretary of state have to travel under heavy guard, sneak in through a garage to make a speech, or call off visits and speeches altogether.

With the violence increasing, it poses an embarrassing question: How can Johnson, if he seeks a second term in the presidency next year, dare to make a speech in public during the campaign?

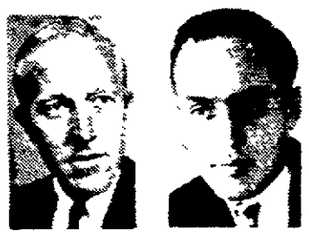
The No. 1 question is how to stop the violence. If it continues it is not hard to imagine some blood baths ahead as the violent ones among the demonstrators move from steers' blood to bombs and bullets.

Politicians Seeking Lull in Viet Bombings

President Would Like to Go Along but Knows North Will Rush in More Supplies

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although Democratic politicians closest to President Johnson are convinced a bombing pause early next year is a political must, weighty counter-arguments now are swaying the President against any more pauses.



Evans

Novak

If there were any assurance that a bombing cessation would bring North Vietnam to the conference table, the President would undoubtedly order the pause. The politicians want him to do just that, even without any assurance from Hanoi. They reason that only by trying another fairly long pause can Mr. Johnson convince the average voter that he has taken every possible step to end the war.

But even such leading doves as Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader in the senate, now say they are against a bombing pause unless there is absolute assurance that it will produce war-ending talks.

On 'Meet the Press'

What worries Mansfield is that if the suspension failed to end the war, the President would come under more pressure than before to extend the bombing — perhaps to the port of Haiphong or even to the Red River dikes — when it resumed. What Mansfield wants is a unilateral cessation of the bombing. "If there is to be a halt in the bombing, it ought to be a halt, period," Mansfield said on "Meet the Press."

The permanent halt proposed by Mansfield goes far beyond anything the President has ever considered or is likely to consider, and it raises this question in his mind: How can he resume bombing once it has stopped?

It is not generally known how frustrated Mr. Johnson was in January, 1966, toward the end of the long pause (37 days) that started before Christmas, 1965. For days he wanted to resume the attacks but couldn't find a politically easy way to do it. He often refers to that now, in talking to Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and others who favored the suspension. They never told him, Mr. Johnson needles, how tough it would be to start again.

But these growing reservations in the White House are probably less important than the strictly military implications of another long bombing halt.

Ho Moved Supplies

Evidence on the President's desk proves that Ho Chi Minh prepared for days in advance to take advantage of the last bombing pause, a four-day strength last February. Loaded barges and trucks headed south the moment the bombers stopped flying.

Moreover, during previous suspensions, the U. S. did not have nearly so many ground troops fighting in South Vietnam. Without ironclad guarantees that the North Vietnamese would not use the pause to fortify their positions in the South, the President would come under far harsher criticism than ever before from war hawks claiming — with no little justification — that the pause would cost American lives.

When Mr. Johnson tells intimates with heavy sarcasm that he is under pressure from the doves to have "some of my boys" take the rap for another bombing pause, he means that a pause is bound to enhance the enemy's military position. And with 500,000 U.S. troops in South Vietnam, the President does not want to be charged with helping the enemy.

LBJ View Hardening

Beyond this, Mr. Johnson's overall view of the war is perceptibly hardening, for the simple reason that he cannot find an alternative to his present course.

The advice he is getting from his military leaders (as opposed to the practical politicians who view the war from a different perspective) is that a suspension of bombing would indeed give the enemy a much-needed breathing space. The advice he gets from his diplomats is that a suspension would not have the slightest effect on negotiations.

As we reported two weeks ago, practical politicians are blueprinting an overall 1968 plan which includes a pause long enough to prove Hanoi's continuing intransigence. Nevertheless, the President is listening more and more to his war advisers, both military and civilian, and less and less to the politicians.

In short, though the inner debate over how to run for President while prosecuting the most unpopular war in history will continue, Mr. Johnson today seems in no mood to experiment further by offering Ho Chi Minh new inducements. He seems convinced that he is playing to an empty house in Hanoi.

Antimissile Site Cities Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has announced the first 10 cities to be considered as sites for the so-called "thin" antimissile defense system now being planned.

The Pentagon listed the cities Wednesday as New York, Honolulu; Albany, Ga.; Chicago; Dallas, Grand Forks, N.D., Salt Lake City; Seattle, Wash.; Boston and Detroit.

The system is expected eventually to involve 15 to 20 batteries of Sentinel antimissiles. It's designed to shield the nation from any possible attack by Red China in the 1970s.

Opponents in Politics Cannot Even Agree On Who Owns Shoes

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A pair of shoes Democrats claim were worn by Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson election day 1966 will be sold at auction Saturday in Boise.

Samuelson's office denies the shoes belonged to the Republican governor.

Jim Noble of Boise, chairman of the auction, said the shoes were delivered to him by "one of the executive assistants of Don Samuelson." The auction is an annual affair sponsored by the county Democratic club.

Noble said the assistant told him, "The thought is that maybe some of the Democrats would like to try them on for size."

Even Headaches Costlier in Honolulu, Most Expensive City in United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you're married, have two youngsters and earn around $8,000 a year, Honolulu is not for you. Austin, Tex., is more your speed.

That was the gist of a recent federal report that said the two cities were, respectively, the most expensive and least expensive in the United States.

A random sampling of 33 items from houses to hamburgers by Associated Press reporters in both cities buttresses the Bureau of Labor Statistics report.

The cost of a new three-bedroom ranch-style house in a good, but not exclusive area, in Honolulu was put at about $27,000. The figure for a similar house in Austin: $22,500.

Land Leased

And in Honolulu most homes are built on leased land. You buy the house but rent the land it sits on.

The annual property tax for the Honolulu house would be $483. In Austin it would be $360.

Rental housing also was found to be more costly in Honolulu, where a two-bedroom apartment in a new apartment house rents for about $150 a month. The comparable Austin figure: $125.

The federal report said that a typical family of four—parents in their late 30s, son 13 and daughter 8—would need $11,190 annually to live moderately in Honlulu, Hawaii's major city. The figure for Austin was approximately $8,000.

Why the big difference?

Shipping Costs

According to Arthur Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the basic reason is that most items in the family budget must be shipped to Honolulu and these costs push up prices.

Austin is said to be typical of many smaller metropolitan areas in the South where housing and transportation costs are lower.

Another factor is weather. On the southern United States mainland, families don't have to spend so much for heating, heavy clothing and basic heavier housing construction costs that run up the prices in colder climates.

Honolulu is an exception to this because its weather advantage is more than canceled out by shipping costs.

Here are some other random comparisons:

Cost of Aspirin

A 100-tablet bottle of a name-brand aspirin costs 98 cents in Honolulu and 69 in Austin. Men's haircuts average $2 in both cities. But a shampoo and set costs a Honolulu lady $4.64 while in Austin it is $3.

A name brand men's white dress shirt in Honolulu costs $9 against $6.95 in Austin; a pound of top grade sirloin $1.45 against $1.29; a quart of milk 35 cents against 29; 5 pounds of sugar 63 cents against 59; basic phone servie $8.41 a month against $6.05; a pair of size 6 sneakers for a boy $4.50 against $4.

Curiously, sliced pineapple, one of Hawaii's major products, was found to be the same price in each city—39 cents for a one pound, four ounce can.

Tuna, which abounds in the Pacific, is 38 cents in Honolulu and 34 cents in Austin for a 6½ ounce can.

The sales tax in Honolulu is 4 per cent, in Austin 2 per cent.

Doctors' Rates

A typical office visit to a general practitioner in Honolulu costs $7.50 against $6 in Austin. The difference is even sharper for a house call where it is $15 against $9.

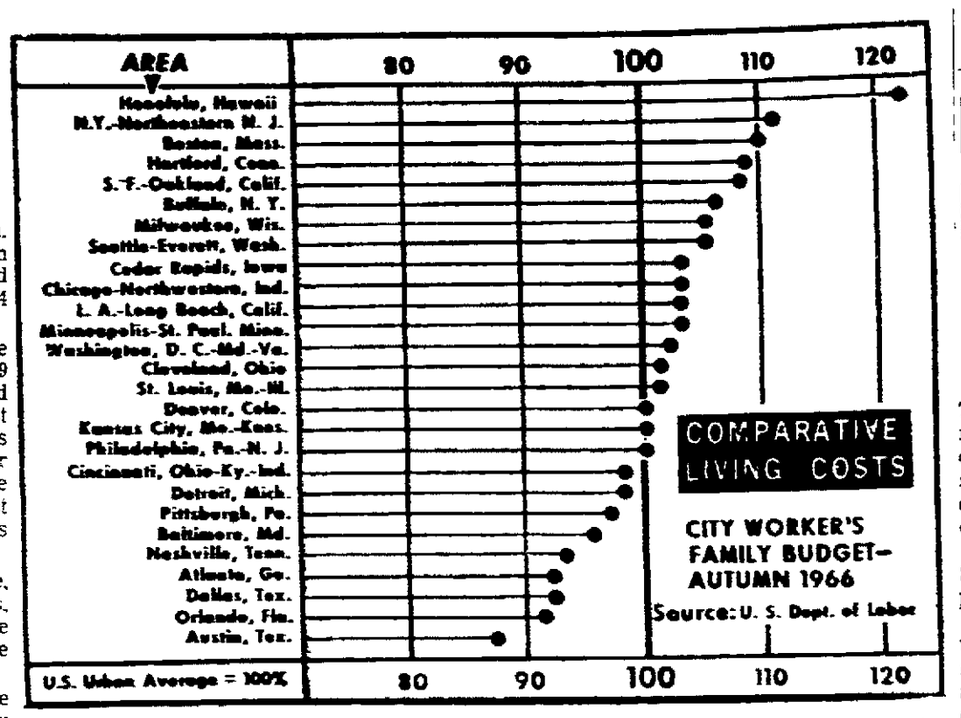
It costs 90 cents for a one mile taxi ride in Honolulu. In Austin: 70 cents. A bus ride costs 25 cents in Honolulu; a nickel less in Austin; a gallon of high test gasoline 45.9 cents against 34.9.

A full size, standard-line Ford sedan with no optional equipment costs $2,674 in Austin and $3,198 in Honolulu. A similar Oldsmobile costs $3,273 against $4,550.

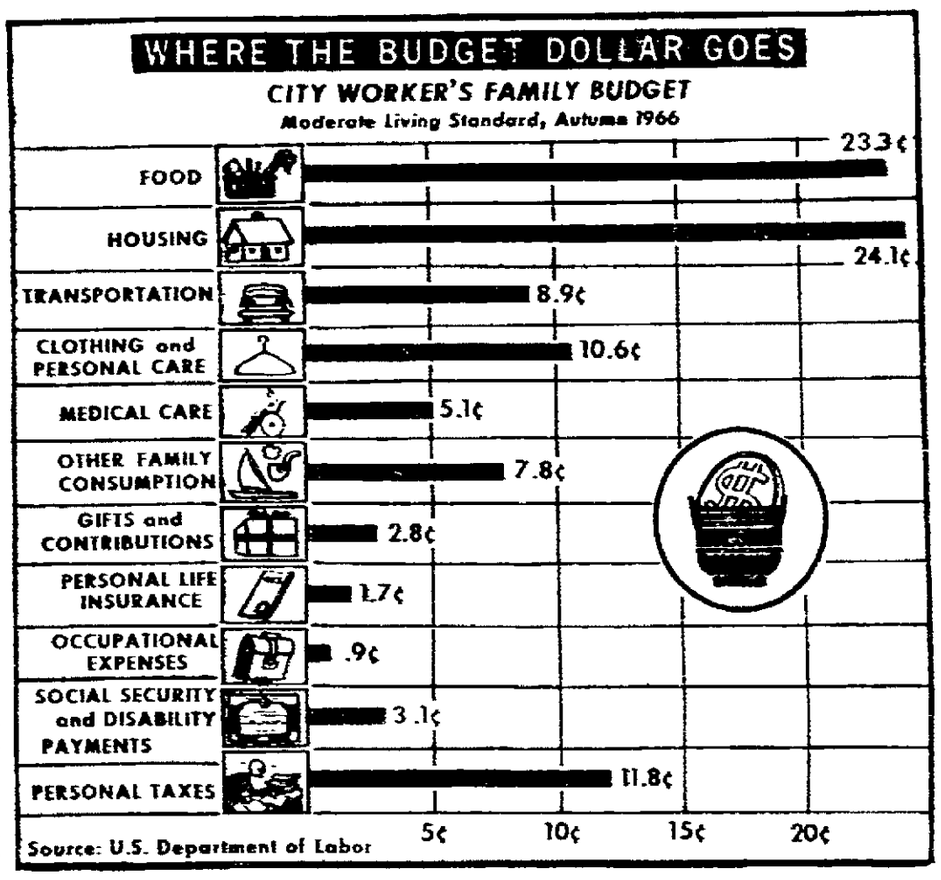
On some of the items surveyed there was no difference. A drink of Scotch at a local bar: 89 cents. A movie: $1.50.

On some items Austin was more expensive: a package of king-size filter cigarettes was 40 cents in Austin and 31 in Honolulu; a television service call $5.95 against $5; tuition at a private high school was $1,300 a semester against $1,040.

And in case all this talk of money and budgets stirs in you the urge to take off for Alaska to get away from it all, take heed. The bureau says Alaska is even more expensive than Honolulu but the statisticians haven't been able to bring themselves to prepare the figures.



Honolulu Is the Most expensive United States city in which to live and Austin, Tex., the cheapest according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The comparison chart above shows Milwaukee to be among the costlier cities. A breakdown of how the average worker's dollar is spent, lower, shows food and shelter accounting for nearly half, or 47.4 cents per $1. (AP Wirephoto Charts)



State Senate Endorses Hospital Bills Measure

MADISON (AP) — With one eye on booming medical costs and one eye on the clock, the State Senate halted its fall session Thursday night by endorsing a measure to help counties with hospital bills.

After arguments that ended past nightfall, Republican lawmakers were able to give the bill preliminary approval, but were blocked in attempts to give the measure a final Senate okay.

The upper house then joined the Assembly in recess until Dec. 5, when final action on chargebacks and highway safety bills is expected.

The Assembly recessed about three hours before the Senate.

In past years, the counties were asked to pay only $5 per patient per week for patients in the six state hospitals and colonies for the mentally retarded.

Complex Formula

In 1965 a complex formula to compute the costs was adopted in Gov. Warren P. Knowles' budget which raised the price to the counties by an estimated $9.7 million over the two-year spending period.

Democrats charged Knowles with passing on higher medical costs to local governments to avoid unbalancing his record $1.1 billion state budget.

"We tried our best to warn the majority party in June that this budget gimmickry of the governor was dangerous," said minority leader Fred Risser, D-Madison.

Although Republicans defeated a host of proposed Democratic amendments to the bill, Risser promised to have more prepared by December.

The current bill would ask the counties to pay $9 per patient per week, but it also guarantees them they will have a total bill, including federal aids, of not more than $1 million for the biennium.

The proposal could hike state costs by up to $8 million in 1967-69.

The upper house also approved Thursday three bills to stiffen penalties for participating in unruly student demonstrations.

One seeks to provide a two-year prison term for persons who willfully injure a police officer or fireman while he is on duty. It was introduced Oct. 19, one day after a violent antiwar demonstration on the University of Wisconsin campus in which several police officers were hurt.

The others set a penalty of a $500 fine and one year in jail for desecrating a U.S. or Wisconsin flag, or failing to obey police orders to leave an unlawful assembly.

The Senate also approved bills to:

Allow presidential hopefuls not selected by a special screening committee to place their name on Wisconsin's April primary ballot by obtaining the names of 1,000 persons in each of the state's 10 congressional districts.

Forbid girls 16 or over to work past 11 p.m. at drivein restaurants in towns of less than 7,500 persons.

Thieves Get Ring Valued At $110,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two masked men raided the penthouse apartment of wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Carling L. Dinkler today, took a 22-carat diamond ring valued at $110,000 and left Mrs. Dinkler with a kiss on the cheek.

Police said the robbery took place at the plush Palm Bay Yacht Club, which Mrs. Dinkler helped build in 1965 as a place where "the potentially rich young people can enjoy themselves while they're making it."

Returning to the eighth floor apartment after a United Fund dinner at the club, Dinkler walked into the bedroom and found two men waiting. He said each carried an automatic pistol with silencer.

"We're being held up, honey," the multi-millionaire owner of hotel chains called out to his wife, who had gone into the kitchen.

After binding the couple with tape, the men took the pear-shaped diamond from Mrs. Dinkler's finger, found two emeralds while ransacking the apartment, and apparently left down an interior fire escape.

Just before leaving, the men taped the mouths of their victims and one of them leaned over and kissed Mrs. Dinkler's cheek.

It was the second time robbers had tried to get the ring, which Mrs. Dinkler usually kept in a bank vault. In 1964, she was relieved of the imitation. She had taken the real one out of the vault Thursday to wear to the dinner.

PSC Approves Water Facility At Wrightstown

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A $27,935 well and pump house for the village of Wrightstown water utility in Brown County has been approved by the state Public Service Commission.

The facility, to be located on the west side of the Fox River, will solve water-supply problems caused by drainage for fire protection duties and by the single main that connects the two parts of the village on opposite sides of the river.

The utility now operates one well and pump house on the east side of the river. The new well also will allow the utility to temporarily take that facility out of operation for maintenance and repairs.

Cost of the new well will be $11,000, and the pump house and equipment, an additional $11,000. Associated costs will bring the project to the $27,935 total.

There was no public hearing on the proposal.

Missing Boy Found Unhurt

2-Year-Old Was In Car When It Was Stolen

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP — Two-year-old Tod Plancon, missing since Thursday when a car in which he was seated was stolen, was found unharmed today on an enclosed front porch of a Fairfield home.

Police said Mrs. Stephen Sherwood found the child on her porch shortly after 7 a.m.

Precisely how Tod got there was not immediately determined, but police said he had apparently been put out of the car by the person who stole it and had made his way to the Sherwood porch.

The car was recovered by police late Thursday night after it was apparently abandoned near Mountain Grove cemetery.

Little Tod, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Plancon Jr. of Fairfield, was riding in the back seat of the car earlier Thursday when his mother Elaine, 21, stopped to visit a neighbor.

Mrs. Plancon told police she left the child in the car with the motor running while she went to the neighbor's front door.

Before she could ring the doorbell, she said, a boy about 17 years old jumped into the car and drove off.

The mother and the neighbor, Mrs. Burt Adren, were unable to catch the car in the Andren's auto.

Police had feared that the young thief would abandon the car, leaving the two-year-old at the mercy of sub-freezing temperatures.

9-Month Corporate Profits Slide Ends in Third Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corporate profits reversed a nine-month downward trend during the third quarter, jumping $1.2 billion to an annual rate of $80.1 billion before taxes, the Commerce Department reported today.

At the same time, the department said overall economic growth in the third quarter was greater than at first believed.

It said gross national product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, increased by $16.1 billion—instead of $15 billion—to an annual rate of $791.2 billion.

The report gives the Johnson administration new ammunition in its running battle with Congress over President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

Government economists contend the economy, which was slowed by strikes, will be moving faster in the fourth quarter. Figures on this quarter will be available next year.

This pace, they said, cannot be sustained without heavy inflation unless Congress raises taxes.

The department report indicated there was a heavy dose of inflation during the third quarter. It said half the gain was in real output and half in price increases.

Corporate profits before taxes reached their peak during the third quarter of last year at $84 billion but declined during the next three quarters.

Profits after taxes rose from a second quarter rate of $46.5 billion to $47.2 billion in the third quarter, the department added.

Strike Hurt

It said profit gains were moderate and came in nondurable manufacturing, finance, communications and utilities with other industries showing little general change. The report said the gain in profits was held down by the Ford Motor Co. strike.

President Welcomes 'Responsible Dissent' day" because of the inflation and federal deficit, in the event no tax increase is approved.

He said the people have supported tax increases during other wars. Congress, he said, has cut only $1 billion from federal spending but is cutting $2 billion in revenues.

He said he knows tax increases don't help in political polls but "I think we can do it."

I think we should do it. "We have failed up until now to convince them," he said, but he added he thinks eventually Congress will do it.

Johnson was asked about the impact of foreign aid cuts.

He said that when the richest nation on earth is enjoying great prosperity and Congress cuts what he called a very low aid request. "I think it's a mistake. I think it's a serious mistake.

Johnson said he knows it's popular to cut foreign aid but that when trouble develops "and we have to go in, we'll spend much more than if we had taken an ounce of prevention."

'Welcome Dissent'

Again on the subject of Vietnam Johnson said, "We welcome responsible dissent and some of the things that have happened in this country.

"I can't say that this dissent has contributed much to any of the victories we have had," he said.

"I think you have to consider it for what it's worth," he said, adding he thinks every one should count to 10 before saying something that might hurt more than it helps.

Johnson stressed that he believes in the right of dissent.

"If I have done a good job of anything since I've been President it's to assure that there are plenty of dissenters," Johnson said bringing laughter.

Johnson said U.S. aims in Vietnam have been clear from the beginning.

Strategic Hill Seized by GIs

manders suspected the North Vietnamese intended to deploy a rocket regiment along the crest of the hill, and the U.S. assault was ordered to thwart any such move.

The fighting in the jungled central highlands around the Dak To valley was the heaviest since last Saturday in the two-week campaign that has pitted 10,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese infantrymen against an estimated 6,000 to 8,000 North Vietnamese troops.

As men of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division battled for control of Hill 1338 overlooking the Dak To Valley from the south, South Vietnamese forces fought for another hill north of the U.S. base camp and air strip 20 miles from the juncture of the Laotian and Cambodian borders.

About 300 men from the 4th Division's 1st Brigade launched the assault on Hill 1338 after artillery bombardment all day Thursday.

Despite the preliminary pounding, the two American companies ran into stiff resistance from North Vietnamese troops dug in on the flanks of the hill. The artillery was called in again.

AP Photographer Rick Merron reported from the battlefield that heavy fire from North Vietnamese automatic weapons drove off the first medical evacuation helicopters that tried to go in for the wounded.

Amid the fighting, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky visited the base at Dak To to hand out decorations for heroic action in earlier fighting.

Surveyor Lifts Off on Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 6 made an historic "hop" on the moon today, scientists say, becoming the first earth rocket to lift off the lunar surface.

The three-legged, picture-taking spacecraft, which soft-landed on the moon's Central Bay on Nov. 9, reached an altitude of about 10 feet on a 6½-second flight initiated by signals from Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The American mooncraft landed about eight feet from its original position. Scientists said the maneuver was designed to tell them more about the lunar surface.

"This will help the Apollo people know the strength of the surface since they'll have to fire rockets to return to earth," a JPL spokesman explained.

"The Surveyor is in good shape," the spokesman declared after the flight. He added that the new pictures coming in look good."

The craft weighs 600-plus pounds on earth, but just over 100 pounds on the moon, scientists say.

Law Enforcers Gird For Madison Protest

MADISON (AP)— Around 200 law enforcement officers from 21 counties will be in Madison Monday, when armed forces recruiters conduct interviews at the University of Wisconsin various sources reported Thursday.

However, Dane County officials were reticent about what kind of duty the police and sheriff's deputies would see and who asked for them.

Pitched Battle

There have been reports that antiwar demonstrators are planning action when the recruiters show up on the UW campus, the scene of a pitched battle last month between police and students seeking to prevent Dow Chemical Co. recruiting.

Joseph Blessinger, sheriff of Racine County, told of a teletype request for 100 officers from southeastern counties.

Dane County Sheriff Franz Hass denied asking for the extra men.

However, Undersheriff Jack Leslie said he had relayed the request from the Madison police department to the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association.

He said Madison police had asked that the extra officers be on hand "so we have them if we need them."

Madison Police Chief Wilbur Emery denied his office had asked for the outside aid and said he knew of no other request being made.

Meanwhile, two undersheriffs, Roger Reinel of Jefferson County and Mike Spencer of Sauk County, said they had relayed the request to area officers. Reinel, Sheriff's Association director for District 7, said about 100 men from each district would be available at Madison early on Monday.

"We are ready, willing and able," Spencer said.

"We will send our finest and greatest," Biessinger said. "We will come prepared."

Counties in the two districts have mutual assistance agreements whereby officers from one county are allowed to travel to another in case of trouble, if requested.

Counties in District 6 are Waushara, Winnebago, Calumet, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Marquette, Colombia, Dodge, Washington and Ozaukee.

Counties in District 7 are Waukesha, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Walworth, Rock, Green, Dane and Jefferson.

Utility Pays Electric Bills as Yule Present

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — City Council here will give Christmas presents in the form of paid electric bills for the month of December to its electric company customers.

It will cost the city-operated company an estimated $32,000, the council estimates.

Noting a $490,000 balance in the electricity fund, the council approved the gift, continuing a practice started here 20 years ago.

Something for Everyone This Week

"The world is so full of a number of things . . ."

This week's headlines ran the gamut from birthdays to travel to beauty pageants to births and deaths. All made up the world that captures women's — and men's — imagination and makes for interesting conversation.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy last weekend finished her trip to Cambodia and Thailand, stopped briefly in Rome and headed home. Picking up that well known 'Asiatic illness' along the way, she had to cancel several planned appearances. Both nations uncurled the red carpet for her visit, which was the fulfillment of a girlhood dream. The trip was planned to coincide with the dedication in Sihanoukville, Cambodia, of a boulevard to her late husband.

Visits Backstage

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson charmed the cast of the Harkness Ballet Friday evening when she attended the performance and then visited with the performers backstage. Much of Mrs. Johnson's time these weeks is taken with helping daughter Lynda plan for her Dec. 9 wedding to Milwaukeean Charles Robb. This week a White House staff member addressed 500 invitations, bearing the Presidential Coat of Arms.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower was all smiles as her husband planned a surprise party for her 71st birthday anniversary Tuesday. The former president was 77 a month ago.

The British Queen, Elizabeth II, was on a state visit to Malta this week.

Scott Romney's mother-in-law was involved in a scuffle this week in Troy, Mich., and was charged with assault and battery against another socially prominent Michigan woman. Mrs. Eileen Kraus says she was defending her daughter, Terry Stern.

Top Teens

In Dallas, Tex., teen-age beauties paraded their talents and personalities in the Miss Teen-Age America Pageant Saturday, with the winner a smiling brunette, Stephanie Crane, 17, who lives in High Ridge, Mo., and represented St. Louis. A former Waupaca young lady, Miss Susie Wenckus, 16, whose family now lives in Richmond, Va., was one of the eight finalists. The crown was bestowed by last year's queen, Sandy Roberts, Milpitas, Calif.

A flu epidemic has attacked contestants in the Miss World competition in London. Few were expected not to be able to perform in preliminary contests. One of the girls, Miss Sweden, was informed by officials that she'd have to get another swimsuit. Hers was too revealing, and besides, they were putting a ban on cutouts.

Julie Andrews, long separated from stage designer husband Tony Walton, this week sued for divorce in California. Her recent escort, Blake Edwards, movie director, was recently divorced and friends believe the two will some day marry.

Mod Museum

A young woman who visited the Minnesota Historical Society building in St. Paul clad in a miniskirt agreed to donate the dress to the museum, which wants some modern articles that might be of interest to the historians of tomorrow. She posed beside a mannequin in a floor-length gown of yesterday who seemed to recoil in horror at the abbreviated attire.

Mr. and Mrs. J. William Stanton, Ohio, took their six-day-old daughter home from the hospital this week. The mother is the former Peggy Smeeton of Milwaukee.

Finds Family

In Chicago, a young woman who was adopted at six months by Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Talmadge, Hammond, Ind., found the two brothers and sisters for whom she'd searched 15 years. Pamela Jo Talmadge, 19, was Miss Indiana in the 1967 Miss Universe Contest, and has spent years searching telephone directories for her missing family. Two weeks ago they were reunited after she reached her brother, Terry, 21, in a Chicago suburb.

And in Minneapolis, Minn., Mary Hicks, 17, smiled in spite of the head and shoulder contraption that is anchored by four needle point screws to her skull. Mary was going home to San Francisco after being stretched four inches in three-months of treatment at University of Minnesota Hospitals to straighten her spine. She was stricken with polio at age 4. The brace must be worn at least six months.

Miss Teen-Age America and her court were named Saturday night in annual pageant in Dallas. Above are Barbara Sigel, 17, Philadelphia; Miss Teen - Ager Stephanie Crane, 17, St. Louis; Sheila Poenish, 17, Columbus, Ohio, and Ann Scott, 17, Portland, Ore. At left is the Tournament of Roses Queen, chosen this week at Pasadena City College, where she is a freshman. Linda Jean Strother, 18, will preside over the New Year's Day parade and Rose Bowl game. At right is one of the 500 invitations mailed last weekend to friends and family of Lynda Bird Johnson and Charles Robb.

The President and Mrs. Johnson

Woman Doctor Tracks Sneaky Killer of Children

By LOUDON KELLY

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A child, outwardly healthy, gets tired easily.

His heart pumps at a rate much higher than a child's heart should in vigorous play. It seems hard for him to breathe. Yet unlike children with severe cases of asthma, he may not wheeze.

In some cases, the skin around his lips and on his fingers and toes becomes a pronounced blue in color.

It could be that the child has some sort of heart disease, but in the view of a young woman doctor at National Jewish Hospital in Denver, he could instead be suffering from a lung obstruction. This in turn puts an overload on the right side of the heart.

Work Overload

The heart may be completely normal, but because of this overload it has to work so hard it eventually gives up, like an automobile's engine stalling on a too-steep grade.

Cor Pulmonale is the medical term for this condition. It is pronounced core pull-moh-nahly.

This is the potential killer that Dr. Anne D. Morgan is stalking.

At 33, Dr. Morgan is assistant chief of pediatrics at the hospital as well as an assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Colorado Medical Center.

The young native of New York City came here in 1966 from the University of Florida Medical Center at Gainesville.

She has received from the National Institute of Health a grant to help pay for her probing into, as she puts its, "what causes the heart to fail and how it is caused" in children with lung diseases.

Restrictive Desease

There are many causes for lung diseases that cause cor pulmonale in children. Dr. Morgan said, "The most common restrictive disease is a scarring of lung tissue from an unknown cause."

Two basic mechanisms are involved in the known causes of cor pulmonale. One is insufficient ventiliation in the last part of the airways that carry oxygen into the lungs. The other is destruction of the small vessels in the lungs which pick up oxygen from the terminal airways.

"A common feature in all cases of the disease," said Dr. Morgan, a vibrant blue-eyed brunette, "is an over-all reduction in the capacity of the small blood vessels. This leads to increased resistance to the pulmonary blood flow and an abnormally high pressure in the big artery leading from the right side of the heart to the lungs."

She said that, "Many cases of cor pulmonale in children could be reversed or alleviated if there was greater understanding of the mechanisms involved in the possible underlying causes.

Lung Disorders

"There then would be a far better chance of avoiding or reversing this complication which may result from many lung disorders."

Dr. Morgan said even in persons having chronic lung disease, cor pulmonale usually does not develop unless there is a severe lack of oxygen in the blood and a failure to expel carbon dioxide effectively.

Engineer Will Win If He's Good

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Since an engineer must know how to distribute stresses and strains it was no surprise that Charles Gabriel, an engineer with the E. G. & G. Corp., took second place recently in the International Rubber Bridge Tournament at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. In today's hand Gabriel shifted the strain to an opponent.

West led the queen of diamonds, and Gabriel saw at a glance that his contract depended on bringing in the clubs with only one loss. Gabriel knew that he was sure to lose one club trick even with the best possible luck in the suit.

The standard "expert" play is to lead the ace of clubs first, get to the South hand with a different suit, and then lead another club toward dummy. The strain is then on South to guess whether to play the queen or a low club from the dummy.

The ordinary play of trying a finesse with the queen of clubs gains nothing. In this case East would capture the queen with the king of clubs; and West would later get a club trick with his jack.

Transfers Strain

Gabriel left the strain of trying to guess the right club play and decided to shift the strain to East. Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds, and immediately returned dummy's deuce of clubs.

Put yourself in East's position and feel the strain. From East's point of view it is quite possible that South has the jack of clubs. If East plays a low club he must risk never winning a club trick at all.

To avoid losing his king East stepped up with the king of clubs. And now Gabriel had no further problem. Good engineering know-how helped Gabriel and his partner, Dr. C. F. Crossley, win a cash prize of $5,160.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A 9 8 3, H-J 9 8 5, D-8 6 3, C-K 9. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. Both spades and hearts are biddable (barely), and since both are 4-card suits you show the cheaper suit first.

No Need to Say This Is the First Haircut for the seven-month-old twins of Mrs. Darlene Miller of Louisville, Ky. There was little reaction from Lonnie Jay, left, and Ronnie, when the barber surveyed the situation in the first picture. When it was all over the youngsters reflected on their experience and considered another cry. (AP Wirephoto)
